U. S. Commissioner Hears Brewery Case

SECOND SUSPECT IN PEABODY SHOOTING HELD IN $15,000

Thomas Faustino Arrested in Lawrence Last Night in Company With Lowell Girl Was Arraigned Here
Today—Police Charge Assault With Intent to Murder

Thomas Faustino, of 102 Lincoln street, alleged accomplice of Jose F. Souza in the shooting of Fred H. Peabody, prominent local milkman, on September 18, was arraigned in district court this morning on the same charge as that preferred against Souza—assault with intent to murder. Through his attorney, Cornelius J. O'Neill, he entered a plea of not guilty and was continued in $15,000 bonds until Saturday, when he will reappear in court with Souza.

Faustino was arrested in a Lawrence lodging house last night with Miss Lillian Diette, who disappeared from her home at 108 Lincoln street, the day after the shooting. A statewide search for her had been instituted by the police when it became known that she was on friendly terms with Faustino. She also was taken into custody last night, and this morning she was taken to the House of Good Shepherd in Boston, pending further investigation of her case. No charge has been preferred against her as yet.

Last night's investigation revealed the fact that Faustino had been in Lawrence since leaving this city on (Continued to last page)

COUNCIL MEMBERS DENOUNCE CITY'S FINANCIAL POLICY

Letter From Mayor Asking $35,000 for Charities Department Calls Forth Scathing Denunciation—Matter Referred to the Council Committee on Finance

A vigorous denunciation of the financial policy of the administration was precipitated at last night's meeting of the city council by the receipt of a letter from the mayor recommending $35,000 be provided for the charities department by transfer from the surplus overlay. This makes the third time since the presentation of the original budget that the charities department has cried for more money, first by a supplementary budget, secondly by a transfer to the salaries account, and now by this new proposed means.

A letter was read by President Gallagher, signed by the mayor and accompanied by a drawn order providing $15,000 for outdoor relief and $20,000 for the Chelmsford street hospital, same to be taken from the $62,000 more or less now making up the surplus overlay. Following a scathing denunciation of the financial juggling in the department it was voted to refer the recommendation and order to the council committee on finance for investigation and report.

LAWRENCE BREWERY CASE BEFORE U. S. COMMISSIONER WALSH

Former Head Brewmaster of Cold Spring Brewery Charged With Illegal Transportation—Case Charging
Another Defendant With Possession and Sale Dismissed

A case involving the Cold Spring brewery in Lawrence, with John Rathgab, former head brewmaster, charged with illegal transportation, as defendant, was heard this morning before U. S. Commissioner H. B. Walsh and although the latter expressed a strong inclination to order the discharge of Rathgab, he continued the case for disposal until Oct. 18.

Richard Loheschner of Lawrence, charged with possession and sale of beer, was ordered discharged by the commissioner on grounds of insufficient evidence on the part of the government as to the alcoholic content of the liquid involved. His case dated back to April.

Umpire: At plate, Connolly; at first base, Klein; at second base, Dineen; at third base, Quigley.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (By the Associated Press)—Managers McGraw and Harris were prepared to train the "big Berthas" of their pitching staffs at each other today in the fifth game of the world series, to gain an advantage before the scene shifts to the national capital for the sixth game. Both Neph and Johnson, the pitching "aces" of their respective teams, were prepared to renew their conflict.

The teams met in Washington tomorrow for the sixth game. Before the game starts, the club owners of the contending teams will meet and toss a coin to decide the place of the seventh game if such is necessary.

To date McGraw has exhibited nine members of his hurling staff, all except his youngsters, Huntzinger and Maun. Manager Harris has tried all of his staff except Zahniser.

Neph reported that his injured thumb was much improved today but he would not venture an opinion as to whether he would start today against Walter Johnson. The injured member is painted in today.

Weather Clear

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—After a night of rain the sun came out this afternoon and indications were that there would be good weather for the world series game this afternoon.

FATE OF LABOR GOVERNMENT

Great Britain Watching Today's Proceedings in the House of Commons

LONDON, Oct. 8 (by the Associated Press)—The nation is watching today's proceedings in the house of commons with more than usual interest, for upon the result of the debate depends the fate of Great Britain's first labor government and the question whether the country is to be involved in an immediate election. UNIVERSALISTS MEET AT GRACE CHURCH

The annual Merrimack valley conference of Universalist churches is being held today at the Grace Universalist church, and about 150 ministers and delegates from Universalist churches in Manchester and Nashua, N. H., and Haverhill, Lawrence, Methuen and this city are in attendance.

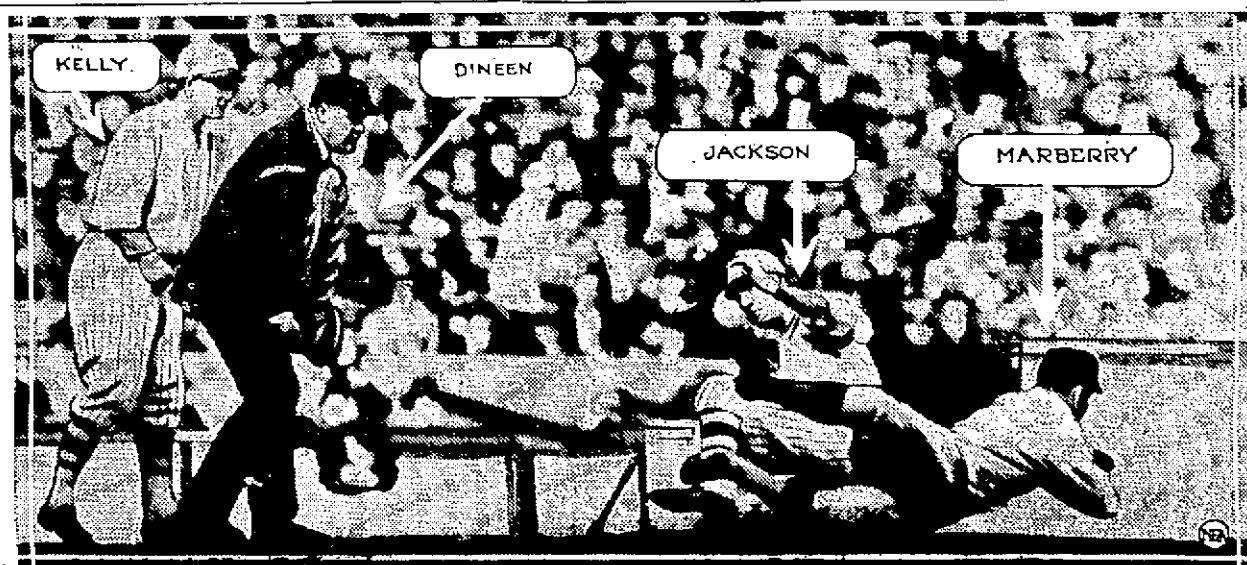

The conference is one of the most important events of the year in Universalist circles as matters of general interest in the conduct of church and Sunday school are discussed by leaders of church activities and an opportunity is also afforded the ministers (Continued to Page Three)

BEST WORLD SERIES PICTURE

The scores of world series photographers covering the championship games meet with unusual difficulties. They must leave the playing field when the game starts. Shadows cover the infield in the early innings. Yet thousands of fans want to see how the games are won and lost. The above is a most unusual photograph and is by all odds the best made so far in the series. It was taken by Bob Dorman, NEA Service and The Sun Photographer, with a long-range camera. In the second inning of the third game Marberry, Washington pitcher, uncorked a wild pitch. Jackson, of the Giants, was on third and dashed for home as Ruel, catcher, chased the ball. Marberry rushed in to take Ruel's throw. Here you see Jackson safe at home as he bowled over Marberry, with Umpire Dineen making the decision and Kelly, of the Giants, looking on.

DEMOCRATS PLAN MONSTER RALLY HERE FRIDAY EVENING

Speakers at Auditorium Will Include Senator Walsh, Hon. James M. Curley, Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
James S. Swift and Humphrey O'Sullivan

One of the most ambitious rallies ever planned in Lowell by the democratic party is scheduled to be held in Memorial Auditorium on Friday night, with United States Senator David I. Walsh, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, and Humphrey O'Sullivan of Lowell as the principal speakers. James S. Swift, democratic nominee for attorney-general, will complete the array of oratorical talent to be brought here for the big rally which it is expected will pack the Auditorium to its very doors.

A special rally for the residents of Col. Hinesville will be held on the same (Continued to Page Three)

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR JAMES BAYLES

The funeral of James Bayles, for more than half a century identified with newspaper work in Lowell, was held this afternoon from his home in the Dunstable road, Tyngsboro. Brief services were conducted at 2 o'clock by Rev. Wilson Watterson, Episcopal clergyman of Chelmsford Centre, and hymns were sung by the Monks of the monastery of this city. In attendance were many men with whom Mr. Bayles had enjoyed intimate acquaintance and who had been associated with him from time to time in the newspaper profession. The bearers were Dr. W. B. Kelly of Boston and Philip S. Marden, Robert F. Marden, Sidney R. Fleet, William G. Spence and Walter B. Kelly of the Courier.

WAS FOUND IN DYING CONDITION IN FIELD

As a result of the death yesterday in Methuen of James Doucette of 19 Clayton avenue, that town, who was found in a dying condition in a field where he had been lying unnoticed for two days, federal and Lawrence police yesterday afternoon raided the near-by establishment of John H. Harrison, 162-A Valley street, Lawrence, arrested Harrison and had him arraigned in Lowell today before U. S. Commissioner H. B. Walsh on charges (Continued to Page Three)

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre of the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

MEETING YESTERDAY AT MOREY SCHOOL

The first meeting of the season of the Morey Parent-Teacher association was held yesterday afternoon with over 100 members attending. With President Mrs. Walter Cleworth in the chair several business matters were disposed of and plans were made to secure a school library and to beautify the school grounds. An enjoyable program of readings by Miss Christian Lowney, a teacher in the Coburn school, and piano and vocal numbers by pupils of the Morey school, assisted by Miss Katherine Walsh and Carlton Gardner of the Morey school faculty was the accompaniment of the afternoon. At the conclusion of the entertainment, refreshments were served by Mrs. Eugene P. Crane, assisted by the hospital committee.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK ON CHINA

Arthur D. Prince was the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Teachers' home of Mrs. J. E. Langstaff in Stevens street. Mr. Prince talked interestingly on China telling of the conditions existing at present and describing the people and their customs. Under the direction of Mrs. James Crompton the house was prettily arranged with fall decorations and greenery. Following the talk a business session was held after which refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Frank J. Spaulding, Mrs. Charles Wing, Mrs. Schuyler Waller and Mrs. Mabel Osterman.

REGISTRATION SESSION

Eighty-seven new names were added to the city's voting list at a special meeting of the board of election commissioners at the Pawtucket school, last evening. An evening session of the election commissioners will be held this evening at the Morey school from 7 to 9 p. m.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE RADIO REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary Hoover laid before the radio conference here yesterday one problem in enforcement of the radio regulations which the department of commerce has not been able to solve. He told of receiving a letter recently from the mother of a boy in a middle western city, protesting to the department because the youngster could not be torn away from his radio set to go to bed at night.

To offset this case, however, the secretary cited thousands of letters to the department from grateful parents extolling the virtues of the radio in keeping their offsprings at home in the evening.

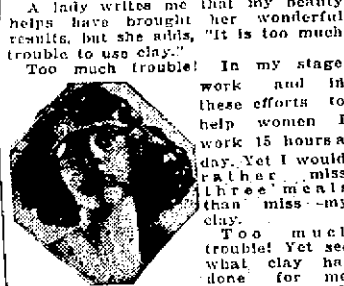

AUTOS IN COLLISION

Rev. Pinos Giner, formerly of this city, but now of Lawrence, while driving a sedan through the square last evening crashed into a machine owned by James L. Wallace of 47 Eustace street, causing minor damages. When Patroben Owen S. Conway and Francis O'Loughlin investigated the accident they found that the clergyman was driving with his arm in a sling, and that his license was not properly signed. The matter will be reported to the state registrar. Rev. Mr. Giner was formerly pastor of a Greek mission here. He was severely injured in a triple collision near Haverhill about two months ago.

To a Lady

Who refuses to use clay

Edna Wallace Hopper

Photo 1923

A lady writes me that my beauty news has brought her wonderful results, but she adds, "It is too much trouble to use clay."

Too much trouble! In my stage work and in these efforts to help women I work 15 hours a day. Yet I would rather miss three meals than miss my clay.

Too much trouble! Yet see what clay has done for me. Mine is a grandmother's age, yet I enjoy a debutante's complexion.

Let me send you a test of my White Youth Clay. It is not like the crude and muddy clays so many have employed. It is white, refined and delicate—the last word in facial clays. And it combines in one product many superlative helps.

My Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mura it. It removes the cause of blackheads and blemishes—it brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy after glow which amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores, eliminates surplus oil.

Many women seem to drop ten years with one application of this clay. To countless women it is bringing priceless benefits—now beauty and new youth. Are such results not worth to you a few minutes twice a week?

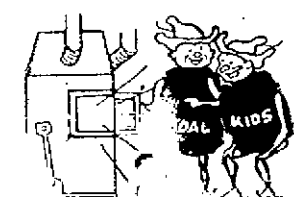

Clay is a beauty essential. Famous beauties have for ages used it. No woman can hope to look her best without it, or to keep her youth as I have. You can recognize clay users in every circle by their beautiful complexions.

Mine is a super-clay—a new-type clay—based on 20 years of scientific study. I have placed it with all drug stores, all toilet counters, so you can get it. The cost is 50 cents and $1. You will thank me for it—always—when you learn what it means to you. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB HAS OPENING MEETING

The 30th season of the Educational club was opened yesterday afternoon in the club headquarters in Kitson hall with a most delightful and varied program of readings and vocal and instrumental selections under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Leggat, president ex-officio.

The hall was prettily arranged with autumn leaves and fall flowers, including gladioli, marigolds, dahlias and mums. Previous to the entertainment program a short business session was held with Mrs. Walter S. Jessop, president, in the chair. A report of the year's activities, including the summer out-of-town held during the past months was read by Mrs. Walter Cox, recording secretary. Following the roll-call and the flower collection, the latter in charge of Mrs. E. W. Maxim, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, a member of the club, presented the club a beautiful American flag, made by Mrs. Campbell. In making the presentation Mrs. Lovejoy said: "In the years before the war, I was greatly impressed by a lecture given by ex-Gov. Handley of Indiana on 'Patriotism in Peace'. Patriotism means more today than it has ever meant. I find this a fitting time to present to you in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, this symbol of our country, knowing that it will inspire in you a greater spirit of loyalty and true patriotism in your work."

Following the presentation, the Star Spangled Banner was sung by the audience with Mrs. A. H. Kludjian at the piano.

In behalf of Mrs. Leggat, Mrs. Lovejoy also presented the club two handsome red velvet seats embroidered in gold which will be used on the officers' tables.

Six applications for membership were received and turned over to the advisory committee to be acted upon. At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Paul Huss rendered several piano solos which afforded the players an ample opportunity to display her ability as an accomplished pianist.

Mrs. Frances Scott then delighted the members with several readings which were greatly appreciated.

Mr. B. Leggat gave a number of vocal numbers, including "Little Mother of Mine," and "Tasted By Your Window," which were as well received by the audience as they were rendered by the singer.

It was announced that because of the reception to be tendered Miss Lucile A. Pillsbury, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday next in Kitson hall, the meeting of the Educational club would be held in the girls' club room in the rear of the hall.

Ten was served and a social hour enjoyed following the entertainment program with the following officers present: President, Mrs. Walter S. Jessop; first vice president, Mrs. B. H. Whitley; second vice president, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy; recording secretary,

BRAKE-TESTING DEVICE HAS ARRIVED

The "dinner can," far-famed brake-testing device used by the state registrar of motor vehicles in his campaign to make the streets safe for automobiles and pedestrians, arrived in this city last evening and will be put into immediate use in checking up the braking equipment of local automobiles.

The instrument, officially known as the "decelerometer," was tried out on the Lawrence end of the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard yesterday by Chief Inspector Devine of the motor equipment department, with inspectors Lou- prent and Fitzgerald of Lowell and Balley and Moore of Lawrence interested assistants. Last evening one of the "dinner cans" arrived in Lowell and will be used here by Inspector Fitzgerald. The following table, used by the state inspectors in checking up brakes, is self explanatory:

Very bad	Bad	Not passable	Good brakes	Perfect brakes
Speed of car miles per hr.
10	8.53	10.0	11.2	15.0
12	12.6	14.4	16.2	21.0
14	19.7	25.5	25.2	32.8
16	25	40	45	60
20	54.7	82.5	90.8	93.7
25	78.8	90.0	101	135
30				180
35				225

The "dinner can" works without any connection to the running mechanism of the car and a test can be made in very little time. The instrument was first made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards and has been perfected by Professor James, who was formerly connected with the bureau and who now manufactures the instruments.

The machine receives its name, "dinner can," from its shape, to the casual observer it certainly appears to be nothing more than a dinner pail. It works on the theory of inertia and consists of a pendulum swinging in a body of heavy coal oil and operating a series of gears, which in turn connect with a dial and show, regardless of the speed, the automobile is making, the number of feet required by the automobile to stop if it was proceeding at a rate of 20 miles per hour when the brakes were applied. The instrument has been tested by technical authorities throughout the country and found to be very accurate.

Elks' Card of Thanks

The officers and members of Lowell Lodge, No. 87, B. P. O. NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMERE, 34 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman
Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in almost no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CAMPBELL, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20
Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question: "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

DAWES CARRIES FIGHT TO LA FOLLETTE STATES

DAWES' SPECIAL EN ROUTE THROUGH IOWA, MASON CITY, Oct. 8.—The republican fight against the La Follette independent candidacy in Iowa, was led today by the republican party's chief campaign speaker and vice-presidential nominee, Charles G. Dawes. The direction of the fight was taken over by Mr. Dawes late yesterday when he entered the state, made a rear-platform speech at Northwood and spoke to an audience that jammed the Mason City armory last night.

Leaving Mason City, the day's itinerary took the republican vice-presidential nominee through the section of the state in which the La Follette strength is most feared by republican leaders, and provided for five Iowa speeches. After leaving the state late in the day, Mr. Dawes will speak at Norfolk, Nebraska, before swinging up into Wyoming for speeches at Douglas and Casper.

The subject selected for today's speeches by Mr. Dawes was the same as discussed in all his more recent addresses—the danger as he sees it to constitutional government from the La Follette movement.

Mr. Dawes in his initial Iowa addresses ignored the attacks by Iowa's junior senator, Smith W. Brookhart, who demanded that Mr. Dawes be removed from the republican ticket—a demand that among other things, led the republican state central committee to declare last week that the senator had repudiated the republican party.

A single armed direct shot was fired at the senator by Mr. Dawes last night, in his Mason City speech, and it was loudly applauded. No reference, however, was made to Mr. Brookhart by name.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP MELBOURNE, Oct. 6.—The latest estimate of the Australian wheat yield is 118,000,000 bushels. (The Australian wheat crop last year was 123,000,000 bushels.)

JOHN W. DAVIS SPEAKS IN WESTERN NEW YORK

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, began today the last lap of his drive in western New York state, leaving here for a noon-day speaking engagement in Rochester and the final address of the tour tonight in Buffalo. He described his visits to Schenectady, Albany, Utica and here as "particularly encouraging," and told members of his party he now was entirely confident the November verdict would be favorable to the democratic national and state tickets.

THREE KILLED, SCORE INJURED IN CLASH

ATLAHABAD, British India, Oct. 8.—Three persons were killed and a score injured in a clash between Hindus and Moslems here last night. Troops were called to assist the police. The city now is quiet.

people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface remedies can reach the disorder. Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often soothe away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general toilet use—the ointment to check the first bit of skin eruption. At all druggists.

BORAH SAYS G. O. P. ON DEFENSIVE

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., Oct. 8.—Senator W. E. Borah made his first political speech of the campaign in this city last night. He declared that the republican party was on the defensive. The men who were responsible for this embarrassing position are, he said, those who had defended Newberryism and Limerism, those who had piled taxes upon the people in order to create offices for shoddy henchmen, the departments of government the miserable spawn of broken down political machines.

Senator Borah did not name those to whom he referred, but he was of the opinion that the man or woman who kept in touch with current affairs would have little trouble in making some fairly accurate guesses. His speech made some of the old stand-patters who were in the audience reduced to a state of confusion. He did, however, refer to Senator La Follette as one whose friendship he enjoyed and one for whose sincerity of purpose and ability he had great admiration. He said his position as to the La Follette movement was the same as that he took in 1912, when his friend, Col. Roosevelt, sought to organize a new party.

POLICE FIND LIQUOR AND REVOLVER

While searching for liquor in the premises occupied by George Michaels at Fletcher and Lagrange streets last night, liquor officers found, besides a quantity of liquor, a revolver. Michaels was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of unlawfully possessing a revolver, and was fined $100. The gun was forfeited.

Officers Aldrich, Kelly, Liston and Levey, found a small portion of liquor goods in defendant's store, but did not prefer illegal keeping charges against him when the more important discovery was made.

PRODUCER OF "VANITIES OF 1924" ARRESTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The license commissioner and the district attorney's office will be called upon to furnish expert testimony to determine where, art begins and licentiousness ends when the hearing in the case of Earl Carroll, producer of "Vanities of 1924," resumed Thursday. Magistrate James M. Harrett, after studying three large advertising posters which were the cause of Carroll's arrest on a charge of displaying indecent pictures last night, said he was unable to decide without expert testimony whether or not the pictures are indecent.

Carroll, through his attorney, entered a plea of not guilty.

The magistrate paroled him after exacting a promise that he return to court Thursday for further examination.

SAVE! BUY FLOUR NOW!

Our best advice is to buy flour now before a further advance. Wheat is the highest it has been for several years, and large quantities of flour are being shipped to foreign countries, which makes the supply short here. From present indications flour will be from $2.00 to $3.00 a barrel higher this winter than it is right now.

Council Members Denounce City's Financial Policy

Adjournment of the council was until next Tuesday night in order that not too great a delay might ensue. The mayor's statement that the charity department is on the verge of bankruptcy, following so closely a similar statement as to the street department, created considerable interest in the council, particularly when the staggering sum of $12,000 for the year was asked to carry out the year.

"At the outset of the financial year," said Councilor Cosgrove, "it was a well known fact and called to the attention of the mayor that he had skimped on the charity appropriation. Later he came in with the supplementary budget that was supposed to carry those ill. From the start it has been plain that with the figure juggling in this department there has been something in view—some political purpose to be served. The responsibility for the spending of these great amounts of money is laid at our feet by the people. In the face of that we have this false tax reduction, if that is economy, retrenchment and reform that has been manifested here then I am at a loss for words. There is too much of this mystifying juggling of figures to let the people know the facts as to how their finances are being run and it is time we should stand up in our shoes and declare ourselves not the addled-pated atoms of humanity that we are thought to be. We haven't any say as to the expenses of these great money, yet we are the ones who are held up as extravagant. It is time for the people to rise in their might and forever make of record their protest against this continual game of political football that is being played with us as the pawns."

Councilor Daly rose to speak against the motion of Messrs. Chretien and McPadden that the communication and order be referred to the finance committee, stating that immediate action, in his opinion, was required.

Mr. McPadden said he wished to be on record as opposing the order in accord with the views of Councilor Cosgrove. "I have no desire to interfere in such a manner as to bring about the shutdown of any municipal department, especially where the poor and the helpless are the ones affected," he said. "I agree with my colleague that we have a false rate and because of departments short of funds we are getting figures, figures, figures, and we seem bound to get more. The thing to do is let this matter go into the hands of the finance committee and let it find out for ourselves the true state of affairs and then reach our decision as to what shall be done."

Mr. Chretien moved that the superintendent of charities be advised his presence would be required at the finance committee meeting. President Gallagher, chairman of the committee, stated that the superintendent, the mayor and others would be invited to come to the committee session. Mr. Sadler said all the council should be given the opportunity to attend and he was informed that the opportunity would be given.

Mr. Daly said he doubts if under the municipal finance law the council is empowered to transfer funds for department, maintenance set aside for overlay, presumably for the abatement of taxes. Mr. Gallagher stated he believed that in cases of "unforeseen emergency" it is proper to make such transfers and he stated that after hearing all the facts deemed such a condition exists the council could concur and vote the money. Chairman Gallagher said he would call a meeting of the finance committee to discuss the project, the meeting to be held a little later in the week.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Recently Elected Grand Knight to Be Installed Tomorrow Evening

Charles J. Landers, recently elected grand knight of Lowell council, 12, Knights of Columbus, will be formally installed in office at appropriate exercises in Liberty hall, Memorial Auditorium, tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. District Deputy J. Lowe McMahon and suite of Wakefield will be the installing officers and the principal speaker will be Hon. John E. Swift of Milford, able state secretary of the organization and one of the leading orators among the Catholic laity in the state of Massachusetts. There will be an entertainment, luncheon and claret.

The new grand knights will assume office as successors to Frank A. Groves. Mr. Landers has been affiliated with local and state branches of the order for a number of years, having served as a district deputy for five years. He is well qualified by experience to uphold the office and has the unanimous backing of a large membership in his future undertaking.

The other officers to be installed are as follows: Deputy grand knight, George E. Murphy; chancellor, James J. Bruin; recorder, Patrick J. Sweeney; financial secretary, Philip Breen; warden, Frank J. Finnegan; treasurer,

Thomas J. Fitzgerald; outside guard, John J. Lane; inside guard, Eugene Fontaine; advocate, P. Harold Ready; trustee for three years, Dr. James P. Gaffney.

Conspicuous in the list of officers named above is the financial secretary, Philip J. Breen, who has served continuously in that capacity almost 25 years. His long term of office is the reward of diligent devotion to his duties, of conscientious application to the many details connected with his work, and of loyal co-operation with his superior officers and brother-members.

The Knights will observe Columbus Day by marching in a body to St. Peter's church, where mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain.

The annual autumn dancing party will be held in the Commodore ball room next Friday night. The proceeds of this event will be turned over to the building fund.

EAGLES HOLD WELL ATTENDED MEETING

A well-attended meeting of Lowell Eagle, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last evening at the Eagle home, 34 Gorham street, with Thomas F. Quinn in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted, five propositions for membership were received and four candidates were initiated into the order. The revised by-laws, adopted at the last Grand Eagle convention, were read

100 EPISCOPAL BISHOPS AT CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Representatives of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church and members of the national council met in joint session today to outline the program the church will pursue for the next three years. The session today marks the first joint meeting of the two bodies since the national council was organized in 1919. One hundred bishops from all parts of the country were here for the meeting which was attended by special services in the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The church's 1925 budget and foreign and domestic missionary problems were discussed by the national council in a preliminary meeting yesterday.

and discussed, and a communication from the grand worthy president was also read.

The report of the building committee in which it was recommended to hold opening ceremonies at the new home on Nov. 12 was adopted, and several other committee reports were read. A committee of 50 was named to devise ways and means to enlarge the building fund.

Following the meeting, Brother Daniel Sullivan gave an interesting talk on the Eagles' Non-Contributory Old Age Pension bill.

TO PROMOTE TOLERANCE

At Utica, N. Y., has been formed a society to be known as the Hamilton-Jefferson Association, the object of which is to promote tolerance in economics, politics and religion, or in other words to put in practice the patriotic principles of the constitution. Unfortunately, it appears that fanatical bigots and agitators appealing to race and religious prejudice have succeeded in sowing the seeds of hatred among people who should be friends and who have common interests in working for the welfare and happiness of their country and its people. It is found that these outbreaks come periodically, inspired by a spirit of evil under the guise of patriotism and religion, setting neighbor against neighbor, brother against brother and not infrequently child against parent. As a rule these outbreaks run their course as a form of mental disease and then disappear, leaving but an unsavory memory of effort, ostensibly for high aims, but in reality causing social discord, suspicion, jealousy and destructive enmity and opposition where there should be harmony and co-operation.

Two societies supposed to be rivals but in reality having much in common, particularly in patriotism, tolerance and loyalty to the constitution, have decided to form this organization which it is hoped will serve as an anti-toxin to the disease of sectionalism whether it be incited by the Ku Klux Klan or an organization by any other name. The Klan is the aggressor and the anti-klan is the result. When people are attacked and an attempt made to ostracize them or deprive them of their rights, they naturally organize for their protection.

With a view to ending this miserable business, the Hamilton-Jefferson association is formed. It will supply a long-felt want in standing against the fanatical agitators who run counter to the basic principles of our constitution and menace the liberties won by the revolutionary fathers and sustained and defended by heroic sacrifice through a series of destructive wars. A society composed of equal numbers of Masons and Knights of Columbus, can promote tolerance by exposing the lies by which the promoters of sectional organizations impose upon their dupes.

METALLIC AND PAPER MONEY

If a bank told you that you could walk into its vaults and have all the gold you could carry away in one trip, how much would you go for? Of course, you would go for a great deal, but you would not go for a great deal more than you would for a great deal of silver.

A gold robbery always appeals to the imagination of a fiction reader. And yet gold is so heavy that no man could steal a fortune unless he used horses or a motor truck.

There are not many people who could carry $30,000 in gold a city block without sitting down to rest panting. The old saying, "worth his weight in gold," therefore, does not mean as much as popularly believed.

Silver is even worse. Fifty dollars in silver coin is like lugging around a small stove. That is why the silver dollar is not popular.

Uncle Sam is trying to make the silver dollar popular again. His reason is that the upkeep of paper money representing his silver, costs about 3 per cent a year of its face value. Silver certificates wear out quickly and new ones have to be printed in their place, after repeated launderings. This is expensive.

To try to get people to carry silver dollars again is futile. The public simply will not do it. Furthermore, such an attempt is primitive and a reflection on public intelligence.

People long ago insisted on having the actual precious metal. Education and confidence in the national government's integrity have shattered ancient fears. We accept the silver certificate form of paper money quite as trustfully as we would take the real silver, possibly more so.

If the upkeep of paper money is too heavy a drain on taxes, why not use tokens?

By tokens we mean discs of metal redeemable by the government at a value of $1, same as the silver dollar. To avoid confusion with other small coins, the dollar tokens could be made of aluminum, provided it is not too easily counterfeited. There should be no mistaking the light weight.

A public that had confidence in her checks and still surrenders its hats for a bit of pasteboard preferred by the checking girl surely would take kindly to a light-weight metal token representing the silver dollar.

MURDER MYSTERY

The state detectives have in hand the investigation of a murder mystery, the victim of which was found in a pond at Norwood last Saturday. The body was bound and weighted in precisely the same way as was the body of Clements, found in the Shawsheen river. Various circumstances lead the detectives to believe that both murders were committed by the same parties or at least that the bodies of the two men were disposed of by the same person or persons at widely different points. A young man named Halilo Mowbray has confessed to being a party to the Clements murder, and various circumstances lead the detectives to suspect him of having something to do with the other murder also. It is expected, therefore, that the connection will be established between the two murders and it may be known that they were committed by the same person.

The number of trackmen of this kind recently revealed indicates a growing disregard for the sacredness of human life and greater boldness in the commission of murder and other capital offenses. Banditry, highway robbery, burglary and bootlegging are now carried on fearlessly by criminal gangs whose numbers are daily increasing as a result of the failure of the police of the big cities to capture such criminals and bring about their conviction and punishment.

COLLEGE EXTENSION COURSES

It must have been quite disappointing to the officials of the college extension department of the state board of education to find that the number of night of the classes the number who went to the high school to register in various courses was ridiculously small as compared with what it should be. It would seem that the young people of this city do not appreciate the splendid opportunities offered them in these courses. It is true that a great many of our young people are attending the evening high school, taking up

SEEN AND HEARD

You can't uplift people by sleeping on their necks.

You hear as many people laughing in small houses as you do in big ones.

The trouble with taking your own time is you never have any left over.

A Thought

Frankness Suggested

Although she had never been married at all, her views on marriage were very strict. So of course she had to call on the young divorcee and tell her so. Frankness was one of the virtues she prized herself. So the conversation had not progressed far before she declared to the young bride, "Pardon my saying so but don't you think you might have waited more than a month after your divorce to marry your second husband?" "O, yes, you really think so?" replied the bride. "I'll make it a point to wait longer next time."

Very Clever Lawyer

The criminal lawyer believed in being absolutely frank with his clients, and accordingly, when a man came to him charged with stealing a pig he said, "Now I will be perfectly open with you. If I take your case you must in the first place tell me honestly: Did you or did you not steal this pig?" "Well, sir, I did," the man admitted; "but I have a big family and no money, and I was in need of meat for them." "That's all right," replied the lawyer. "You bring me half of that pig and I'll take your case. When the case came into the court the lawyer addressed the jury thus: "This man did not get any more of the pig than I did." The verdict was "Not guilty."

Safety First

Lord Reading—better known to some as Sir Rufus Isaacs—recently told the story of his first bribe. He had been retained to defend a man, a street trader, who had been summoned for selling bad figs. Mr. Isaacs, as he then was, expatiated at length on the quality of the fruit, and in this he was, as was only natural, backed up by his client. Presently the magistrate observed, "The defendant, then, tasted the fruit?" He asked. They both confessed that they had not. Whereupon the magistrate suggested that either the defendant or his counsel should eat some in court. Mr. Isaacs turned to his client: "Go on," he whispered, "and eat one or two." "What will happen if I don't?" whispered the other in reply. "You'll lose the case." "All right," answered the defendant resignedly, "then I'll lose it."

"In the Cool of the Evening"

In the cool of the evening,
When the low, sweet whisp'ers
Of the wind, the low, sweet whisp'ers
When the laborers turn their homeward
And the weary have their will,
When the songers of the song
Or the forest aisles are shaken,
Is it but the wind that cometh
O'er the far green hill?

For they say 'tis but the sunset winds
That wander through the heather,
Rustle all the meadow grass
And bend the dewy fern;
They say 'tis but the wind that howls
The reeds in prayer together,
And fill the shaken pools with fire
Along the shadowy burn.

In the beauty of the twilight,
In the garden that he loveth,
They have velleed his lovely feature
With the darkness of a mine,
Through his garden, through his Garden.
It is but the wind that moveth
No more! But oh, the miracle,
The miracle is the same.

In the cool of the evening,
When the sky is an old story,
Slowly dying, but remembered eye,
And loved with passion still,
Hush! The fringes of life

In the fading golden glory
Softly rustling as in dream
O'er the far green hill—
—ALFRED NOYES.

COOLIDGE TO GREAT DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A reception of delegates to the national radio conference here was on the program of President Coolidge today. Other conventions meeting here in the near future will be similarly greeted by the president and, with the exception of two other engagements, it appears that he will confine his speaking activities for the next two weeks at least to such occasions.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

James E. Markham, president of the David L. Walsh club, delivered a brief but eloquent talk at the democratic rally in Memorial Auditorium Tuesday night, speaking particularly of the need of getting out the vote. He said in part:

"In attempting to carry out the purposes of our organization we were immediately confronted with the startling situation of the large number of unregistered citizens. This is a situation which should not exist. There is a moral obligation and civic duty upon every citizen, man or woman, over 21 years of age to register and to vote on election day.

"To vote and be a part of our government should be the pride and boast of every American citizen. They owe this duty to themselves, to their public officials and to their country. It is a duty they owe to themselves, for the supreme court has decided that in determining the representative and senatorial districts the population is to be taken into consideration, but upon the number of registered voters. Hence, if you are not registered you are not being represented.

"It is a duty they owe to their public officials, for by their vote they can commend and reward an official who has been faithful to his trust, and on the other hand they can condemn or cast out of office one who is or has been unworthy.

"It is a duty they owe to their country, for America will live so long and no longer than when it ceases to be a representative government—in the words of the immortal Lincoln—Of the people, by the people and for the people.

"Here in Lowell there are thousands of unregistered citizens—this potential strength should not be allowed to remain dormant. Therefore, it behooves us and each of us to look around at our relatives, friends and neighbors and beseech ourselves and see whether or not these people are registered, and if not, to urge that they perform their duty.

"If this is done we can be reassured of democratic success for you will find these people in the ranks of democracy which is the party of the people, great principles for the broad and great principles of the democratic party and against republican dishonesty and corruption and a lack of leadership which has produced nothing but industrial chaos, widespread unemployment and a low level in all human activities.

"Again let me urge you to see that this work is done, and done well."

Here is a warning that should be heeded by all owners of autos and by those who are employed in garages, where this poison is generated in large quantities:

Monoxide gas is odorless, of about the same gravity as air which causes it to spread in all directions, and kills without warning. Dr. A. O. Gietler, toxicologist of a New York hospital, explained, commenting upon the death of Mr. No. 10 West 40th street, who died of carbon monoxide poisoning from an automobile exhaust cannot be detected by odor. This constitutes its greatest danger, he said.

A small quantity of carbon monoxide is sufficient to kill. Symptoms of its effect are drowsiness or faintness, occasionally followed by nausea. Often a victim lies down to rest and is dead before he realizes his danger.

"When one feels a fatigue or faintness in a closed room which he cannot explain," Dr. Gietler advised, "he should get out into the open air, breathe fresh air and take exercises."

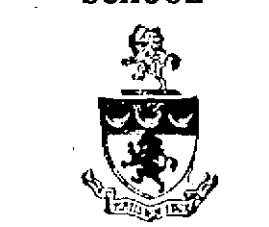

The opening meeting of the fall-winter season of the Middlesex Women's club, which was held Monday afternoon, was an unusually large attendance by the members. The program for the year as outlined by Mrs. Charles H. Tolson, president of the organization, offers many literary and musical entertainments. The attractions will be made more interesting by the presence of a large gathering. Mr. Wood is a former vice president of the club. He is a World War veteran, having served 14 months in the Aviation Corps. He was quite surprised when he found the library will be reopened promptly after the entertainment program to further accommodate the members.

At the regular meeting of the Central East End club last night, January Wood, recently appointed a member of the Lowell police department, was presented a purse of gold by his fellow members in recognition of his popularity. The presentation was made by President Bailey. In the presence of a large gathering, Mr. Wood is a former vice president of the club. He is a World War veteran, having served 14 months in the Aviation Corps. He was quite surprised when he found the library will be reopened promptly after the entertainment program to further accommodate the members.

Evening Courses

To make the most rapid and thorough progress in an Evening Course demands a method of teaching whereby the pupils are in close personal touch with the teacher.

The success of our Evening Course is due to the careful selection of small, individualized teaching for each pupil.

There are hundreds of young people in this city who have incomplete business training and consequently are unable to give satisfaction. Our Evening School offers an opportunity to increase their value both to themselves and to their employers.

POTHLER MURDER TRIAL

Former Department of Justice Agent to Tell of Alleged Confession

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—James J. Lee, a Connecticut garage man and former department of justice agent, was ready to testify at Tacoma as to statements alleged to have been made to him in New York by former Sergeant-Dugler Roland H. Pothler and of a purported confession to him in the Providence, R. I., jail by Pothler, who is on trial in the federal court for the murder of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite on the Camp Lewis military reservation October 25, 1913.

Major Cronkhite was shot to death while on a practice march with the 210th Engineers. Pothler and Captain Robert Rosenbluth are held on charges of murder as a result of the mysterious death of Major Cronkhite. Rosenbluth will be tried later.

Pothler was curious as to the difference between "killing" and "murdering" a man, David M. Jordan of Providence, R. I., testified yesterday.

Jordan, who formerly was a deputy United States marshal at Providence, said that he never had heard Pothler admit murdering Major Cronkhite.

Other witnesses have testified that Pothler made such an admission. Jordan said, however, that he had heard Pothler ask:

"Can you kill a man without murdering him?"

Ralph Navarro of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frederick S. Hoekley of New York, special agents of the department of justice at the time Pothler was first arrested in March, 1921, preceded Jordan on the stand. Both of them said that Pothler's presence and with Jordan present, declared in a New York city restaurant on March 25, 1921, that he had killed Major Cronkhite at the instigation of Robert Rosenbluth.

Jordan said he had no remembrance of "any of the stuff" Navarro and Hoekley narrated.

Navarro testified that Pothler while in the restaurant said that Major Cronkhite was a "pretty good fellow" but that Rosenbluth had a strange power over him.

Much of the session yesterday had to do with the removal of Pothler from Providence to New York city in March, 1921.

Listen in

A hundred million people, yes, perhaps it's more or less, have fallen for the latest fad of all. We all were kind of doubtful but we've changed a bit, I guess, and one by one we finally have to fall.

The radio has got us and it holds us in its grip. We're pickin' things at random from the air. We all are mighty thankful when a friend hands out a tip as to something that we didn't know was there.

There are lots of little buttons that you push or pull or turn, but a lot of them are really never used. We think we've done the main thing when we get the tubes to burn and with other little angles were confused.

Every night we get a station that we haven't had before; then we switch before the number's half way through. And then there comes a rasping from another station's score, but we never know exactly who is who.

Yep, the radio has got us; we have fallen with a crash, and the craze that's hit is really one that's rare. We are satisfied and appy, even though we're getting trash, just as long as we get something from the air.

OPENS FALL AND WINTER SEASON

The opening meeting of the fall and winter season of the Lowell Congregational club was held last night at the Pawtucket church, where members enjoyed a splendid dinner. A splendid dinner followed a social hour, after which came a short business meeting and an address on "Shadows" by Rev. John M. Phillips of Manchester. The social hour was made more pleasant by the organ playing of Sidney R. Fleet and a group of songs by Miss Amy L. French, accompanied by Miss Margaret Martin. John H. Preston, club president, presided at the after-dinner exercises. The yellow pumpkins, corn in the stalk and autumn foliage were attractively used in a seasonal decorative scheme. Rev. Mr. Phillips was an entertainer.

ing speaker and bluntly expressed his views on Sunday amusements. He condemned baseball on the Sabbath day and deplored theatre performances. He touched upon politics but briefly, saying that the government would stand firm, no matter how the country expressed itself on election day. He spoke of the shadows of adversity and defeat and gave faith as the antidote.

Cutting the Pattern According to the Cloth

Every woman who makes her own clothes knows what this means.

She lays out her patterns with care, allowing each piece only what it needs. In other words, she BUDGETS her cloth before she cuts into it, in order to get all she can out of it.

In the same manner you may BUDGET your income. So much money you have and no more. Out of this amount must come the various pieces of expense.

As the clever woman lays out her patterns on the cloth, so can she, by using the

"Goose" With Homer and Three Singles for Perfect Batting Average Leading Factor in 7 to 4 Victory — Mogridge Twirls Well Until Eighth

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (By the Associated Press)—"Ducky" Harris, manager of the Senators, and John McGraw, veteran pilot of the Giants, met today in the fifth game of their seven round bout for the world's baseball championship.

The first four seasons developed into a battle of wits and wiles with the margin strongly in favor of the southpaw swings. Yesterday, Harris evened up the fight by taking the fourth round by a score of 7 to 4, the widest margin of the struggle. George Mogridge, a left-handed pitcher, and Goose Goslin, a port-slided batter, fished the Giants silly.

Today, Manager McGraw will revert to his southpaw tactics and use Arthur Nehf if the latter's injured hand permits. Otherwise, the New York hurler will be Bentley. The Watson hand punch which won the pennant for his team, Walter Johnson, veteran of 18 years of diamond battling.

Meanwhile, the public is enjoying the baseball battle of the century. Yesterday 42,243 people, the largest paid attendance which ever witnessed a game at the Polo Grounds, cheered the visiting Senators even more than the home team Giants. Today another record breaker is expected.

The purse for which the teams are battling amounts to $248,319.35. Each club will draw $250,000 by winning or $382,500 by losing. The winning Senator figure would be about $447,750 and the losing amount $443,750.

Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop of the Senators, was not able to play yesterday because of a charley-horse and will not be used today unless the injury has improved beyond expectations. Bludge took his place at short and Miller replaced Bludge at third. The absence of the veteran Peckinpaugh weakened the impen-

MURPHY READY FOR LOWELL HIGH WILL HAVE FINNEGAN BOUT TO GO SOME MONDAY

Reports received today from Billy Murphy's training camp indicate that he is in fine condition for his bout here tomorrow night with Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston. Billy rested up yesterday after his victory over Young Kenoyer at Nashua Monday night and today engaged in a light workout. He will take things easily and expects to be in top form when called into the ring to face the Boston soulinpaw.

In the Kenoyer bout Murphy worked cautiously in the early rounds and as a result he allowed the Derry champion to pile up a lead. But in the latter stages the Lowell flash tore in and soon changed the picture. He fought to the front with a dazzling attack that had Kenoyer bewildered. Murphy finished strong and the decision was a proper one.

Finnegan, who has been after Murphy for a year for a bout, is said to be "in the pink." He has been training in Boston for a couple of weeks and he has worked against southpaws in an endeavor to perfect an attack and defense for the Lowell boy. The fight he has scheduled and will enter the ring tomorrow night confident of stopping the victorious sweep of the "pride of the Aere."

Tommy Leonard of Lowell and Johnny McBride of Lawrence will meet in the semi-final. There will be two six round preliminaries.

Out of seven games, losing only to the Aere Athletics.

The Indians are practicing diligently for their tilt with the Parkvales of Lawrence next Sunday.

The Kenwood Rovers are down on the books for a game with the Lion A.C. of Haverhill in the down-river city next Sunday.

The Oakleaves of Centralville, who were in the running for the sectional championship last year, have reorganized and are prepared to tackle the best outfits in the city, the O.M.L. Cadets, Kenwood Rovers, Indians and Butlers preferred. Gleason, former Indian, is coaching the team.

The Butlers are practicing in anticipation of coming games. This team is out to wrest city championship honors from the Lafayette last Sunday from the O. M. L. Cadets. Their view was a big feather in their cap.

The Gorham A. C. accepts the challenge of the Oakleaves for Sunday, Oct. 12. The Gorhams is a team composed of Casey, Feeney, Brown, Phil, Bunker, L. Wilson, Doc Wilson, Janson, Clancy, Kahan, Belinsky, Tsogans and Pawthrop.

The Alpines challenge the Highland the points after.

EPINARD TRIES OUT MILE AND QUARTER TRACK

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 8.—Conditioning of candidates for the third international special race having progressed to the intensive stage, Trainer Eugene Leigh announced he would send his French champion, Epinard, over the full mile and a quarter distance at Latonia today.

Much interest centres in this trial, as some horsemen have been inclined to doubt the European candidate's ability to negotiate such a testing distance in a manner indicating that he would prove a match for the many sturdy "routers" he will be pitted against on Saturday.

Lowell Amateur Champion To Make Professional Debut on Friday Night

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Al Mello of Lowell, national amateur 147-pound champion, will desert the ranks of the amateur boxers Friday night when he will participate in one of the preliminaries to the Johnny Wilson-Frank Moody bout at Mechanics building, Boston, under the auspices of the Suffolk A. C.

Under the management of Bobby Goldman of Boston, the popular Lowell boy will be opposed to some worthy opponent to be selected by matchmaker Tom Goodwin. Who that opponent will be will be known tomorrow, but neither Goldman nor Mello is worrying. The Boston fight public has sublime confidence in the Lowell southpaw's ability to tip over any rival that would be pitted against him at this stage of his professional ring career.

Mello, as a ring performer, is probably better known in Boston than in his native city, for of the 60 bouts in which he has engaged during his year and a half of amateur ring activity, more than half of them were fought in Greater Boston. He has scored 45 knockouts during his brief career, but his greatest liab triumph was in the Boston Arena last spring when he captured the national amateur welterweight title by defeating five opponents, including three champions—John Rinal of Cleveland, the reigning king, the Metropolitan champion and the New England titleholder.

His defeat in his third bout at the Olympic championships at Paris was reported to have been a rank injustice, but Mello himself magnanimously acknowledged that his Argentine opponent was a fine boxer, albeit he allows that the contest was exceedingly close.

Al, who has always trained at the Lisbon club, of which he is a member, will condition himself for his first professional bout at Kelley & Hayes gymnasium, and it is a certainty that a large delegation from the Spindle City, headed by representatives of the Lisbon club and St. Peter's Cadets, will witness his professional debut.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB MEETING

An interesting talk on the subject of the preservation of the state's fish and game and the putting down of lawless hunting and fishing, featured a regular meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association at its quarters in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street, last evening.

President James E. Burns called the meeting to order and a number of committee reports were made. The outing committee's report was received with great interest and showed that the affair was but a financial and social success. Upon completion of the business, Secretary James Clark of the Massachusetts Fish and Game association was introduced by the president.

Mr. Clark's talk was informal and he called upon club members to voice their sentiments towards proposals which he made. In opening his talk, he told of the great depletion of the state's fish and game supply and said that he believed unless rapid action is taken, this state will be the first in the country to be left without any fish or game.

The lawless hunter, the man who goes out with his gun regardless of open or closed seasons and who bags considerably more game than the law allows for, was the cause of the rapid depletion of the game supply by Mr. Clark and he advanced several propositions to do away with this menace.

One of the proposals advanced by many sportsmen that each club lease large tracts of land in its district and build up a private hunting ground. His plan, he declared, was not feasible for the ordinary club member on the ground that, while at first the expense would not be great, yearly development of the game reserve would call for rapidly increasing dues which in a few years the dues would be far more than the ordinary man would care to pay. The result would be, he said, that the reserves would be owned by two or three persons, as is the case in England today.

Another proposal advanced was to organize efforts on the part of club members to put down the lawless hunter. To do this, he continued, the state organization planned to form "Guardians Clubs." Each member of the club, he said, would wear a button plainly marked when he goes into the woods and if 15,000 or more members of fish and game clubs joined in this club, they could exert a great influence in checking the lawless element by reporting lawbreakers to state authorities. The psychological effect of a large number of hunters bearing the button showing them to be supporters of law and order in the woods would also have a great result not only in stopping the lawless element in the woods but in gaining for the fish and game clubs sportsmen who in the sport and the hunt would help in any move towards preserving the game supply.

At the close of his talk, members of the club discussed the proposition introduced by Mr. Clark and he called upon to answer many questions concerning the feasibility of the plan.

LAKE DAUBERT IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

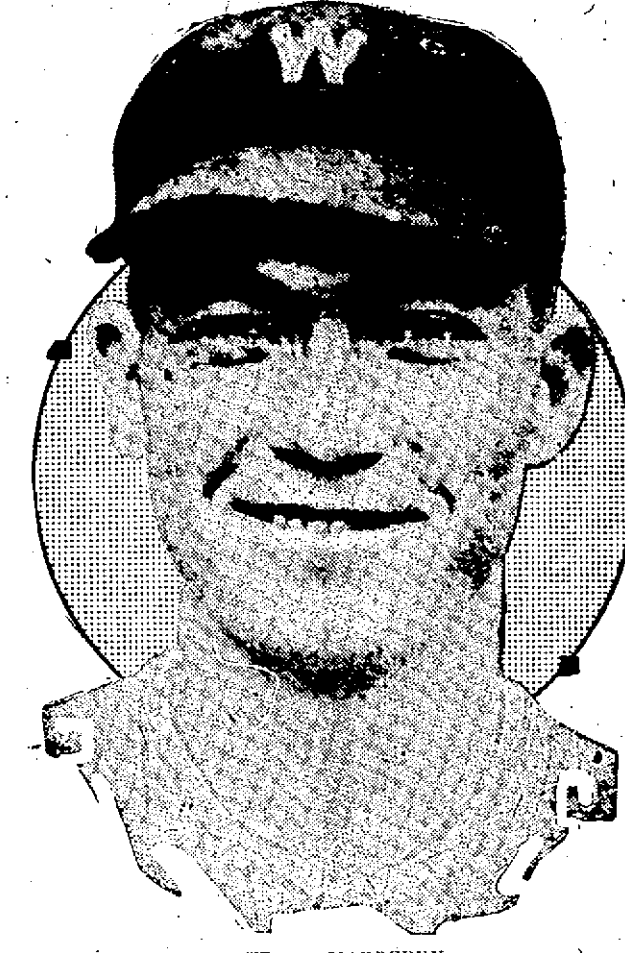

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—Friends of Jacob H. Daubert, first baseman and captain of the Cincinnati Reds, were alarmed last night when word came from the hospital that the veteran infielder had failed to rally, as was expected, from a recent operation for diverticulitis for appendicitis, and that his condition was serious.

Dr. H. H. Hines, club physician, who called up on Daubert last night, said the patient's condition was due to his being in poor physical condition for several months before he entered the hospital.

MARATHON RACE ON THE NORTH COMMON

The North common will be the scene of a 20-mile marathon race next Monday when star athletes will run 32 laps around the streets bordering the common.

The race will start at 2:30 p. m. with the following entries: Jim Crowe, Fred Couture, Edward Peters, Joseph Wells, Christy Roddy and Luigi Tricomi of Lawrence. The starter and judges will be announced later.

VERMONT FOOTBALL STAR OUT OF GAME

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 2.—Harry Harris, acting captain of the Vermont football team, has developed blood poisoning in one of his arms and his services will be lost to the team for probably three weeks, physicians said today. Harris, who has been a star on the Vermont team for the past two years, was one of the two veterans on the Vermont line and his absence will be felt considerably by the Vermonters in their big game with Dartmouth Saturday.

TAD JONES IN HOLE-IN-ONE CLUB

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Tad Jones, Yale's head football coach, has qualified for membership in the hole-in-one club. Though very busy weekdays, Jones finds time for his golf on Sundays. On his last appearance on the New Haven country club links, it was he who sank a shot from the ninth tee into the hole 153 yards away. He is not the first to make the shot, however, two other members of the club having accomplished it before this season.

GREAT CROWD CHEERS GOVERNOR SMITH AT BOSTON RALLY

8000 Jam Into Mechanics Hall to Hear Noted New York Executive—Raps G. O. P. Silence—Klan Not To Be Taken Seriously

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Gov. Smith of New York, who came to Boston yesterday by way of Manchester, N. H., was the principal speaker at a highly successful democratic rally in Mechanics Hall last night. The great auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity; every seat, except a few which were reserved, was taken almost an hour before the speaking began, and many hundreds of men and women stood. Before the distinguished guest arrived, the people who had been standing grew tired of looking at the reserved seats and so they rushed in and occupied them. The estimate was that at least 8000 were in the hall.

Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, the Massachusetts member of the democratic national committee, called the meeting to order and then introduced Gov. Charles H. Cole as chairman of the meeting. Senator Charles H. Gannett, of the United States senate and governor, respectively, preceded Gov. Smith as speakers.

Gen. Smith's Enthusiasm
The audience was tremendously enthusiastic. It cheered and shouted for at least six minutes and when Gov. Smith was introduced, loud cheers were heard. Gov. Smith, who was dressed in a dark suit, came to the platform and, after a brief introduction by Mayor Quinn, he began his speech. He spoke for about an hour, and his speech was well received by the audience. He spoke of the democratic party and its principles, and he spoke of the republican party and its principles. He spoke of the importance of the democratic party in the United States, and he spoke of the importance of the republican party in the United States. He spoke of the importance of the democratic party in the United States, and he spoke of the importance of the republican party in the United States.

Democratic Leaders There
Almost all of the prominent democrats in this part of the state were on the platform. Ex-Mayor Peters and Congressman Gallivan were in the front row. Congressman Upshaw, of the New York state assembly, was also present. He was seated next to Gov. Smith. The audience was very large, and the speakers were well received.

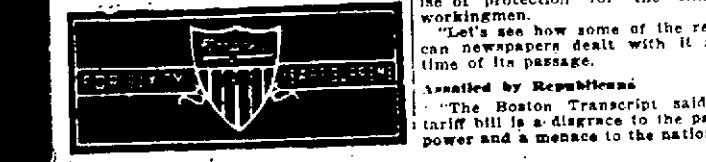

Gov. Smith's Speech
Gov. Smith then had a little fun with the republican press bureau which sent motion picture photographers up to the Green Mountains to take pictures of the "cheese foundry" and the "apple barrel" and then give the latter to the republican press bureau. He said that the republican press bureau was "a very clever organization" and that it was "very successful in its work." He said that the republican press bureau was "a very clever organization" and that it was "very successful in its work." He said that the republican press bureau was "a very clever organization" and that it was "very successful in its work."

Walsh and Curley
Gov. Cole introduced Senator Walsh as the best friend the veterans had in Washington. The senator spoke for a little more than 20 minutes. He said that the democrats of Massachusetts were looking forward to 1925, when they hoped to support Gov. Smith again for the presidency. Mayor Curley did not mention the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution, but he did mention John W. Davis, and following custom, he presented a gold key of the city of Boston to Gov. Smith. "If he comes here after Jan. 2, next," said the mayor, referring to the governor.

5000 CATTLE SLAUGHTERED IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 5.—Slaughter of an additional 5000 cattle because of the foot and mouth disease was begun in Harris county today. They had been grazing within a radius of twenty miles of the area first affected. Dr. J. Gomez Esparrza, head of the department of animal industry in Mexico, last night announced an embargo on products from Texas.

Chicago Tribune said: "The result is a tariff of exploitation rather than of protection." "In New York city it was bitterly assailed by leading republicans for practically the same reasons, but it cost $5,000,000 in campaign funds before and after the convention of 1920 to elect the republican ticket. That had to be paid back in some way to the privileged few that were permitted through their agents in Washington to write the tariff schedules as they desired them."

"The long list of delegates to the national convention of 1924 representing the big western beef sugar industry probably furnishes the reason why the president has not acted upon the recommendation of the tariff commission, said before him as far back as July 29 of this year, which failure to act is costing the American people $145,000 a day in taxation upon that very necessary commodity of ordinary life."

IT MAY BE BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER

The possibility of a brother-against-brother final match for this year's Longmeadow golf club championship is being discussed now that Tim and Al have been drawn in opposite halves and both have gone safely through two elimination matches. If each survives the semi-final round the final will be strictly a family affair. Longmeadow will hold its annual golf tournament on Sunday and Monday. Ten prizes will be up for competition and the event will be in the nature of a celebration of another successful season at the Andover street course.

FOOTBALL NOTES

The manager of Tigers A.A. wishes to let all players know that practice will be on Thursday night, and all players must be there without fail. Tigers would like to see the Panthers for a game Sunday afternoon, is so call 72505 Wednesday night at 7 or 7.30. Manager, Red Burke.

PUBLIC POLITICAL FORUM
A public political forum will be held at the Memorial Auditorium on Monday evening, Nov. 3, the night before the national and state elections. Candidates or their supporters who wish to speak must make application at the Auditorium office and those who apply first will be given a choice of speaking time. The Auditorium trustees plan to open the building for a similar forum the night before the city primary elections, which come on Nov. 11.

LOEW'S RIALTO

Everybody has come to think of Tom Mix as an actor in western stories. Which is a natural enough conclusion, for he has been doing them rather consistently. His experiences particularly fit him for cowboy roles. But most people would take with a grain of salt the statement that the William Fox star can play the part of a tragedian. There is sufficient proof that he can put across comedy, with a rollicking air all his own. It remains then for him to express convincingly the deeper emotions on the screen, which he does in Zane Grey's "The Last of the Duanes." This new Loew-Rialto production will start a three-day run at the Rialto tomorrow, Thursday.

Of course, the entire picture is not a tragedy, but there are moments when the well springs of feeling are intensely touched. One of the strongest situations ensues when Tom finds a gun with one cartridge exploded. He had previously given it to the girl in the story for her protection, while he had gone to seek a momentary shelter for her. At sight of the empty shell, he recalls her words, "I'll never let them take me alive."

Here is tragedy stark creeping, imminent and Tom Mix portrays a man who has lost his dearest possession. Those who see "The Last of the Duanes" will be able to give testimony that the popular Fox star has added another laurel to his dramatic crown. Does Tom find the girl alive? Well, it's all in the story and the finish is too good to spoil by revealing it now. But here's something to remember: the director, Mark Nixon, in the "Driftwood" which is a story of romance on the high seas and which has action aplenty is the added feature. The short subjects on the bill include a new Sunshine comedy and a brand new Fox News reel.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
With more laughs than all the other mystery plays put together, it is no wonder that "The Last Warning," caught the public fancy and remained at the Klaw theatre, New York, for over a year, playing at each and every performance to the magic "Standing Room Only" sign. At the Opera House the Stanley James stock players put the play over in splendid style.

It has often been said that the playwright who can construct his entertainment so as to combine a master of his craft, and acknowledge that to be the case, as indeed it is, the cleverness with which Thomas F. Fallon has knitted his comedy to his excellent entitles him to a place with the foremost dramatic writers of our day. "The Last Warning" stands out pre-eminently as a perfect model of playwriting and audience satisfaction.

Much of the hilarious comedy of "The Last Warning" is supplied by one Evelyn Henderson, a burlesque actress, who is employed by the theatrical manager to make the other actors laugh and forget the deadly menace which hangs over them in their preparation for their new play in the haunted theatre. Evelyn Henderson can truly be said to be good for a laugh every time she opens her mouth, and she certainly keeps it open a lot! The way she gets matters balled up, her ludicrous attempts to "be Risley" and her unwillingness to speak the French language but the English, will convulse you with laughter. Mr. Gerald Rowan, Jack West, Miss Lillian Desmond and Vesale Farrell are in exceptionally fitting roles. Phone 7640 for seats.

do you think of the new freedom? Charles Norris has many ideas about these questions and wrote one of the most successful books of the year on the subject, "Dread," which has since been adapted to the screen and is being shown for the first time today at the Strand. Sea it. Then there is the Reginald Denny in one of his newest and best comedy dramas, called "The Rocking Horse." Beginning with the remainder of the week the bill will be made up of the new Fred Niblo production, "The Red Lily," and the second feature will be one of Herbert Rawlinson's latest successes, "Dark Stairways."

Fred Niblo has done it again! The new production of "The Name is Woman," "Strangers of the Night," and numerous others, has hit the high water mark of entertainment with "The Red Lily," a story of adventure in Paris, and written by Mr. Niblo himself. Ramon Novarro appears as the hero, a youth who loses his self-respect, and goes to the streets of Montmartre. "The Red Lily" also includes Wallace Voozy, Frank Currier, Rosemary Thoby, Mitchell Lewis, Edith Bennett and others.

An argument against circumstantial evidence in criminal cases is made in the side feature, "Dark Stairways," the Universal picture in which Herbert Rawlinson appears. Whether or not criminal methods are justified of use in solving the mystery of a crime is another subject treated in this photograph of thrills and adventure. The story has as a central figure a society crook who encompasses the conviction of a felony charge of the conviction of the crook's friend. There are several celebrated stars in support of Rawlinson.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Every Harold Lloyd feature comedy stands entirely on its own merits. Starting with "The Sailor-Mad," which was his first picture to be as long as four reels, there has not been a single Lloyd film that other than being distinctive and varied in type and idea. "You may have liked 'Grandma's Boy'."

better than "Safety Last," yet you cannot compare them and say which is the better comedy of the two. Each comedy is in its own class, and critics and public approval have placed it at the top of its class. Now comes "Why Worry" and creates its own exclusive place among the Harold Lloyd picture comedies. It is not like any of its predecessors, except insofar as it is one hundred per cent. comedy, and a revolution as the motif. It is playing all this week at the Merrimack Square theatre. For chief performers in "Why Worry," Harold Lloyd has a giant nearly nine feet tall and a leading lady, only five feet tall. These are respectively John Aasen and Jolyana Kallston. The giant Aasen is making his screen debut, and pretty little Jolyana is making her first appearance as Harold's leading lady, supplanting Mildred Davis, who took one of those "for-better-or-worse" life jobs with Harold. The other attraction of the current program is "Love's Whirlpool," starring Madge Bellamy, James Kirkwood and Lila Lee in a story of romance, thrills, mystery and master crooks. It is a powerful photodrama, dealing with two widely divergent types of society—rich bankers and notorious bandits. A comedy, the latest International News, showing world's series scenes, and a short story of a man who is a good dancer, and Carl and Valeska Winters draw forth music from strings. The week's picture is "The Klux of Wild Horses."

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Ferdinando's Havana orchestra has scored an emphatic hit at the H. F. Keith theatre. That was evidenced at the opening performances and will be throughout the remainder of the week. Either in playing of dreamy music or in the more impetuous of measure, or in noat astro, this band is one of the best heard at a local theatre in months. Another excellent act is that of Glenn Stearns, blackface comedian, who evoke much laughter with their characterizations. Judson Cole, magickian and comedian, is one of the more popular acts of the week. Round out the program with a good repertory in "Cost to Cost." Senna & Weber are good dancers, and Carl and Valeska Winters draw forth music from strings. The week's picture is "The Klux of Wild Horses."

Claims Fifth Victim

THE "CURSE" OF THE VALLEY OF KINGS FOLLOWED HIM BACK TO LONDON FROM EGYPT. IT HAUNTED HIM CONTINUALLY. FINALLY H. G. EVELYN-WHITE, EGYPTOLOGIST, (BELOW), COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE ON HIS WAY TO THE CORONER'S INQUEST INTO THE DEATH OF A WOMAN FRIEND, WHO HAD ENDED HER LIFE BECAUSE HE REJECTED HER LOVE.

BY MILTON BRONNER
N.E.A. Service Writer

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Black curses of ancient Egypt and their terrible train of disease, disaster and death following along even in the 20th century. All these things seem very far away from busy London. Egypt is of the east, London is of the west.

Yet the other afternoon, the long black shadow of Egypt fell across the gas-lit, stuffy, commonplace room where a London coroner was holding an inquest into the suicide of H. G. Evelyn-White, famous Egyptologist, explorer, and member of the faculty of the University of Leeds.

Everything seemed fairly clear. The dead man had a woman friend, Miss Helen Nind. She was in love with him. He did not reciprocate.

She had spoken of her despair and had hinted at killing herself. One day she did so, using poison.

Evelyn-White was summoned to attend the inquest into her death. He had nothing to fear and nothing to conceal. Everything had been strictly honorable.

But Evelyn-White shot and killed himself in a taxi cab while on his way to the coroner's. Authorities thought it was merely the rash act of a super-sensitive scholar and loathed publicity of this sort.

He Was Warned of "Curse"

And then in the silence of the court room was read this last fragment from a letter by the dead man to his best friend:

"I knew there was a curse on me, though I had leave to take those manuscripts to Cairo. The monks told me the curse would work all the same. Now it has done so."

The mystery soon was cleared up. For many years Evelyn-White had worked for the Metropolitan Museum of New York, conducting explorations in various parts of Egypt.

Some of his discoveries are recorded in his noteworthy book, "The Sayings of Jesus from Oxyrhynchus." This was based upon papyrus he had found.

Three years ago he was working at Wady Natrun, a valley 70 miles from Cairo. There, in an ancient Coptic monastery, he found a secret room in which were a number of fragments of very ancient Coptic and Arabic manuscripts. He obtained permission from the head of the monastery to bring the manuscripts to Cairo for study. The monks, however, warned him there was a curse upon those who tampered with ancient things in Egypt. Evelyn-White, a highly educated man, had heard such things before and at first paid no attention. But latterly, worried by various matters, his nerves were on the verge of breakdown. Others have fallen, too.

The memory of the man's prediction came back to him. What at first seemed absurd and improbable, now seemed highly possible and probable. He was obsessed with the idea. He aimed the pistol at his head, but the finger which pulled the trigger was that of somebody who lived in Egypt centuries ago.

People here, who doubt in books on black magic and other things out of the east, see in his story confirmation of the belief that tampering with the tomb of Tutankhamen in Egypt has also blighted the lives of those connected with it. They point to this sinister record:

The Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb and financial backer of the expedition, died April 5, 1923, after he had been bitten by a mosquito.

Woolf Joel, son of the famous South African millionaire and sportsman, died on ship while on the way to Egypt last November. He was in Egypt at the time Tut's tomb was opened and brought home the first movies of scenes in the Valley of Kings.

Col. Aubrey Herbert, brother of the Earl of Carnarvon, died last fall suddenly. He also had entered Tut's tomb and was reported to have said something dreadful was going to happen to the Herbert family.

January 18 last, Sir Archibald Douglas Reid, famous radiologist, died suddenly in Switzerland. He had agreed to X-ray the mummy of King Tut.

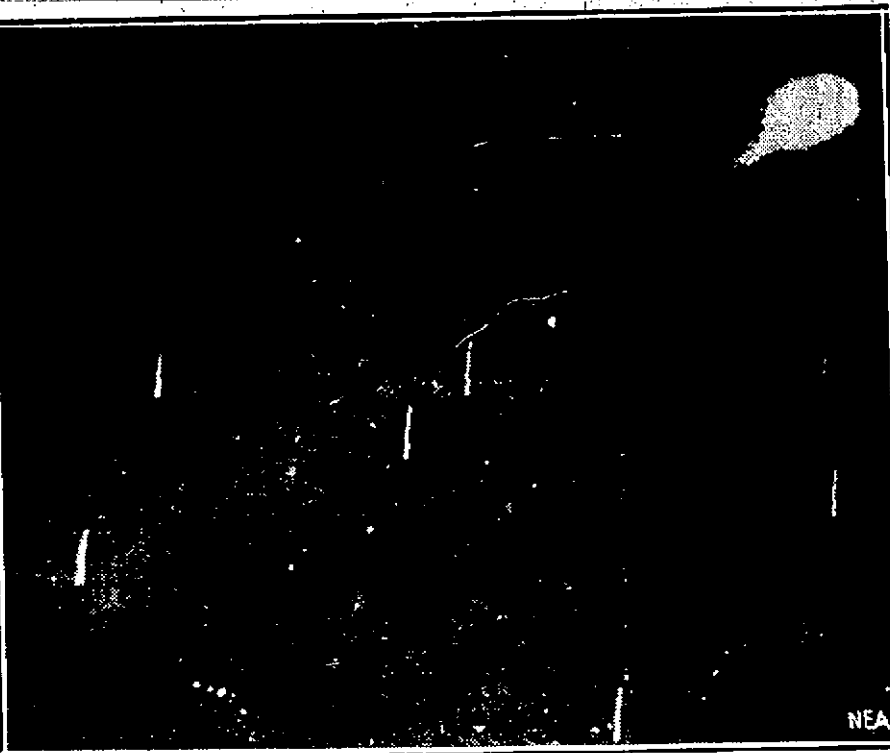

SEEK CONNECTION IN TWO MURDER CASES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—The possibility of a connection between the killing of Frederick A. Clements, Burlington garage keeper, and the unknown man whose body was found in a Beverly pond, was under investigation today by District Attorney A. K. Reading. Enough similarity in the case has been found to warrant inquiry. It was said, although there was as yet no definite proof that the men who killed Clements, complicity with whom Halile Mowbray, a garage hand, has admitted, were concerned in the other case. Beverly people who saw a man resembling Mowbray in the vicinity of the crime committed there were to see him today or tomorrow, and officials were checking up also on the almost identical methods of disposing of the bodies of the two victims.

THE AIR CIRCUS' FIRST CASUALTY

Here is the first casualty of the Dayton (O.) air circus. This plane, carrying seven persons, started out from Chicago—but never even got on its way. It crashed into onion crates piled at one end of the take-off field before it safely was off the ground. The passengers were six schoolboys who had won trips to Dayton on the strength of the miniature airplanes they made in a school contest. Only the pilot was injured—and he not seriously.

COUPLE FREED FROM JAIL TO BE MARRIED

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Oct. 7.—Edouard St. Aubin of Montreal, charged with attempting to smuggle Chinese into the United States, and his sweetheart, Emerline Gagne, also of Montreal charged with attempting to aid St. Aubin in escaping from jail, were given leave of absence from the Caledonia county jail yesterday to be married, it became known today. A jail official accompanied the pair to the church, and later was a guest at their wedding breakfast.

St. Aubin was arrested several months ago by the border motorcycle corps. A search of his automobile, the officers said, disclosed a quantity of liquor and four Chinese, the latter concealed under the blankets. Miss Gagne was captured when she came to visit St. Aubin in the jail, officials charging that on a previous visit she had left a revolver and a hawk saw.

The marriage ceremony was performed at the French Catholic church by Rev. J. H. M. Bastien. Later St. Aubin was taken to Rutland in await trial in federal court. The bride was held in jail here in default of $500 bail.

ELECTRIC R. R. INDUSTRY IN HEALTHY CONDITION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 7.—"Broadly constructive policies and liberal attitudes" are necessary in dealing with electric railway problems, President Clegg declared today in a letter to the American Electric Railway association convention. Co-ordination of all forms of local transportation, including buses, must demand the attention of municipal authorities and transportation companies for a long time to come, he declared.

"I am glad to have your assurance that the electric railway industry is now in a more healthy condition than at any time since the war," the president said.

IMMIGRANT PROBLEMS OF U. S. DISCUSSED AT ROTARY CLUB

Restriction, Selection and Inspection Rather Than Exclusion is Recommendation of Frederick A. Wallis—Lions and Commerce Chamber Hear Talk

"We haven't standing room in this country for the immigrant who comes to this land with preconceived ideas as to government and who upon his arrival here mounts the lecture platform and preaches disrespect for organized authority and the overthrow of the government. We must remember that all blessings of the land are bound about by law—without law there would be no government."

Mr. Wallis is a present commissioner of correction in New York city and was formerly deputy police commissioner of the same city and commissioner of immigration of Ellis Island under the Wilson administration. His address today was on the immigrant and he told his opinions based on what he has seen as police commissioner and immigration commissioner at the main gateway to this country for the immigrant.

Have Musical Program

President Edward Fisher of the chamber of commerce presided and President Dr. G. Forrest Martin of the Lions club and Past President, H. Hutchins Parker of the Rotary club were called upon for brief talks prior to the main address. A dinner preceded the business meeting, during which a number of instrumental selections were played by the Lowell Electric Light Corp. orchestra and a group of songs were sung by the L. E. L. quintet, both organizations having volunteered their services for the occasion.

In opening his address, Mr. Wallis paid high tribute to the Memorial Auditorium saying that no city in this country that he has visited has a building which compares equally with the Auditorium. He then told of his appointment to the position of immigration commissioner and gave a description of Ellis Island before branching into his topic, "The Immigrant."

"There is nothing that so affects the economic conditions of our country as the foreign born and I believe the immigration problem is greater than that of the League of Nations, yet our greatest problem is not immigration but the immigrant himself. We can treat with immigration by passing laws but we cannot treat with the immigrant in a like manner. He is human, flesh and blood, even as you and I," he said, "and unless we deal with him as a human being we can make him into an anarchist over night."

"We Have Wrong Aim"

"Why are we so prejudiced against the immigrant? We all look toward him with the wrong aim, yet we all are descended from immigrants, we all have foreign blood in our veins. Immigration dates back to early Biblical days and has continued ever since, for man is always moving to new places hoping to improve the standard of living. And today we must see that the immigrant does not pull down our standard. There is room in this country for the immigrant and the coming here with the right idea but we haven't it."

System Inadequate

The present system of examination at Ellis Island was called inadequate by the speaker, who said it consists of a ten second examination of the health of the immigrant and a ten or twenty minute examination of his baggage.

Summing up the question he said: "There should be provisions made for examination and selection on the other side of the ocean; each applicant should be required to have a letter from police authorities stating he or she has never been in prison, and they should be registered upon their arrival here, as the American is registered when he visits in many foreign lands. And lastly, they should be sent to the districts where help is needed, not to the crowded tenement districts of the cities to boost the cost of living and to spread disease and to spread the doctrines of anarchy. They would be much better off under these conditions and why can't we do it—Canada and Argentina do this. There should be scientific selection on the other side and a sensible distribution on this side."

SEEKS FACTS ON COST OF SUGAR PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Additional information from the tariff commission on the costs of sugar production in this country and in Cuba was requested today by President Coolidge in connection with his study of the commission's report favoring a reduction in the present sugar duty.

The president has told those interested that he proposes to protect the American sugar beet industry from the possibility of any combination which might develop in Cuba or elsewhere with a view to controlling sugar prices.

So far as the political campaign is concerned, the president feels the big need is for organization. To get out the vote, unless a large vote is polled in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge, the sentiment of the country will not be properly registered.

Reports reaching the White House today indicated a shortage in funds in the national committee.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Selectman Everett R. George of Salisbury and Herman R. Rich of Newburyport, two of the number indicted by the federal grand jury recently on charges of conspiracy in connection with running at Salisbury beach, were arraigned today before Judge Martin in federal district court. They entered pleas of not guilty and were held for hearing, George in $5000 bonds and Rich in $2000.

RULES AGAINST ILLINOIS R. R.

Judge Stough Hands Down Decision in Case in Controversy 16 Years

Road Ordered—to Pay Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars in State Taxes

OTTAWA, Ill., Oct. 7.—In a decision in circuit court today, Judge S. C. Stough decided that the Illinois Central railroad should pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in state taxes in controversy for sixteen years. He held that in accounting many millions of dollars were credited to lines of the company south of the Ohio river and west of the Mississippi river instead of to the charter lines of the company, which under state law were to pay seven per cent taxes on earnings in Illinois in perpetuity for early grants of right of way.

The revenue and accounting of the railroad company for 1905 and 1906 was the direct issue, the years since being subject to the finding applicable to those years.

Home Circulation is Best

Advertisers who use The Sun consistently get greater returns on the money invested than through any other Lowell newspaper. There's a reason. The Sun goes into more homes in Lowell and suburbs than any other Lowell paper and ninety per cent of Sun readers read no other Lowell newspaper. Furthermore, ninety five per cent of The Sun circulation is confined to the city of Lowell and immediate vicinity.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 20

The captain was just behind the little adventurer and in very short notice they were out of reach of the elephant's trunk. "Gee, I was scared for a minute," laughed Jack. Then the old elephant seemed to realize that he had been fooled and he seized the tree and started shaking it.

"Hang on!" shouted the captain. And Jack put both arms around the limb he was perched on. Finally the animal grew tired and he settled down right at the foot of the tree. "Looks like he's going to wait for us," said the captain. "Well, he'll have a long wait," replied Jack.

About a half hour or so had passed when Jack and the captain heard a shot ring out. The elephant immediately got up and looked about. Then another shot blazed forth and the animal scurried back into the woods. "Well, I wonder where those shots came from?" queried Jack. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"DID YOU SEE A GNOUW CALLED 'TWEKANOSE'?" ASKED NANCY TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT.

Back from Mark to the Moon went Snookie and the Twins on the white night-mare. Snookie came first and Nancy next and then Nick. "Well, did you see Twekanose and the lost sleepy sand?" asked the Dream Maker Man when they arrived.

"No, he wasn't on Mars," said the Twins. "We looked everywhere." "Well, then," said the wise old Dream Maker Man, "we'll have to look some more. It's almost moon-up down on the earth and the sleepy sand simply must be found."

"I should say so," said the poor Sand Man who was getting discouraged and a little nervous. "When up, we'll find it," said the Dream Maker Man heartily. "Twins, you may go with my second son, Snuggie, on his black night-mare, to look for the lost sleepy sand. Perhaps Twekanose has gone to Venus. You might have a look there."

"Oh, do go as fast as you can," begged the poor Sand Man who was really at his wit's end to know what to do. "Twekanose must be somewhere."

"Perhaps he's gone down to the earth to put the babies to sleep himself," said Nick. "Little boy, if you know him so well, recall him and again I've just gotten a kiddy to sleep when a week and come and give it a week and wake it all up again. Then he'd jump out of the window and laugh and laugh on his way back to Gnomeland."

"Come on, if you are going," cried Snuggie, jumping up on his black night-mare and sitting well forward to make room for the Twins.

As soon as they were seated, Nancy in the middle and Nick last, the magic horse started along the Milky Way to the star called Venus.

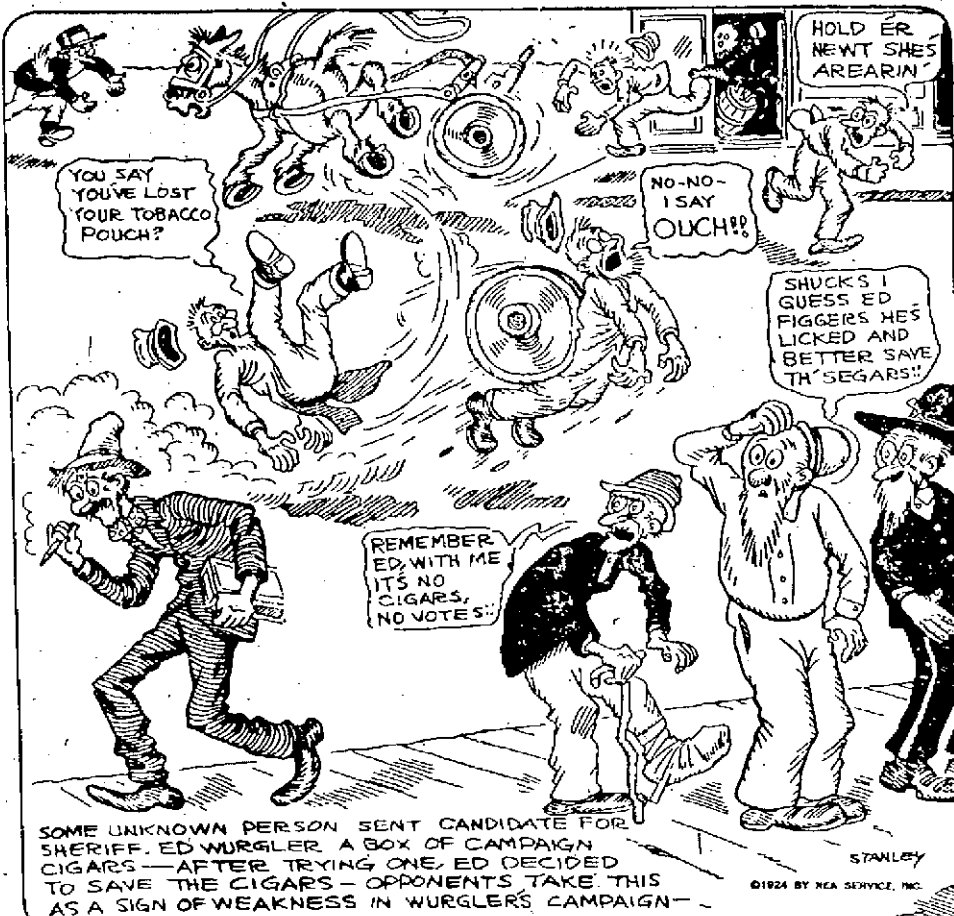

Club-a-lub, club-a-lub, went the black mare's hoofs as she galloped through the sky. At last the Twins and Snuggie came to Venus.

Tap, tap, tap! went Snuggie on the great gate in the wall. "Who's there?" asked a voice. "And what do you want?" "We're messengers of the Sand Man and we want the bag of sleepy sand," said Snuggie.

"Say the multiplication table backwards up to ninety," said the voice, and "I'll open the gate. If you get it right. We're very particular about the people who let in. If you're not good in arithmetic, we don't want you. It's a law of."

"But he got no further. 'Tain't Jimmy!" said Nick quickly.

IN NEW YORK

BY STEPHEN HANNIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—One of the best known hotel managers in New York was born on a farm at Wyoming, O., a suburb of Cincinnati, was a traveling salesman with the United States as his territory, and entered the hotel business from his ranch home in Wolter, Ida., a town 40 miles from a railway, with a population of 3,500 people.

He is Roy Carruthers of the historic Waldorf-Astoria.

Carruthers, who never had any experience in the hotel business, was chosen in 1915 to manage the Palace and Fairmont hotels in San Francisco because of his nation-wide acquaintance.

He is said personally to know more people than any other man in the land.

In 1918 he first entered business life in New York, managing the opening of the Pennsylvania, with 1,200 rooms, the largest hotel in the world.

Three years later he went to the Waldorf, famous for royalty of other shores.

"Ninety per cent of all the people are good people," he says, "but they are more temperamental than a few years ago."

Visitors from the west bring with them on their trips to New York a portion of their home town, which they transplant here, according to Carruthers. Westerners are always natural and never succumb to the strain under which New Yorkers live.

Carruthers is a large man, with gray hair, is 49 years old, has a pleasing smile, and is a rearing handclasp—and a mild voice.

"You are hereby required on or before December 1st, 1924, to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moth on all your property in this city."

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 381, Acts of 1906, as amended by Chapter 268, Acts of 1906, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to do so, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land.

Full instructions as to the best method of work against the moths may be obtained from the local superintendent, John G. Gordon, City Hall, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractor should be inspected and approved by the local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION
There will be a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Moody school tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Among the business to come before the members will be the advisability of raising the dues. Henry H. Harris, headmaster of the high school, will speak on "Junior High Schools," and Miss Quenna Douglas will entertain with vocal selections. All members are urged to attend.

MEETING YESTERDAY AT MOREY SCHOOL

The first meeting of the season of the Morey Parent-Teacher association was held yesterday afternoon with over 100 members attending. With President Mrs. Walter Cleworth in the chair several business matters were disposed of and plans were made to secure a school library and to beautify the school grounds. An enjoyable program of readings by Miss Christina Lowmyer, a teacher in the Colburn school, and piano and vocal numbers by pupils of the Morey school, assisted by Miss Katherine Walsh and Carlton Gardner of the Morey school faculty was the accompaniment of the afternoon. At the conclusion of the entertainment, refreshments were served by Mrs. Eugene F. Crane, assisted by the hospitality committee.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK ON CHINA

Arthur D. Prince was the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Research club held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Langstaff in Stevens street. Mr. Prince talked interestingly on China telling of the conditions existing at present and describing the people and their customs. Under the direction of Mrs. James Crompton the house was prettily arranged with fall decorations and greenery. Following the talk a business session was held after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Frank J. Spaulding, Mrs. Charles Wing, Mrs. Schuyler Waller and Mrs. Mabel Osterman.

REGISTRATION SESSION

Eighty-seven new names were added to the city's voting list at a special meeting of the board of election commissioners at the Pawtucket school last evening. An evening session of the election commissioners will be held this evening at the Morey school from 7 to 9 p. m.

THE SECRET

of keeping a ball floor in perfect condition for dancing:

USE PULVERIZED WAX

Sift it lightly over the floor—the dancers will do the rest. It never gets sticky nor balls under the feet. Will not soil the most delicate garments. Easily applied. Gives the floor a finished dancing surface. Get it at Colburn's, in sifting top cartons. 56c

The use of a weighted floor brush with indestructible polishing face, is a most effective means for keeping a high gloss on all kinds of floors.

ATTACKS KING OF SPAIN

Blasco Ibanez Writes Book

Against Spanish Military Directorate

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Blasco Ibanez, declaring he considers it his duty to make known the truth about his country, is engaged in writing a book against the Spanish military directorate. The novelist says he does not intend to spare the king, of whom he remarks: "I never consented to be introduced to him because I know that one day I should have to fight him."

ENFORCEMENT OF THE RADIO REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Secretary Hoover laid before the radio conference here yesterday one problem in enforcement of the radio regulations which the department of commerce has not been able to solve. He told of receiving a letter recently from the mother of a boy in a middle western city, protesting to the department because the youngster could not be torn away from his radio set to go to bed at night.

To offset this case, however, the secretary cited thousands of letters to the department from grateful parents extolling the virtues of the radio in keeping their offspring at home in the evening.

AUTOS IN COLLISION

Rev. Panos Glineres, formerly of this city, but now of Lawrence, while driving a sedan through the square last evening crashed into a machine owned by James J. Wallace of Boston street, causing minor damages. When Patrolmen O'Loughlin investigated the accident they found that the clergyman was driving with his arm in a sling, and that his license was not properly signed. The matter will be reported to the state registrar. Rev. Mr. Glineres was formerly pastor of a Greek mission here. He was severely injured in a triple collision near Haverhill about two months ago.

To a Lady

Who refuses to use clay

Edna Wallace Hopper
A lady writes me that my beauty helps have brought her wonderful results, but she adds, "It is too much trouble to use clay."

Too much trouble! In my stage work and in these efforts to help women I work 15 hours a day. Yet I would rather use three meals than miss my clay.

Too much trouble! Yet see what clay has done for me. Mine is a grand-mother's age, yet I enjoy a debutante's complexion.

Let me send you a test of my White Youth Clay. It is not like the crude and muddy clays so many have employed. It is white, refined and dainty—the last word in facial clays. And it combines in one product many superlative helps.

My Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy after glow which amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores, eliminates surplus oil.

Many women seem to drop ten years with one application of this clay. To countless women it is bringing priceless benefits—new beauty and new youth. Are such results not worth to you a few minutes twice a week?

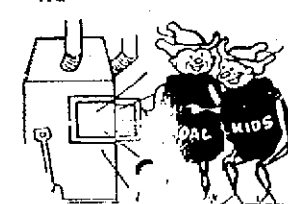

Clay is a beauty essential. Famous beauties have for ages used it. No woman can hope to look her best without it, or to keep her youth as I have. You can recognize clay users in every circle by their beautiful complexions.

Mine is a super-clay—a new-type clay—based on 20 years of scientific study. It is placed in all drug stores, all toilet counters, so you can get it. The cost is 50 cents and $1. You will thank me for it—always—when you learn what it means to you. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE WILL NOT BE CALLED

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The proposed imperial conference which it was planned to hold in London this autumn has been definitely postponed and will not be called, no matter what happens in connection with the British political situation, it was declared in authoritative quarters today.

MEETING OF COUNCIL AND SCHOOL BOARD

A meeting of the city council and school board in joint conference next Tuesday night for the purpose of accepting the resignation of Dr. Joseph P. Lamoureux of the Merrimack street high school building commission and appointing a successor is expected to be called tomorrow by the mayor.

At last night's meeting of the city council Messrs. Gallagher and Genest, a committee appointed to prevail upon the physician to reconsider his resignation, reported they had interviewed him and found him adamant. The council voted to ask the city solicitor for an opinion as to whether they can accept his resignation of whether it must be submitted to a joint conference.

The law creating the high school building commission provides that vacancies therein shall be filled by election in joint conference of members of the council and school board. The conference will probably be held, take place prior to the adjourned council session scheduled for next Tuesday night. Thus far no names have been mentioned prominently as desirable or likely of succeeding Dr. Lamoureux. It is an honorary position carrying no emolument and no is regarded as attractive by the personal group of office seekers.

Prof. Harold B. Swain of Harvard university, expert in bridge construction and traffic problems, has been offered a commission to come here and make a study and report on the Centralville bridge. Announcement to this effect was made in city council last night by John J. McPherson, chairman of the special subcommittee appointed to determine whether the present bridge should be repaired or replaced. Chairman McPherson's report was accepted without much comment as one of progress. He was instructed to appear before the board of public service at its meeting today and urge that immediate temporary repairs be made to the faulty structure.

Democrats Plan Monster Rally

night, harmony had having been on-gaged, and each of the speakers has given his personal word that he will appear in the Democrat section as well as at the main meeting.

The meeting was arranged last night when the big democratic political leaders of the state met in Boston to welcome there Gov. Alfred I. Smith of New York, who spoke in Mechanics hall last night.

Humphrey O'Sullivan, democratic nominee for congress in the 5th district, attended the rally and the dinner which followed in the American house. He was accompanied by Cornelius F. Cronin, chairman of the democratic city committee.

Messrs. Curley and Walsh both expressed their desire to return to Lowell to take further in the interests of the democratic cause. Both were deligated with the receptions given them with their previous visits here. Former Mayor Fitzgerald joined in favor of the nomination of a strong, vigorous democratic rally for Friday night here and he was joined by Mr.
Swift, the nominee for attorney general. Quick to realize that such an array of distinguished leaders would be a great attraction for the people, the Lowell Messrs. O'Sullivan and Cronin were quick to endorse the plan and upon returning here immediately made the preliminary arrangements for the great meeting.

Was Found in Dying Condition in Field

The operations of a non-union labor
Three men accompanying Mr. Sandridge also were wounded. The assailants fled from the underbrush along a road.

Mr. Sandridge, superintendent of the Rock Island Coal company, owners of the mines, was given orders to resume operations today. For several years the mines operated under an agreement with the union but officials of the company decided to reopen without a union agreement.

Mr. Sandridge was a delegate to the last democratic national convention.
Sandridge and the three other victims of the shooting are being brought to an Elkins hospital. Reports from Elkins were that Sandridge's condition was critical. Among those wounded was Brown Talbot, son of Dr. L. W.
Talbot of Elkins. He recently graduated from West Virginia university and was taking up his duties as former of the Meridian mines.

Sheriff Gorman of Harbison county and a force of state troopers obtained bloodhounds and went into the mountains about Meridian in an effort to trace the assailants.

Universalists Meet At Grace Church

and representatives of the various churches throughout the Merrimack valley to talk over church matters and plan activities for the coming year.
Rev. Isaac Smith, pastor of the Grace Universalist church, is president of the conference, and he was assisted in making arrangements for the event by local delegates and parishioners.

The conference opened at 10:30 a. m.
with devotional services conducted by Rev. N. D. Kitchener, recently appointed pastor of the First church, Haverhill. An address of welcome by Rev.
Mr. Smith followed. "The purpose of the conference," he said after extending welcome to old and new ministers and delegates, "is to answer a challenge of a greater service to the community. The universalist church, in its mission, is to bring the message of the gospel to all people. Our great resources, he says, are not iron and coal but the human resources and the church has the only institution which has spread and is making for true human progress."

"Babson adds, however," he continued, "that the churches are not awake to their opportunity. This constitutes a challenge to the church."
The purpose of this conference is to awaken us to the values of our work and to carry back to the local churches a new enthusiasm which will impel us to concentration, concentration and continuation in our great task."

Rev. Harold W. Haynes, pastor of the First Universalist church of this city, delivered Rev. Mr. Smith to the pulpit and gave a stirring sermon on "The Psychology of Church Worship."
His talk was illustrated musically by Miss Rita Thompson, soloist of the Universalist church. Services from beginning to end, with Miss Thompson describing the requisite music, and explained thoroughly the meaning of each part of the service and the effect it has upon the lay person sitting in the church pews.

Upon the conclusion of Rev. Mr.
Haynes' sermon, a general conference of the churches was held. The conference was held at 2:15 o'clock and luncheon was served at 2 o'clock. The business meeting of the conference followed luncheon and was presided over by Rev. Mr. Smith. Considerable routine business was discussed and taken under advisement.

A second round table conference followed the business meeting and continued at 2:15 o'clock, when Dr. George E. Hagley of Boston, president of the General Sunday School association, gave an address on the subject, "New Church Schools for Old." He dealt at length with the problem of Sunday school work and discussed several new methods which have rapidly gained favor in the conduct of Sunday school classes throughout the country.

At the conclusion of his address he was asked many questions by delegates concerning Sunday school work and cheerfully explained the various methods which he had touched upon in his address in detail.

The final event on the program was an address by Dr. Samuel G. Ayres, who has only recently returned from Japan, where he had been head missionary in Tokyo for six years. "Six Years in Japan," he told of the many experiences of missionaries at work spreading knowledge of Christianity in the orient and the difficulties which must be overcome in conducting missionary work, especially in Japan.

At 10 a. m. the positions of the opposing armies were virtually unchanged, but the guns continued actively.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Forced to give ground during three days of fighting in the Sung-Kiang district, 25 miles southwest of Shanghai, the defending Chinese army fought through the night and continued the grim battle this morning by withstanding the attacks of the invading Kiangsu forces.

The Kiangsu forces are attempting to cut the railway line between Shanghai and Sung-Kiang, but the Chinese army, reinforced last night, held the railway with forces extending along the rails for a distance of about three miles in the environs of Sung-Kiang.

Any attempt to move trains on the part of the Chekiang forces today, however, would be at great hazard, as it could invite the full sweep of fire from the Kiangsu forces. All ordinary traffic over the railway line has been stopped.

of locomotive whistles echoed up into the clouds to the wonder of the ship.
Carroll, Georgia, was reached at 5:37
a. m. The sun, a golden ball, was peeping over the eastern horizon of the Blue Ridge foothills at 6 a. m. The haze broke away from their tops, the rays of the morning sun shining in longed like a new cloud field.

Banks of clouds lay heavy in the valleys, the reddish dirt roads looking like ribbons among the green forbidding interlocking hills and hidden valleys. Towards noon, the clouds which this had been backing, died down, and with the speed of its motors did not change, its speed increased from 35 to 45 hours an hour, due to the dying out of the wind. The course, which was laid toward Atlanta, is about equal in distance to a flight from Lakehurst to Chicago.

With gate winds a year ago the Shenandoah speeded back from Chil-cago to its New Jersey harbor at a speed of 56 miles an hour. Her wings stretched the Atlantic voyage to nearly 20 hours.

Dallas, Tex., should be crossed late in the evening and the mooring mast at Fort Worth reached around midnight, under the present weather conditions.

Over Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 8.—The Shenandoah passed over the center of Birmingham at 7:30 a. m., flying very slow at a low altitude. Her motors were making little noise and the vessel was moving so slowly that the crowds got a fine view of her.

The Shenandoah was conveyed by seven planes of the Birmingham squadron, which was in the air at 7:30 a. m. as she passed over Birmingham. After passing the business section, the ship took on speed and height and was lost to sight in three minutes, headed due west.

The squadron of planes accompanied the craft to the harbor river, 25 miles west of Birmingham. At that point the ship was sailing, eight degrees south of west. It was believed the vessel would pass over Columbus, Miss.,
and Greenville, Miss.

BOUNDARY, Oct. 8.—(By the Assoan hour, the Shenandoah, the largest airship in the world, today, slid into the state of Mississippi over Columbus, with its course laid directly west across the state to the Mississippi river. Greenville, Mississippi, is expected to be reached before noon.

50 Miles an Hour

ON BOARD U. S. S. SHENANDOAH,

Oct. 8 (By the Associated Press).—The Shenandoah, approaching the Alabama-Mississippi boundary, was moving at about 55 miles an hour. In an hour, 3500 feet above the fields and valleys, completed the first 24 hours of its 5000-mile test voyage at 9 a. m.
Central time, today. The airship sailed into the upper straits of Mis-laid directly west across the state to reach the Mississippi river at Greenville before noon.

Fort Worth Awaits Dirigible

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 8.—According to navy officials and naval aviators here awaiting the arrival of the Shenandoah, the dirigible should arrive here about 7 o'clock tonight.
They base this time on calculations of the vessel's present speed. Preparations are being made to receive the ship about dusk.

centres around a conservative motion of censure and a liberal amendment dealing with the government's withdrawal of sedition charges against the editor of a communist publication.

Each party has defined its position in a manner which would seem to make defeat of the ministry inevitable, but the situation is complicated and no experienced observer ventures a definite opinion as to the outcome.

The political writers in this morn-ing's newspapers give currency to a number of rumors, one of the most striking of which is that Attorney General Litton, who was responsible for the withdrawal of the prosecution in the communist case, has a surprise in store which will disconcert the opposition and carry the government through triumphantly.

Another concern the attitude of the liberals, who are said to be getting cold feet, fearing an election would outright them at the polls, and accordingly maneuvering to keep the government in office. The conservatives also are credited in some quarters with an intention of supporting the liberal amendment, which it had been supposed they would not do.

There is an appearance of tactical maneuvering in progress in all the parties. The house meets at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

The conference opened at 10:30 a. m.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB HAS OPENING MEETING

The 30th season of the Educational club was opened yesterday afternoon in the club headquarters in Kitson hall with a most delightful and varied program of readings and vocal and instrumental selections under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Leggat, president ex-officio.

The hall was prettily arranged with autumn leaves and fall flowers, including gladioli, marigolds, dahlias and mums.

Previous to the entertainment program a short business session was held with Mrs. Walter S. Jovoy, president, in the chair. A report of the year's activities, including the summer outing held during the past months was read by Mrs. Walter Cox, recording secretary. Following the roll-call and the flower collection, the latter in charge of Mrs. E. W. Maximo, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, a member of the club, presented the club a beautiful American flag, made by Mrs. Campbell, in making the presentation Mrs. Lovejoy said: "In the years before the war, I was greatly impressed by a lecture given by ex-Gov. Hendley of Indiana on 'Patriotism in Peace'. Patriotism meets its greatest test in time of peace. We must realize that patriotism means more today than it has ever meant. I find this a fitting time to present to you in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, this symbol of our country, knowing that it will inspire in you a greater spirit of loyalty and truer patriotism in your work."

In behalf of Mrs. Leggat, Mrs. Lovejoy also presented the club two hand-some red velvet scarves embroidered in gold which will be used on the officers' tables.

Six applications for membership were received and turned over to the advisory committee to be acted upon.

At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Earl Huse rendered several piano solos which afforded the players an ample opportunity to display her ability as an accomplished pianist.

Miss Frances Scott then delighted the members with several readings which were greatly appreciated.

Horatius B. Leggat gave a number of vocal numbers, including "Little Mother of Mine," and "I Passed by Your Window," which were as well received by the audience as they were rendered by the singer.

It was announced that because of the reception to be tendered Miss Luolane A. Pillsbury, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday next in Kitson hall, the meeting of the Educational club would be held in the girls' club rooms in the rear of the hall.

Ten was served and a social hour enjoyed following the entertainment program with the following officers as hostesses: President, Mrs. Walter S. Jovoy; first vice president, Mrs. R. H. Whittely; second vice president, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy; recording secretary,

BRAKE-TESTING DEVICE HAS ARRIVED

The "dinner can," far-famed brake-testing device used by the state registrar of motor vehicles in his campaign to make the streets safe for automobilists and pedestrians, arrived in this city last evening and will be put into immediate use in checking up the braking equipment of local automobiles.

The instrument, officially known as the "decelometer," was tried out on the Lawrence and of the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard yesterday by Chief Inspector Davine of the motor equipment department, with Inspectors Loupret and Fitzgerald of Lowell and Balley and Moore of Lawrence interested assistants.

Last evening one of the "dinner cans" arrived in Lowell and will be used here by Inspector Fitzgerald. The following table, used by the state inspectors in checking up brakes, is self explanatory:

Very bad.....	1
Bad.....	2
Not passable.....	3
Passable.....	4
Good brakes.....	5
Perfect brakes.....	6
Speed of car miles per hr.....	7
10 5.5 10.0 11.2 16.0 20.0 25.0
12 12.6 14.4 16.2 21.6 24.3 30.0
15 19.7 22.5 25.3 33.8 45.0 54.3
20 35 40 45 60 80 100
25 54.7 62.5 70.3 93.7 125 166
30 78.3 90.0 101 135 180 225

The "dinner can" works without any connection to the running mechanism of the car and a test can be made in very little time. The instrument was first made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards and has been perfected by Professor James, who was formerly connected with the bureau and who now manufactures the instrument.

The machine receives its name, "dinner can," from its shape, to the casual observer it certainly appears to be nothing more than a dinner pail. It works on the theory of inertia and consists of a pendulum swinging in a body of heavy coal oil and operating a series of gears, which in turn connect with a dial and show, regardless of the speed the automobile is making, the number of feet required by the automobile to stop if it was proceeding at a rate of 20 miles per hour when the brakes were applied. The instrument has been tested by technical authorities throughout the country and found to be very accurate.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous and troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found one of your books and read it and then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMERE, 34 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman
Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in almost no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20
Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

DAWES CARRIES FIGHT TO LA FOLLETTE STATES

DAWES' SPECIAL EN ROUTE THROUGH IOWA, MASON CITY, Oct. 8.—The republican fight against the La Follette independent candidacy in Iowa, was led today by the republican party's chief campaign speaker and vice-presidential nominee, Charles G. Dawes. The direction of the fight was taken over by Mr. Dawes late yesterday when he entered the state, made a rear-platform speech at Northwood and spoke to an audience that jammed the Mason City armory last night.

Leaving Mason City, the day's itinerary took the republican vice-presidential nominee through the section of the state in which the La Follette strength is most feared, by republican leaders, and provided for five Iowa speeches.

After leaving the state late in the day, Mr. Dawes will speak at Norfolk, Nebraska, before swinging up into Wyoming for speeches at Douglas and Casper.

The subject selected for today's speeches by Mr. Dawes was the same as discussed in all his more recent addresses—the danger as he sees it to constitutional government from the La Follette movement.

Mr. Dawes in his initial Iowa address ignored the attacks by Iowa's junior senator, Smith W. Brookhart, who demanded that Mr. Dawes be removed from the republican ticket—a demand that among other things, led the republican state central committee to declare last week that the senator had repudiated the republican party. A single and direct shot was fired at the senator by Mr. Dawes last night, in his Mason City speech, and it was loudly applauded. No reference, however, was made to Mr. Brookhart by name.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP
MELBOURNE, Oct. 8.—The total estimate of the Australian wheat yield is 119,000,000 bushels. (The Australian wheat crop last year was 123,000,000 bushels.)

Eight-one London policemen were bitten by dogs while on duty during 1923.

JOHN W. DAVIS SPEAKS IN WESTERN NEW YORK

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, began today the last lap of his drive in western New York state, leaving here for a noon-day speaking engagement in Rochester and the final address of the tour tonight in Buffalo. He described his visits to Schenectady, Albany, Utica and here as "particularly encouraging," and told members of his party he now was entirely confident the November verdict would be favorable to the democratic national and state tickets.

From now on to the closing of the campaign he is expected to stress issues dealing with the republican foreign policy, tariff, the record of the Harding and Coolidge administrations, and legislative acts of congress since 1920, not omitting plain statements on such matters as the Daugherty and Fall exposures as made by the special senate investigation.

THREE KILLED, SCORE INJURED IN CLASH

ALLAHABAD, British India, Oct. 8.—Three persons were killed and a score injured in a clash between Hindus and Moslems here last night.

people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface remedies can reach the disorder.

Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often soothe away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general skin care—the ointment to check the first bit of skin eruption. At all druggists.

BORAH SAYS G. O. P. ON DEFENSIVE

IDAHO FALLS, Ida., Oct. 8.—Senator W. E. Borah made his first political speech of the campaign in this city last night. He declared that the republican party was on the defensive. The men who were responsible for this embarrassing position are, he said, those who had defended Newberyism and Lorrimerism, those who had "piled taxes upon the people in order to create offices for slavish henchmen, in the same men who have tolerated in the departments of government the miserable swarms of broken down political machines."

Senator Borah did not name those to whom he referred, but he was of the opinion that the man or woman who kept in touch with current affairs would have little trouble in making some fairly accurate guesses. His speech made some of the old standard-bearers who were in his audience wince. It was a matter of course that the senator had to make his first political speech of the 1924 campaign he picked out what is probably the strongest republican city in the state.

The part of his speech which the senator said was intended to make clear his position in the campaign was reduced to manuscript form. In it the senator did not name the president, nor even indirectly refer to him. He did, however, refer to Senator La Follette as one whose friendship he enjoyed and one for whose sincerity of purpose and ability he had great admiration. He said his position as the La Follette movement was the same as that he took in 1912, when his friend, Col. Roosevelt, sought to organize a new party.

POLICE FIND LIQUOR AND REVOLVER

While searching for liquor in the premises occupied by George Michaels at Fletcher and Lagrange streets last night, liquor officers found, besides a quantity of liquor, a revolver. Michaels was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of unlawfully possessing a revolver, and was fined $100. The gun was forfeited.

Officers Aldrich, Kilroy, W. H. Histon and Leachy, found a small portion of liquid goods in defendant's store, but did not prefer illegal keeping charges against him when the more important discovery was made.

Kagoshima, The airman seems doubtful, owing to the present delay, whether he will be able to make the trans-Pacific flight this fall.

PRODUCER OF "VANITIES OF 1924" ARRESTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The license commissioner and the district attorney's office will be called upon to furnish expert testimony to determine where art begins and licentiousness ends when the hearing in the case of Paul Carroll, producer of "Vanities of 1924" is resumed Thursday. Magistrate James M. Harrell, after studying three large advertising posters which were the cause of Carroll's arrest on a charge of displaying indecent pictures last night, said he was unable to decide without expert testimony whether or not the pictures are indecent.

Carroll, through his attorney, entered a plea of not guilty.

The magistrate paroled him after exacting a promise that he return to court Thursday for further examination.

Council Members Denounce City's Financial Policy

Adjournment of the council was until next Tuesday night in order that not too great a delay might ensue.

The mayor's statement that the city department is on the verge of bankruptcy, following the council's similar statement as to the dire financial condition, created consternation in the council, particularly when the staggering sum of $35,000 additional was asked to carry out the year.

"At the outset of the financial year," said Councilor Congrove, "it was a well known fact and called to the attention of the mayor that he had skimped on the charity appropriation. Later he came in with a supplementary budget that was supposed to cure those ills. From the start it has been plain that with the figure juggling in this department there have been something in view—some political purpose to be served. The responsibility for the spending of these great amounts of money is laid at our door by the people. In the face of that we have this false tax reduction. If that is economy, retrenchment and reform that has been inaugurated here, I am at a loss for words. There is too much of this mystifying juggling of figures. It is time the people know the facts as to how their finances are being run and it is time we should stand up in our shoes and declare ourselves not the dupes of a politician or of humanity that we are thought to be. We haven't any say as to the expenditures of these monies, yet we are the ones who are held up as extravagant. It is time for the people to rise in their might and forever make good their protest against this continual game of political football that is being played with us as the pawns."

Councilor Daly rose to speak against

the motion of Messrs. Chretien and McPadden that the communication and order be referred to the finance committee, stating that immediate action, in his opinion, was required.

Mr. McPadden said he wished to be on record as completely in accord with the views of Councilor Congrove. "I have no desire to interfere in such manner as to bring about the shutting down of any municipal department, especially where the poor and the helpless are the ones affected," he said. "I agree with my colleague that we have a false tax rate and because of departments, tax of funds we are getting figures, figures, figures, and we seem bound to get more. The thing to do is let this matter go into the hands of the finance committee and let us find out for ourselves the true state of affairs and then reach our decision as to what shall be done."

Mr. Chretien moved that the superintendent of utilities be advised his presence would be required at the finance committee meeting. President Gallagher, chairman of the committee, stated that the superintendent, the mayor and others would be invited to come to the committee session. Mr. Sadler and all the council should be given the opportunity to appear and he was informed that the opportunity would be given.

Mr. Daly said he doubts if under the municipal finance law the council is empowered to transfer funds for departmental maintenance set aside for overlay, primarily for the abatement of taxes. Mr. Gallagher stated that he was informed that the opportunity would be given.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Recently Elected Grand Knight to Be Installed Tomorrow Evening

Charles J. Landers, recently elected grand knight of Lowell council, 72, Knights of Columbus, will be formally installed in office at appropriate exercises in Liberty hall, Memorial Auditorium, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. District Deputy J. Lowe McDaniel and suite of Wakefield will be the installing officers and the principal speaker will be Hon. John E. Swift, of Milford, state secretary of the organization and one of the leading orators among the Catholic laity in the state of Massachusetts. There will be an entertainment, luncheon and claret.

The new grand knights will assume office as successors to Frank A. Groves. Mr. Landers has been affiliated with local and state branches of the order for a number of years, having served as a district deputy for five years. He is well qualified by experience to uphold the office and has the unanimous backing of a large membership in his future undertaking.

The other officers to be installed are as follows: Deputy grand knight, George E. Murphy; chancellor, James J. Brault; recorder, Patrick J. Sweeney; financial secretary, Philip Brann; warden, Frank J. Finnegan; treasurer,

Thomas J. Fitzgerald; outside guard, John J. Lane; inside guard, Eugene Fontaine; advocate, P. Harold Ready; trustee for three years, Dr. James F. Gaffney.

Conspicuous in the list of officers named above is the financial secretary, Philip J. Green, who has served continuously in that capacity almost 25 years. His long term of office is the reward of diligent devotion to his duties, of conscientious application to the many details connected with his work, and of loyal co-operation with his superior officers and brother members.

The Knights will observe Columbus Day by marching in a body to St. Patrick's church, where mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain.

The annual autumn dancing party will be held in the Commodore ball room next Friday night. The proceeds of this event will be turned over to the building fund.

EAGLES HOLD WELL ATTENDED MEETING

A well-attended meeting of Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last evening at the Eagle home, 34 Gorham street, with P. J. Leland Thomas as guest in the chair.

Considerable routine business was transacted, five propositions for membership were received and four candidates were initiated into the order. The revised by-laws, adopted at the last Grand Aerie convention, were read

100 EPISCOPAL BISHOPS AT CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Representatives of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church and members of the national council met in joint session today to outline the program the church will pursue for the next three years. The session today marks the first joint meeting of the two bodies since the national council was organized in 1919. One hundred bishops from all parts of the country were here for the meeting which was attended by special services in the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The church's 1925 budget and foreign and domestic missionary problems were discussed by the national council in a preliminary meeting yesterday.

and discussed, and a communication from the grand worthy president was also read.

The report of the building committee in which it was recommended to hold opening ceremonies at the new home on Nov. 12 was adopted, and several other committee reports were read. A committee of 50 was named to devise ways and means to enlarge the building fund.

Following the meeting, Brother Daniel Sullivan of Boston gave an interesting talk on the "Eagles' Non-Contributory Old Age Pension bill."

TO PROMOTE TOLERANCE

At Utica, N. Y., has been formed a society to be known as the Hamilton-Jefferson Association, the object of which is to promote tolerance in economics, politics and religion, or in other words to put in practice the patriotic principles of the constitution. Unfortunately, it appears that fanatical bigots and agitators appealing to race and religious prejudice have succeeded in sowing the seeds of hatred among people who should be friends and who have common interests in working for the welfare and happiness of their country and its people. It is found that these outbreaks come periodically, inspired by a spirit of evil under the guise of patriotism and religion, setting neighbor against neighbor, brother against brother and not infrequently child against parent. As a rule these outbreaks run their course as a form of mental disease and then disappear, leaving but an unsavory memory of effort, ostensibly for high aims, but in reality causing social discord, suspicion, jealousy and destructive enmity and opposition where there should be harmony and co-operation.

Two societies supposed to be rivals but in reality having much in common, particularly in patriotism, tolerance and loyalty to the constitution, have decided to form this organization which it is hoped will serve as an anti-toxin to the disease of sectionalism whether it be inculcated by the Ku Klux Klan or an organization by any other name. The Klan is the aggressor and the anti-klan is the result. When people are attacked and an attempt made to ostracize them or deprive them of their rights, they naturally organize for their protection.

With a view to ending this miserable business, the Hamilton-Jefferson association is formed. It will supply a long-felt want in standing against the fanatical agitators who run counter to the basic principles of our constitution and menace the liberties won by the revolutionary fathers and sustained and defended by heroic sacrifice through a series of destructive wars. A society composed of equal numbers of Masons and Knights of Columbus, can promote tolerance by exposing the lies by which the promoters of sectional organizations impose upon their dupes.

METALLIC AND PAPER MONEY

If a bank told you that you could walk into its vaults and have all the gold you could carry away in one trip, how much would you get? Off-hand estimates are certain to be exaggerated, even though many would kill themselves with the strain of trying to lift too much. One hundred pounds of gold is worth only about $30,000.

A gold robbery always appeals to the imagination of a fiction reader. And yet gold is so heavy that no man could steal a fortune unless he used horses or a motor truck.

There are not many people who could carry $30,000 in gold a city block without sitting down to rest pantingly. The old saying, "worth his weight in gold," therefore, does not mean as much as popularly believed.

Silver is even wavier. Fifty dollars in silver coin is like lugging around a small stove. That is why the silver dollar is not popular.

Uncle Sam is trying to make the silver dollar popular again. His reason is that the upkeep of paper money representing his silver, costs about 3 per cent a year of its face value. Silver certificates wear out quickly and new ones have to be printed in their place, after repeated launderings. This is expensive.

To try to get people to carry silver dollars again is futile. The public simply will not do it. Furthermore, such an attempt is primitive and a reflection on public intelligence.

People long ago insisted on having the actual precious metal. Education and confidence in the national government's integrity have shattered ancient fears. We accept the silver certificate form of paper money quite as trustfully as we would take the real silver, possibly more so.

If the upkeep of paper money is too heavy a drain on taxes, why not use tokens?

By tokens we mean discs of metal redeemable by the government at a value of $1, same as the silver dollar. To avoid confusion with other small coins, the dollar tokens could be made of aluminum, provided it is not too easily counterfeited. There should be no mistaking the light weight.

A public that had confidence in beer checks and still surrenders its hats for a bill of pasteboard proffered by the checking girl surely would take kindly to a light-weight metal token representing the silver dollar.

MURDER MYSTERY

The state detectives have in hand the investigation of a murder mystery, the victim of which was found in a pond at Norwood last Saturday. The body was found and weighed in precisely the same way as was the body of Clements, found in the Shawheen river. Various circumstances lead the detectives to believe that both murders were committed by the same parties or at least that the bodies of the two men were disposed of by the same person or persons at widely different points. A young man named Hattie Mowbray has confessed to being a party to the Clements murder, and various circumstances lead the detectives to suspect him of having something to do with the other murder also. It is expected, therefore, that the connection will be established between the two murders and it may be shown that they were committed by the same person.

The number of tragedies of this kind recently revealed indicates a growing disregard for the sacredness of human life and greater boldness in the commission of murder and other capital offenses. Banditry, highway robbery, burglary and bootlegging are now carried on fearlessly by criminal gangsters whose numbers are daily increasing as a result of the failure of the police of the big cities to capture such criminals and bring about their conviction and punishment.

COLLEGE EXTENSION COURSES

It must have been quite disappointing to the officials of the college extension department of the state board of education to find that on the opening night of the classes the number who went to the high school to register in various courses was ridiculously small as compared with what it should be. It would seem that the young people of this city do not appreciate the splendid opportunities offered them in these courses. It is true that a great many of our young people are attending the evening high school, taking up

A Thought

Frankness Squelched

Although she had never been married at all, her views on remarriage were very strict. So of course she had to call on the young divorcee and tell her so. Frankness was one of the virtues on which she prided herself, so the conversation had not progressed far before she declared to the young bride, "Frankness may say so but don't you think you might have waited more than a month after your divorce to marry your second husband?" "O, do you really think so?" replied the bride, "I'll make it a point to wait longer next time."

Very Clever Lawyer

The criminal lawyer believed in being absolutely frank with his clients, and accordingly, when a man came to him charged with stealing a pig he said: "Now I will be perfectly open with you. If I take your case you must in the first place tell me honestly: Did you or did you not steal this pig?" "Well, sir," the man admitted, "but I have a big family and no money, and I was in need of meat for them." "That's all right," replied the lawyer. "You bring me half of that pig and I'll take your case." When the case came into the court the lawyer addressed the jury thus: "This man did not steal any more of the pig than I did." The verdict was "Not guilty."

Safety First

Lord Reading—better known to fame as Sir Rufus Isaacs—recently told the story of his first brief. He had been retained to defend a man, a street trader who had been summoned for selling bad figs. Mr. Isaacs, as he then was, expatiated at length on the quality of the fruit, and in this he was, as was only natural, backed up by his client. Presently the magistrate intervened. "Had either of them tasted the fruit?" he asked. They both confessed that they had not. Whereupon the magistrate suggested that either the defendant or his counsel should eat some in court. Mr. Isaacs turned to his client; "Go on," he whispered, "eat one or two." "What will happen if I don't?" whispered the other in reply. "You'll lose the case," "All right," answered the defendant resignedly, "then I'll lose it."

"In the Cool of the Evening"

In the cool of the evening,
When the low, sweet whisp'ers
Waken,
When the laborers turn them homeward
And the weary have their will,
When the cooers of the roses
Over the forest are shaken,
Is it but the wind that cometh
O'er the far green hill?

For they say 'tis but the sunset winds
That wander through the heather,
Rustle all the meadow grass
And lead the daisy forth;
They say 'tis but the winds that how
The reeds in prayer together,
And did the shadowy pools with fire
Along the shadowy burn.

In the beauty of the twilight,
In the garden that life loveth,
They have veiled his lovely feature
With the darkness of a name:
Through his garden, through his
garden,
It is but the wind that moveth
No more! But oh, the miracle,
The miracle is the same.

In the cool of the evening,
When the sky is an old story,
Slowly dying, but remembered eye,
And loved with passion still Hush! The thringes of life

In the fading golden glory
Softly rustling as life cometh
O'er the far green hill.
—ALFRED NOYES.

COOLIDGE TO GREET DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A reception of delegates to the national radio conference here was on the program of President Coolidge today. Other conventions meeting here in the near future will be similarly greeted by the president and, with the exception of two other engagements, it appears that he will confine his speaking activities for the next two weeks at least to such occasions.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

James E. Markham, president of the David L. Walsh club, delivered a brief but eloquent talk at the democratic rally in Memorial Auditorium Tuesday night, speaking particularly of the need of getting out the vote. He said in part:

"In attempting to carry out the purposes of our organization we were immediately confronted with the startling situation of the large number of unregistered citizens. This is a situation which should not exist. There is a moral obligation and civic duty upon every citizen, man or woman, over 21 years of age to register and to vote on election day."

"To vote and be a part of our government should be the pride and boast of every American citizen. They owe this duty to themselves, to their public officials, and to their country. It is they who elect the members of the supreme court and decide that in determining the representatives and senators of the district the appointment is based not upon the population, but upon the number of citizens, but upon the number of registered voters. Hence, if you are not registered you are not being represented."

"It is a duty they owe to their public officials, for by their vote they can commend and reward an official who has been faithful to his trust, and on the other hand they can condemn or cast out of office one who is or has been unworthy."

"And they owe to their country, for America will live as long and as longer than when it ceases to be a representative government. In the words of the immortal Lincoln, 'Of the people, by the people and for the people.'"

"Here in Lowell there are thousands of unregistered citizens—this potential strength should not be allowed to remain dormant. Therefore, it behooves each and each of us to look ahead at our relatives, friends and neighbors and beseech ourselves and see whether or not these people are registered, and if not, to urge that they perform their duty."

"If this is done we can be reassured of democratic success for you will find these people in the ranks of democracy which is the party of the people, and they will vote for the broad and great principles of the democratic party and against republicanism, dishonesty and corruption and a lack of leadership which has produced nothing but industrial chaos, widespread unemployment and a low level in all human activities."

Here is a warning that should be heeded by all owners of autos and by all those who are employed in garages, where this poison is generated in large quantities. It is odorless, of about the same gravity as air which causes it to spread in all directions, and kills without warning. Dr. A. J. Gettler, toxicologist of a New York hospital, explained, commenting upon the deaths at No. 110 West 58th street, "This man did not get any more of the gas from an automobile exhaust than he detected by odor. This constitutes its greatest danger, he said."

A small quantity of carbon monoxide is sufficient to kill. Symptoms of its effect are drowsiness or faintness, occasional dizziness, headache, and a victim lies down to rest and is dead before he realizes his danger.

"When one feels a fatigue or faintness in a closed room which he cannot explain," Dr. Gettler advised, "he should go out of doors at once, breathe fresh air and take exercise."

The opening meeting of the fall winter season of the Middlesex Women's club, which was held Monday afternoon, was as usual largely attended by the members. The program for the evening was followed by Mrs. Charles H. Johnson, president of the organization, offers many literary and musical entertainments. The attractions will be many, and it is planned to "accomplish much this year. One of the new features in the club is the fashion show to be held during the year as well as the cooking exhibit. It was also announced at the meeting that in the future the library will be open from 3:15 until 8:30, during which time the members will have ample opportunity to secure reading matter. For those who are unable to visit the library before the meeting it will be responded promptly after the entertainment program to further accommodate the members.

At the regular meeting of the Centralville East End club last night, James Wood, recently appointed a member of the Lowell police department, was presented a purse of gold by his fellow members in recognition of his popularity. The presentation was made by President Ralph Holt in the presence of a large gathering. Mr. Wood is a former vice-president of the club. He is a World War veteran, having served 14 months in the Aviation Corps. He was quite surprised when his friends presented him the gift, but thanked them for their kindly remembrance.

POTHLER MURDER TRIAL

Former Department of Justice Agent to Tell of Alleged Confession

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—James J. Lee, a Connecticut garage man and former department of justice agent, was ready to testify this morning as to statements alleged to have been made to him in New York by former Sergeant-Bugler Roland H. Pothler and of a purported confession to him in the Providence, R. I., jail by Pothler, who is on trial in the federal court for the murder of Major Alexander B. Cronkhite on June 25, 1921.

Major Cronkhite was shot to death while on a practice march with the 212th Engineers. Pothler and Captain Robert Rosenbluth are held on charges of murder as a result of the mysterious death of Major Cronkhite. Rosenbluth will be tried later.

Pothler was curious as to the difference between "killing" and "murdering" a man, David M. Jordan of Providence, R. I., testified yesterday. Jordan, who formerly was a deputy United States marshal at Providence, said that he never had heard Pothler admit murdering Major Cronkhite.

Other witnesses have testified that Pothler made such an admission. Jordan said, however, that he had heard Pothler ask:

"Can't you kill a man without murdering him?"

Ralph Navarro of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frederick S. Hoeckley of New York, special agents of the department of justice at the time Pothler was first arrested in March, 1921, preceded Jordan on the stand. Both of them said that Pothler in their presence and with Jordan present, declared in a New York City restaurant on March 25, 1921, that he had killed Major Cronkhite at the instigation of Robert Rosenbluth.

Jordan said he had no remembrance of "any of the stuff" Navarro and Hoeckley narrated. Pothler while in the restaurant said that Major Cronkhite was a "pretty good fellow" but that Rosenbluth had a strange power over him.

Much of the session yesterday had to do with the removal of Pothler from Providence to New York city in March, 1921.

FOR CHILDREN WHO ARE UNDERWEIGHT

Children who are below normal weight are often weak and inactive. They contract colds and sickness easily for they have no resisting power.

Give them Father John's Medicine and then notice the change in their condition. They will gain in health and strength and will start to put on flesh. Thousands of mothers rely on this old-fashioned foot tonic.

Father John's Medicine is prepared by a scientific process which blends the purest cod liver oil with other valuable ingredients in such a way as to make it wholesome and easy to digest. For over 69 years Father John's Medicine has been the standard body building tonic for all the family.—Adv.

Listen in

A hundred million people, yes, perhaps it's more or less, have fallen for the latest fad of all. We all were kind of doubtful but we've changed a bit, I guess, and one by one we finally have to fall.

The radio has got us and it holds us in its grip. We're pickin' things at random from the air. We all are mighty thankful when a friend hands out a tip as to something that we didn't know was there.

There are lots of little buttons that you push or pull or turn, but a lot of them are really never used. We think we've done the main thing when we get the tubes to burn and with other little angles were confused.

Every night we get a station that we haven't had before; then we switch before the number's half way through. And then there comes a rasping from another station's score, but we never know exactly who is who.

Yep, the radio has got us; we have fallen with a crash, and the craze that's hit is really one that's rare. We are satisfied and appy, even though we're getting trash, just as long as we get something from the air.

Cutting the Pattern
According to the Cloth

Every woman who makes her own clothes knows what this means.

She lays out her patterns with care, allowing each piece only what it needs. In other words, she BUDGETS her cloth before she cuts into it, in order to get all she can out of it.

In the same manner you may BUDGET your income. So much money you have and no more. Out of this amount must come the various pieces of expense.

As the clever woman lays out her patterns on the cloth, so can she, by using the

John Hancock Budget and Account Sheet

as a pattern, lay out the pieces of her income before she cuts into it.

Free copies of the Budget sheets will be supplied upon request. Use the coupon.

at the post-prandial exercises and introduced the speakers of the evening. He took occasion to thank the gathering for attending.

S. M. Nathan of Pittsburg, a member of the board of directors of the state association, was the first speaker. His subject, "Co-operation," and spoke at length on this virtue. Co-operation is needed, he said, to create a greater demand for merchandise.

Louis S. Smith of Beverly, state secretary, dwelt at length on the accomplishments of the state association, including its successful fight against unjust taxation. This fight, he said, will be continued until complete elimination of unjust taxes is completed. He commended the Harvard bureau of research for its great work in behalf of jewelers and all businesses in general, and he urged contributions to the fund for the maintenance of the national publicity bureau which spent $300,000 to propagate the slogan, "Gifts that last."

In closing, Mr. Smith beseeched all to join the state and national associations, to participate in their mutual insurance plan, and to attend the next state convention which will be held in Worcester in March of next year.

P. J. Stevers of Boston, president of the state association, spoke briefly on affairs pertaining to the general welfare of the organization, and said he was particularly gratified to see Lowell had such a large and enthusiastic local association.

He was followed by Past President Albert R. Keir of Boston, who spoke in the interest of better business conditions, and the correction of evils, such as fake goods. He gratefully related Frank Ricard of this city for his work in behalf of exposing these fake goods.

Mr. Ricard was also called upon to speak and thanked the state officers for being present.

MEETING OF LOCAL
KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The final union meeting of the local Knights of Pythias prior to the big parade in Boston will be held at Wampanoag lodge, Castle hall, Odd Fellows temple, Middlesex street, Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock. A meeting of the booster committee will be held directly after this meeting, and it is important that every member of the committee be present.

The official order for the Ballantine day parade in Boston, Oct. 13, has been issued. The parade forms at 12 o'clock noon and starts at 1 o'clock. Following the parade, the Shriners' band will entertain in Mechanics hall until 2 o'clock, when exercises will be held with George W. Penniman, past supreme representative, the orator of the day. The banquet will be at 6:30 in the same hall and the final event of the day will be a pythian dance in the same hall at 8 o'clock.

All knights and their friends who are going to Boston on the special cars will meet at the Memorial Auditorium at 9 o'clock and march to the station, boarding special cars at 10 o'clock.

OPENS FALL AND WINTER SEASON

The opening meeting of the fall and winter season of the Lowell Congregational club was held last night at the Pawtucket church, whose members proved charming hosts. A splendid dinner followed a social hour, after which came a short business meeting and an address on "Shadows" by Rev. John M. Phillips of Manchester. The social hour was made more pleasant by the organ playing of Sidney R. Fleet and a group of songs by Miss Amy L. French, accompanied by Miss Margaret Martin. John H. Frost, club president, presided at the after-dinner exercises. The yellow pumpkins, corn in the stalk and autumn foliage were attractively used in a seasonal decorative scheme.

Man Sleeps Like Log
—Eats Anything

Was Once a Wreck From Gas On Stomach

"I suffered from gas on the stomach so that I couldn't keep food down and tossed in bed all night. After taking one bottle Adierika (intestinal antiseptic) I can eat anything and sleep like a log." (Signed) R. L. Miller.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a "fluid" preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a complete system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adierika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the bowels. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adierika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you.

In slight disorders such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful Adierika ALWAYS brings relief. A long treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under the direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians
"I have found nothing in my 30 years' practice to exceed Adierika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adierika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I use Adierika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name withheld by request.)

"Adierika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"Cannot describe the awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system (by Adierika). Feel better than for 20 years." (Signed) J. R. Fickell.

Adierika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, a Merriam at, and other leading druggists.—Adv.

MIGHTY HITTING OF GOSLIN PUTS SENATORS ON EVEN TERMS IN SERIES

"Goose" With Homer and Three Singles for Perfect Batting Average Leading Factor in 7 to 4 Victory—Mogridge Twirls Well Until Eighth

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (By the Associated Press)—"Bucky" Harris, boy manager of the Senators, and John McGraw, veteran pilot of the Giants, met today in the fifth game of their seven round bout for the world's baseball championship.

The first four sessions developed into a battle of rights and lefts with the margin strongly in favor of the southpaws. Yesterday, Harris evened up the fight by taking the fourth round by a score of 7 to 4, the widest margin of the struggle. George Mogridge, a left-handed pitcher, and Goose Goslin, a port-sided batter, dubbed the Giants silly.

Today, Manager McGraw will revert to his southpaw tactics and use Arthur Nehf if the latter's injured hand permits. Otherwise, the New York hurler will be Bentley or Watson. Harris will utilize the lefty right-hand punch which won the pennant for his team, Walter Johnson, veteran of 13 years of diamond batting.

Record Again Broken

Meanwhile, the public is enjoying the baseball battle of the century. Yesterday 49,332 people, the largest attendance which ever witnessed a game at the Polo Grounds, cheered the visiting Senators even more than the home town Giants. Today another record breaker is expected.

The purse for which the teams are battling amounts to $212,312.38. Each team will draw about $57,000 by winning or $38,211 by losing. The winning team's figure would be about $95,000 and the losing amount $43,121.

Roger Peckinpaugh, shortstop of the Senators, was not able to play yesterday because of a charley-horse and will not be used today unless the injury has improved beyond expectations. Mogridge took his place at shortstop and Miller replaced Blumie at third. The absence of the veteran Peckinpaugh weakened the lineup.

GEORGE MOGRIDGE

MURPHY READY FOR LOWELL HIGH WILL HAVE FINNEGAN BOUT TO GO SOME MONDAY

Reports received today from Billy Murphy's training camp indicate that he is in fine condition for his bout here tomorrow night with Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston. Billy rested up yesterday after his victory over Young Kenoyer at Nashua Monday night and today engaged in a light workout. He will take things easily and expects to be in top form when called into the ring to face the Boston southpaw.

In the Kenoyer bout Murphy worked cautiously in the early rounds, as a result he allowed the heavy champion to pile up a lead. But in the latter stages the Lowell flash tore in and soon changed the picture. He forced to the front with a dazzling attack that had Kenoyer bewildered. Murphy finished strong and the decision was a proper one.

Finnegan, who has been after Murphy for a year for a bout, is said to be "in the pink." He has been training in Boston for a couple of weeks and he has worked against southpaws in an endeavor to "perfect an attack and defense for the Lowell boy." He feels he has succeeded and will enter the ring tomorrow night confident of stopping the victorious sweep of the "pride of the Acre."

Tommy Leonard of Lowell and Johnny McBride of Lawrence will meet in the semi-final. There will be two six round preliminaries.

Four of seven games, losing only to the Acre Athletics.

The Indians are practicing diligently for their tilt with the Parkvales of Lawrence next Sunday.

The Kenwood Rovers are down on the books for a game with the Lion A.C. of Haverhill in the down-river city next Sunday.

The Oakleaves of Centralville, who were in the running for the sectional championship last year, have reorganized and are prepared to tackle the best outfit in the city, the O.M.L. Cadets. Kenwood Rovers, Indians and Butlers preferred. Gleason, former Indian, is coaching the team.

The Butlers are practicing in anticipation of coming games. This team is out to wrest city championship honors from the Lafayettees last Sunday from the O. M. L. Cadets. Their view was a big feather in their cap.

The Garham A. C. accepts the challenge of the Oakleaves for Sunday, Oct. 12. The Garhams is a team composed of Casey, Kennedy, Brown, Phil, Bunker, L. Wilson, Doc Wilson, Janson Clancy, Kahlan, Bellinsky, Tsogkas and Fawthrop.

The Alpines challenge the Highland Fawthrop.

FAMOUS FOR QUALITY

Lowell Amateur Champion To Make Professional Debut on Friday Night

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Al Mello of Lowell, national amateur 147-pound champion, will desert the ranks of the amateur boxer Friday night when he will participate in one of the preliminaries to the Johnny Wilson-Frank Moody bout at Mechanics building, Boston, under the auspices of the Suffolk A. A.

Under the management of Hobby Goldman of Boston, the popular Lowell boy will be opposed to some worthy opponent to be selected by Matchmaker Tom Goodwin. Who that opponent will be will be known tomorrow, but neither Goldman nor Mello is worrying. The Boston fight public has sublime confidence in the Lowell southpaw's ability to tip over any rival that would be pitted against him at this stage of his professional ring career.

Mello, as a ring performer, is probably better known in Boston than in his native city, for of the 60 bouts in which he has engaged during his year and a half of amateur ring activity, more than half of them were fought in Greater Boston. He has scored 45 knockouts during his brief career, but his greatest hub triumph was in the Boston Arena last spring when he captured the national amateur welterweight title by defeating five opponents, including three champions—John Rini of Cleveland, the reigning king, the Metropolitan champion and the New England titleholder.

His defeat in his third bout at the Olympic championships at Paris was reported to have been a rank injustice, but Mello himself magnanimously acknowledged that his Argentine opponent was a fine boxer, albeit he allows that the contest was exceedingly close.

Al, who has always trained at the Lisbon club, of which he is a member, will condition himself for his first professional bout at Kelley & Hayes gymnasium and it is a certainty that a large delegation from the Spindle City, headed by representatives of the Lisbon club and St. Peter's Cadets, will witness his professional debut.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB MEETING

An interesting talk on the subject of the preservation of the state's fish and game and the putting down of lawless hunting and fishing, featured a regular meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association at its quarters in Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street, last evening.

President James B. Burns called the meeting to order and read the minutes of the previous meeting. The outgoing committee's report was received with great interest and showed that the affair was both a financial and social success. Completion of the (annual) Secretary James Clark of the Massachusetts Fish and Game association was introduced by the president.

Mr. Clark's talk was informal and he called upon club members to voice their sentiments towards proposals which he made. In opening his talk, he told of the drastic depletion of the state's fish and game supply and said that he believed unless rapid action is taken, this state will be the first in the country to be left without any fish or game.

The lawless hunter, the man who goes out with his gun regardless of open or closed seasons and who bags considerably more game than the law allows for, made the speaker's point of the cause of the rapid depletion of the game supply by Mr. Clark and he advanced several propositions to do away with this menace.

First he spoke of the plan advanced by many sportsmen that each club lease large tracts of land in its district and build up a private hunting ground. This plan, he declared was not feasible for the ordinary club member on the ground that while at first the expense would not be great, yearly development of the game reserve would call for rapidly increasing dues and within a few years the dues would be so large that only a few men would care to pay. The result would be, he said, that the reserve would be owned by two or three persons, as is the case in England, today.

The only equitable remedy, he advanced, was organization of the members of the club into a private club. The part of club members to put down the lawless hunter. To do this, he continued, the state organization planned to form a "Citizens Club." Each member of the club, he said, would wear a button plainly marked when he goes into the woods and if 15,000 or more members of fish and game clubs joined in this club, they could exert a great influence in checking the lawless element by reporting lawbreakers to state authorities. The psychological effect of a large number of hunters bearing the button showing that he is a supporter of the law and order in the woods would also have a great result not only in stopping the lawless element in the woods but in gaining for the fish and game clubs sportsmen who have the right to a share in the help in any move towards preserving the game supply.

At the close of his talk, members of the club discussed the proposition introduced by Mr. Clark and he called upon to answer many questions concerning the feasibility of the plan.

JAKE DAUBERT IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—Friends of Jacob E. Daubert, first baseman and captain of the Cincinnati Reds, were alarmed last night when word came from the hospital that the veteran infielder had fallen to rally, as was expected, from a recent operation. He underwent the operation for a hernia and was in poor physical condition for several months before he entered the hospital.

MARATHON RACE ON THE NORTH COMMON

The North common will be the scene of a 20-mile marathon race next Monday when star athletes will run 32 laps around the streets bordering the common. The race will start promptly at 2:30 p. m. with the following entries: Jim Grove, Fred Couture, Edward Peters, Joseph Wells, Christy Roddy and Luigi Tricop of Lawrence. The starter and judges will be announced later.

VERMONT FOOTBALL STAR OUT OF GAME

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 8.—Harry Harms, acting captain of the Vermont football team has developed blood poisoning in one of his arms and his services will be lost to the team for probably three weeks, physicians said today. Harms, who has been a star on the Vermont team for the past two years, was one of the two veterans on the Vermont line and his absence will be felt considerably by the Vermonters in their big game with Dartmouth Saturday.

TAD JONES IN HOLE-IN-ONE CLUB

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8.—Tad Jones, Yale's head football coach, has qualified for membership in the hole-in-one club. Though very busy weekdays, Jones finds time for his golf on Sundays. On his last appearance on the New Haven country club links, it is learned, he sank a shot from the ninth tee into the hole 183 yards away. He is not the first to make the shot, however, two other members of the club having accomplished it before this season.

GREAT CROWD CHEERS GOVERNOR SMITH AT BOSTON RALLY

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Gov. Smith of New York, who came to Boston yesterday by way of Manchester, N. H., was the principal speaker at a highly successful democratic rally in Mechanics Hall last night. The great auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity; every seat, except a few which were reserved, was taken almost as soon as the doors were thrown open, an hour before the speaking began, and many hundreds of men and women stood. Before the distinguished guest arrived, the people who had been standing grew tired of looking at the reserved seats and so they rushed in and occupied them. The estimate was that at least 8000 were in the hall.

Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, the Massachusetts member of the democratic national committee, called the meeting to order and then introduced Gen. Charles H. Cole as chairman of the meeting. Senator Walsh and Mayor Curley, the democratic nominees for United States senator and governor, respectively, preceded Gov. Smith as speakers.

Genuine Enthusiasm
The audience was tremendously enthusiastic. It cheered and shouted for at least six minutes and when Gov. Smith was introduced, and there were no hired claqueurs to keep the demonstration going; it was clearly genuine. The distinguished visitor did not receive a monopoly of the applause. Both Senator Walsh and Mayor Curley roused great enthusiasm; the latter in particular, seemed to be in the house of his friends. Mr. Walsh devoted himself to national issues, attacking the public policy of the conduct of affairs in Washington. Mayor Curley also paid some attention to national questions, but in particular he made a characteristic attack on his opponent for the governorship, even the republicans in the audience and there were many of them, apparently could not help laughing at some of the things the mayor said.

Democratic Leaders There
Almost all of the prominent democrats in this part of the state were on the platform. Ex-Mayor Peters and Congressman Gallivan were in the front row. Congressman Upshaw of Georgia had a seat in the body of the hall, but during one of the pauses in the proceedings he was assisted to the platform, where he was warmly greeted by Mr. Gallivan and Senator Walsh.

It was 8:30 when Mayor Quinn stepped forward. Just before he began, Mayor Curley walked up the main aisle and disappeared behind the platform. Gen. Cole was interrupted several times. He had hardly opened his mouth when in marched the band which had been at the dinner given to Gov. Smith at the Amesbury house, and directly behind the band was ex-Mayor John P. Fitzgerald, apparently in the best of spirits. Gen. Cole began, but he had not proceeded far when Gov. Smith, accompanied by Col. William A. (Gator) Walker, who had been directly behind the speaker, again when Gov. Smith, after the lapse of a minute or two, appeared on the platform.

Thereafter Gen. Cole went on with his brief speech in which he attacked President Coolidge for his veto of the bonus bill and his general treatment of the veterans of the war.

Walsh and Curley
Gen. Cole introduced Senator Walsh as the best friend the veterans had in Washington. The senator spoke for a little more than 20 minutes. He said that the democrats of Massachusetts were looking forward to 1928, when they hoped to support Gov. Smith again for the presidency.

Mayor Curley did not mention the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution, but he did mention John W. Davis, and following custom he presented a gold key of the city of Boston to Gov. Smith. "If he comes here after Jan. 2, next," said the mayor, referring to the governor.

Stock Tariff Phrases
"The tariff is being treated with silence, except for the usual stock phrases of protection and workmen's wages. All that the workmen of this country have been able to accomplish for themselves by collective bargaining is credited to the republican tariff."

"John W. Davis, on the other hand, comes out fair and square when he says that if he were president of the United States he would not only accept the invitation to attend, but that he would have insisted upon the right of the United States to be present and take a leading part when matters so vital to ourselves were being dealt with."

Our republican friends put the whole tariff question back into politics by the passage of the Fordney-McCumber bill. There was more to that enactment than was contained in any republican promise of protection for the American workmen.

"Let's see how some of the republican newsmen dealt with it at the time of its passage."

5000 CATTLE SLAUGHTERED IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 8.—Slaughter of an additional 5000 cattle because of the foot and mouth disease was begun in Harris county today. They had been grazing within a radius of twenty miles of the area first affected. Dr. J. Gomez Esparrza, head of the department of animal industry in Mexico, last night announced an embargo on products from Texas.

Chicago Tribune said: "The result is a tariff of expiation rather than of protection." "In New York city it was bitterly assailed by leading republicans for practically the same reasons, but it cost $100,000 in campaign funds before and after the convention of 1920 to elect the republican ticket. That had to be paid back in some way to the privileged few that were permitted to herd their agents in Washington to work the tariff schedules as they desired them."

"The long list of delegates to the national convention of 1921 representing the big western beef raising industry probably furnished the reason why the president was not asked upon the tariff committee of the tariff commission held before him as far back as July 29 of this year, which failure to act is costing the American people $145,000 a day in taxation upon that very necessary commodity of ordinary life."

IT MAY BE BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER

The possibility of a brother-against-brother final match for this year's Longmeadow golf club championship is being discussed in the town of Longmeadow. The club has been divided into two teams, one of which has been drawn in opposite halves and both have gone safely through two elimination matches. If each survives the semi-final round the final will be strictly a family affair. In the semi-final Jim Ward meets John Mulvaney and Tim will match shots with Henry Thompson.

Longmeadow will hold its annual fall tournament for members next Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Ten prizes will be up for competition and the event will be in the nature of a celebration of another successful season at the Andover street course.

Football Notes
The Buttrick A.A. seconds are without a game for next Sunday and would like to communicate with any 130-135-pound team in the city. The team has been up there victorious in as many games played so far and hope to continue and hence any team desirous of upsetting such hopes are urged to get in touch with our manager, Nicky O'Malley, the Leroy's, O.M. 1, Cadets 2d, Oakleaves preferred. Call 71219 any evening after 5 o'clock.

The Nationals will hold a practice session tomorrow evening at 5 o'clock on West Forest street. The following will please report: C. Mello, H. Nickles, J. Quigley, P. Regan, R. Nickles, J. Cotter, D. Asquith, T. Donnan, T. Cotter, J. Ziehl, J. Pelland and D. Burke. They will play the Blues, Saturday morning at Highland park.

The manager of Tigers A.A. wishes to let any players know that all players must be there without fail. Tigers would like to meet the Ponies for a game Sunday afternoon. It is, all well 7283 Wednesday night at 7 or call 72605 Wednesday night at 7 or 11.

PUBLIC POLITICAL FORUM
A public political forum will be held at the Memorial Auditorium on Monday evening, Nov. 3, the night before the national and state elections. Candidates or their supporters who wish to speak must make application at the auditorium office and those who apply first will be given a choice of speaking time. The Auditorium trustees plan to open the building for a similar forum the night before the primary elections, which come on Nov. 11.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY
The republican party has been in power in Washington for four years. During that time the administration under the leadership of the president has been at variance with the republican party in the senate. President Harding, just before his death, started across this country in defense of his plan, only to find that it was meeting with the vigorous opposition of the senate leaders of his own party.

Dawes Should Vote for Davis
"The vice presidential candidate, Mr. Dawes, in his speech of acceptance, touched upon the question of our foreign relations. I read carefully what he had to say, and as far as that particular issue is concerned, I am absolutely satisfied that he should vote for Mr. Davis. He said to morally rot in a policy of national isolation, rather than to clearly contest in these mental battlefields in which questions must be solved in the advancement of civilization both here and abroad; is that the temper of the American people? I think not."

"The republican vice presidential candidate is right when he thinks that that is not the temper of the American people, but the candidate is silent on it, and refused an invitation on the part of the foreign powers to have this country represented at the Geneva conference."

"John W. Davis, on the other hand, comes out fair and square when he says that if he were president of the United States he would not only accept the invitation to attend, but that he would have insisted upon the right of the United States to be present and take a leading part when matters so vital to ourselves were being dealt with."

GENERAL SECRETARY FOR THE Y. W. C. A.

Miss Lulene A. Pillsbury, recently appointed general secretary at the local Y.W.C.A., arrived this morning to take up her duties locally. Miss Pillsbury, who was doing general field work in Reading, Penna., has had wide experience in Y.W. direction and was warmly greeted by local officials today.

Tomorrow at 1 o'clock Miss Pillsbury will be the guest of the executive staff of the local organization at a luncheon to be given in the cafeteria. Miss Barbara C. Brown, physical and recreational leader, is preparing her program for the year and receiving applications for admittance to the gymnasium classes, which are conducted both for the junior and senior girls.

The Girl Reserves opened their club sessions last week and under the direction of Miss Helen H. Stuntz a fine program was prepared for the year.

Next Tuesday evening a supper will be held at the Y.W. to which the public is invited. Mrs. Louis A. Diney, president of the association, will present Miss Pillsbury, and a program of readings and musical numbers will be given by Mrs. Alice Livingston Gage and Mrs. Marion MacKnight Stevenson.

Miss Dorothy Morris, violinist, and Miss Louise Drew, pianist, will entertain with selections during the reception and supper.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
With more laughs than all the other mystery plays put together, it is no wonder that "The Last Warning," caught the public fancy and remained at the Kline theatre, New York, for over a year, playing at each and every performance to the magic "Standing Room Only" sign. At the Opera House the Stanley James stock players put the play over in splendid style.

It has often been said that the playwright who can construct his entertainment so as to combine a laugh with a bit of drama is indeed a master of his craft, and, acknowledging that to be the case, as indeed it is, the cleverness with which Thomas F. Fallon has knit his comedy to his excitement entitles him to a place with the foremost dramatic writers of our day. "The Last Warning" stands out pre-eminently as a perfect model of playwrighting and audience satisfaction.

One of the hilarious comedy of "The Last Warning" is supplied by one Evelynnda Hendon, a burlesque chorus girl, who is employed by the theatrical manager to make the other actors laugh and forget the deadly menace which hangs over them in their preparations for their new play in the haunted theatre.

Evelynnda Hendon can truly be said to be good for a laugh every time she opens her mouth, and she certainly keeps it open a lot! The way she gets matters balled up, her ludicrous attempts to "be witty" and her mangling of not only the French language but the English, will convince you that Miss Jillian Desmond and Vessie Farrell are in exceptionally fitting roles. LOEW'S RIALTO

Everybody has come to think of Tom Mix as an actor in western stories. Which is a natural enough conclusion, for he has been doing them rather consistently. His experience particularly fits him for cowboy roles. But most people would take with a grain of salt the statement that the William Fox star can play the part of a tragedian. There is sufficient proof that he can put across comedy with a yodeling air all his own. It remains then for him to express convincingly the deeper emotions on the screen, which he does in Zane Grey's "The Last of the Duanes." This new Loew-Fox production will start a three-day run at the Rialto tomorrow, Thursday.

Of course, the entire picture is not a tragedy, but there are moments when the well springs of feeling are intensely touched. One of the strongest situations occurs when Tom finds a gun with one cartridge exploded. He had previously given it to the girl in the story for her protection, while he had gone to seek to remember her. He recalls her words, "I'll never let them take me alive."

Here is tragedy stark creeping, imminent and Tom Mix portrays the scene with all the human reality of a man who has lost his dearest possession. Those who see "The Last of the Duanes" will be able to give testimony that the popular Fox star has added another laurel to his dramatic crown.

Does Tom find the girl alive? Well, it's all in the story and the finish is too good to spoil by revealing now. But here's something to remember. Tom Mix is the star of the picture. "Driftwood" which is a story of romance on the high seas and which has action aplenty is the added feature. The short subjects on the bill include a new Sunshine comedy and a brand new Fox News reel.

An argument against circumstantial evidence in criminal cases is made a side feature in "Dark Stairways," the Universal picture in which Herbert Rawlinson appears. Whether or not criminal methods are justified or not, another subject treated in this photograph of thrills and adventure. The story has as a central figure a society crook who encompasses the conviction of a felony charge of a man who considered the crook his friend. There are several celebrated stars in support of Rawlinson.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Every Harold Lloyd feature comedy stands entirely on its own merits. Starting with the earlier "Grandma's Boy," which was his first picture to be as long as four reels, there has not been a single Lloyd film that could be compared with any other, for each has been distinctive and varied in type and idea.

Charles Norris has many ideas about these questions and wrote one of the most successful books of the year on the subject, "Broad," which has since been adapted to the screen and is being shown for the last time today at The Strand. See it. Then there is "The Red Lily," one of his newest and liveliest comedy dramas, called "The Reckless Age." Beginning with tomorrow's matinee and continuing throughout the remainder of the week the bill will be made up of the big Fred Siblo production, "The Red Lily," and the second feature will be one of Herbert Rawlinson's latest successes, "Dark Stairways."

Fred Niblo has done it again! The famous director of "Thy Name is Woman," "Strangers of the Night," and numerous others, has hit the high water mark of entertainment with "The Red Lily," a story of adventure in Paris, and written by Mr. Niblo himself. Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 20

The captain was just behind the little adventurer and in very short notice they were out of reach of the elephant's trunk. "Oce, I was scared for a minute," laughed Jack. Then the old elephant seemed to realize that he had been fooled and he seized the tree and started shaking it.

"Hang on!" shouted the captain. And Jack put both arms around the limb he was perched on. Finally the animal grew tired and he settled down right at the foot of the tree. "Looks like he's going to wait for us," said the captain. "Well, he'll have a long wait," replied Jack.

About a half hour or so had passed when Jack and the captain heard a shot ring out. The elephant immediately got up and looked about. Then another shot blazed forth and the animal scurried back into the woods. "Well, I wonder where those shots came from?" queried Jack. (Continued.)

"DID YOU SEE A GNOME CALLED TWEEDANOSSET?" ASKED NANCY TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT.

Back from Mars to the Moon went Snuggles and the Twins on the white night-mare. Snuggles came first and Nancy next and then Nick.

"Well, did you find Tweedanosset and the lost 'sleepy sand'?" asked the Dream Maker Man when they arrived.

"No, he wasn't on Mars," said the Twins. "We looked everywhere."

"Well, then," said the wise old Dream Maker Man, "we'll have to look some more. It's almost moon-up down on the earth and the sleepy sand simply must be found."

"I should say so," said the poor Sand Man who was getting discouraged and a little nervous.

"Cheer up, we'll find it," said the Dream Maker Man heartily. "Twins, you may go with my second son, Snuggles, on his black night-mare to look for the lost sleepy sand. Perhaps Tweedanosset has gone to Venus."

"Oh, do go as fast as you can," begged the poor Sand Man who was really at his wit's end to know what to do. "Tweedanosset must be somewhere."

"Perhaps he's gone down to the earth to put the babies to sleep himself," said Nick.

"Little hope of that," sighed the Sand Man. "I know him too well, the rascal! Time and again I've just gotten a kiddy to sleep when along he'd come and give his nose a twick and wake it all up again. Then he'd jump out of the window and laugh and laugh on his way back to Gnomeland—as though it was funny!"

"Come on, if you are going," cried Snuggles, jumping up on his black night-mare and sitting well forward to make room for the Twins.

As soon as they were seated, Nancy in the middle and Nick at the back, the magic horse started along the Milky Way to the star called Venus.

Club-a-lub, club-a-lub, club-a-lub! went the black mare's hoofs as she galloped through the sky.

At last the Twins and Snuggles came to Venus.

Tap, tap, tap! went Snuggles on the great tap in the wall.

"Who's there?" asked a voice. "And what do you want?"

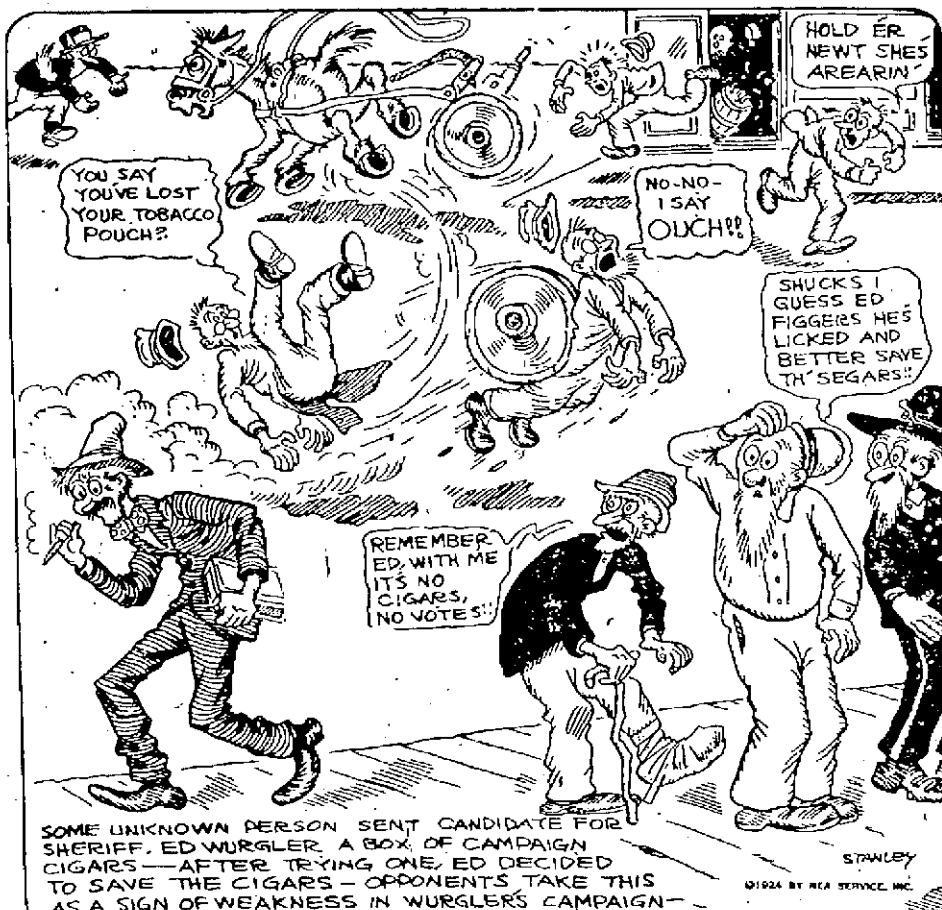

"We're messengers of the Sand Man and we want the bag of sleepy sand," said Snuggles.

"Say the multiplication table backwards up to ninety," said the voice, and it'll open the gate if you get it right. We're very particular about the people we let in. If you're not good in arithmetic, we don't want you. It's a law of—"

But he got no further.

"Immy, Jimmy!" said Nick quickly.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

IN NEW YORK
BY STEPHEN HANNIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—One of the best known hotel managers in New York was born on a farm at Wyoming, O., a suburb of Cincinnati, was traveling salesman with the United States as his territory, and entered the hotel business from his ranch home in Weiser, Ida., a town 40 miles from a railway, with a population of 3500 people.

Carruthers, who never had any experience in the hotel business, was chosen in 1916 to manage the Palace and Fairmont hotels in San Francisco, because of his nation-wide acquaintances. He is said personally to know more people than any other man in the land.

In 1918 he first entered business life in New York, managing the opening of the Pennsylvania, with 3200 rooms, the largest hotel in the world.

Three years later he went to the Waldorf, famous to royalty of other shores.

Ninety per cent of all the people are good people," he says, "but they are more temperamental than a few years ago."

Visitors from the west bring with them on their trips to New York a portion of their home town, which they transplant here, according to Carruthers. Westerners are always natural and never succumb to the strain under which New Yorkers live.

Carruthers is a large man, with gray hair, is 49 years old, has a pleasing smile, reassuring handshake—and a mild voice.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

You are hereby required on or before December 1st, 1924, to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moth on all property in this city.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 381, Acts of 1905, as amended by Chapter 268, Acts of 1905, which require cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land.

Full instructions as to the best method of work against the moths may be obtained from the local superintendent, John C. Gordon, City Hall, or from Eliza Foster, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractor should be inspected and approved by the local Superintendent, before payment for the same is made.

JOHN J. DONOVAN,
Mayor of Lowell.

He planned to make short talks to-day at Ballston Spa, Saratoga Springs, Ford Edwards, Hudson Falls, Glens Falls, Ticonderoga, Crown Point, Port Henry, Westport, Willshire and Plattsburgh. At Plattsburgh, where he is due at 7 o'clock tonight, he will leave his train for an evening meeting, spending the night in the city.

Colonel Roosevelt's talks yesterday, most of them brief, were devoted to both national and state topics and covered the same scope as his addresses on Monday.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre of the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive—adv.

MEETING YESTERDAY AT MOREY SCHOOL

The first meeting of the season of the Morey Parent-Teacher association was held yesterday afternoon with over 100 members attending. With President Mrs. Walter Glenworth in the chair several business matters were disposed of and plans were made to secure a school library and to beautify the school grounds. An enjoyable program of readings by Mrs. Christine Lovinsky, a teacher in the Colburn school, and piano and vocal numbers by pupils of the Morey school, assisted by Miss Katherine Walsh and Carlton Gardner of the Morey school faculty, was the accompaniment of the afternoon. At the conclusion of the entertainment, refreshments were served by Mrs. Eugene P. Crane, assisted by the hospitality committee.

GAVE INTERESTING TALK ON CHINA

Arthur D. Prince was the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Research club held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Langstaff in Stevens street. Mr. Prince talked interestingly on China, telling of the conditions existing at present and describing the people and their customs. Under the direction of Mrs. James Crompton the house was prettily arranged with fall decorations and greenery. Following the talk a business session was held after which refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Frank J. Spaulding, Mrs. Charles Wing, Mrs. Schuyler Waller and Mrs. Mabel Osterman.

REGISTRATION SESSION

Eighty-seven new names were added to the city's voting list at a special meeting of the board of election commissioners at the Pawtucket school, last evening. An evening session of the election commissioners will be held this evening at the Morey school from 7 to 9 p. m.

THE SECRET
of keeping a hall floor in perfect condition for dancing:
USE PULVERIZED WAX

Sift it lightly over the floor—the dancers will do the rest. It never gets sticky nor balls under the feet. Will not soil the most delicate garments. Easily applied. Gives the floor a finished dancing surface. Get it at Colburn's in sifting top cartons 56c

The use of a weighted floor brush with indestructible polishing face, is a most effective means for keeping a high gloss on all kinds of floors.

ATTACKS KING OF SPAIN

Blasco Ibanez Writes Book Against Spanish Military Directorate

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Blasco Ibanez, declaring he considers it his duty to make known the truth about his country, is engaged in writing a book against the Spanish military directorate. The novelist says he does not intend to spare the king, of whom he remarks: "I never consented to be introduced to him because I knew that one day I should have to fight him."

ENFORCEMENT OF THE RADIO REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Hoover laid before the radio conference here yesterday one problem in enforcement of the radio regulations which the department of commerce has not been able to solve. He told of receiving a letter recently from the mother of a boy in a middle western city, protesting to the department because the youngster could not be torn away from his radio set to go to bed at night.

To offset this case, however, the secretary cited thousands of letters to the department from grateful parents extolling the virtues of the radio in keeping their offspring at home in the evening.

AUTOS IN COLLISION

Rev. Panos Gueiros, formerly of this city, but now of Lawrence, while driving a sedan through the square last evening crashed into a machine owned by James I. Wallace of 47 Eastern street, causing minor damage. When Patrolman Wm. S. Conway and Francis O'Loughlin investigated the accident they found that the clergyman was driving with his arm in a sling, and that his license was not properly signed. The matter will be reported to the state registrar. Rev. Mr. Gueiros was formerly pastor of a Greek mission here. He was severely injured in a triple collision near Haverhill about two months ago.

To a Lady

Who refuses to use clay

Edna Wallace Hopper

Too much trouble! In my slugs work and in these efforts to help women I work 18 hours a day. Yet I would rather raise a little more than miss my clay.

Too much trouble! Yet no what clay has done for me. Mine is a grand mother's age, yet I enjoy a debutante's complexion.

Let me send you a test of my White Youth Clay. It is not like the crude and muddy clays so many have employed. It is white, refined and dainty—the last word in facial clays. And it combines in one product many superlative aids.

My Youth Clay purges the skin of all dirt clogs and marks it. It removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy after glow which amazes and delights. It firms the skin, combats lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores, eliminates surplus oil.

Many women seem to drop ten years with one application of this clay. To countless women it is bringing priceless benefits—new beauty and new youth. Are such results not worth to you a few minutes twice a week?

Clay is a beauty essential. Famous beauties have for ages used it. No woman can hope to look her best without it, or to keep her youth as I have. You can recognize clay users in every circle by their beautiful complexions.

Mine is a super-clay—a new-type clay—based on 20 years of scientific study. I have placed it with all drug stores, all toilet counters, so you can test it. The cost is 50 cents and $1. You will thank me for it—always—when you learn what it means to you. I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE WILL NOT BE CALLED

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The proposed imperial conference which was planned to hold in London this autumn, has been definitely postponed and will not be called, no matter what happens in connection with the British political situation. It was declared in authoritative quarters today.

MEETING OF COUNCIL AND SCHOOL BOARD

A meeting of the city council and school board in joint conference next Tuesday night for the purpose of accepting the resignation of Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux of 736 Merrimack street from the high school building commission and appointing a successor is expected to be called tomorrow by the mayor.

At last night's meeting of the city council Messrs. Gallagher and Cessat, a committee appointed to present upon the resignation of Dr. Joseph E. Lamoureux, reported they had interviewed him and found him adamant. The council voted to ask the city solicitor for an opinion as to whether they can accept his resignation or whether it must be submitted to a joint conference.

The law creating the high school building commission provides that vacancies thereon shall be filled by election in joint conference of members of the council and school board. The conference will probably be held tomorrow and will, it is believed, take place prior to the adjourned council session scheduled for next Tuesday night. Thus far no names have been mentioned prominently as desirous or likely of succeeding Dr. Lamoureux. It is an honorary position carrying no emolument and so is not regarded as attractive by the perennial group of office seekers.

Prof. Harold E. Swain of Harvard university, expert in bridge construction and traffic problems, has been selected to head a committee to make a study and report on the Centralville bridge. Announcement to this effect was made in city council last night by John J. McFarland, chairman of the special sub-committee appointed to determine whether the present bridge should be repaired or replaced. Chairman McFarland's report was accepted without much comment as one of progress. He was instructed to appear before the board of public service at its meeting today and urge that immediate temporary repairs be made to the faulty structure.

night, Harmony hall having been engaged, and each of the speakers has given his personal word that he will appear in the Drama section as well as at the main meeting.

The meeting was arranged last night when the big democratic political leaders of the state met in Boston to welcome there Gov. Alfred H. Smith of New York, who spoke in Mechanics hall last night.

Humphrey O'Sullivan, democratic nominee for congress in the 1st district, attracted the largest crowd in the hall which followed in the American house. He was accompanied by Cornelius F. Cronin, chairman of the democratic city committee.

Messrs. Curley and Walsh both expressed a desire to return to Lowell to talk further in the interests of the democratic cause. Both were delighted with the reception given them on their previous visits here. Former Mayor Fitzgerald joined in favoring the immediate organization of a democratic club in Lowell for Friday night here and he was joined by Mr. Swift, the nominee for attorney general. Quick to realize that such an array of distinguished leaders would be a great attraction for the people of Lowell, Messrs. O'Sullivan and Cronin were quick to endorse the plan and upon returning here immediately made the preliminary arrangements for the great meeting.

Was Found in Dying Condition in Field

The operations of a non-union Lashis Three men accompanying Mr. Sandridge also were wounded. The assailants fired from the underbrush along a road.

Mr. Sandridge, superintendent of the Rock Island Coal company, owners of the mines, was given orders to resume operations today. For several years the mines operated under an agreement with the union but, after a shutdown of more than a month, officials of the company decided to resume without a union agreement.

Mr. Sandridge was a delegate to the last democratic national convention.

Sandridge and the three other victims of the shooting are being brought to an Elkins hospital. Reports from Phillips were that Sandridge's condition was critical. Among those wounded was Brown Talbot, son of Dr. J. W. Talbot of Elkins. He recently graduated from West Virginia university and was taking up his duties as foreman of the German mines.

Sheriff Jordan of Barbour county and a force of six troopers obtained bloodhounds and went into the mountains about Meriden in an effort to trace the assailants.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION FOR JAKE DAUBERT

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—A blood transfusion operation was performed today on Jacob Daubert, last basing on the Cincinnati Nationalist. Dr. Harry J. Hines wanted to replenish Daubert's blood supply in an effort to bolster up his resisting powers after an operation for appendicitis several days ago.

Universalists Meet At Grace Church

and representatives of the various churches throughout the Merrimack valley to talk over church matters and plan activities for the coming year.

The conference opened at 10:30 a. m. with devotional services conducted by Rev. D. Fletcher, recently appointed pastor of the First church, Haverhill. An address of welcome by Rev. Mr. Smith followed. "The purpose of the conference," he said after extending welcome to old and new ministers and delegates, "is to answer a challenge of a new day and a new era."

Roger Babson says that the fundamentals of all prosperity are found in spiritual values. Our great resources, he says, are not iron and coal but are the human resources and the church is the only institution which has resources really devoted to human progress.

"Babson adds, however," he continued, "that the churches are not awake to their opportunity. This constitutes a challenge to the church to awake to its true task. The purpose of this conference is to awaken us to a vision of the values of our work and to carry back to the local churches a new enthusiasm which will impel us to conservation, concentration and continuation in our great task."

Rev. Harold W. Hayes, pastor of the First Universalist church of this city, followed Rev. Mr. Smith to the pulpit and gave a stirring sermon on "The Psychology of Church Worship."

Following the sermon, the choir sang "Going Through the Motions." His talk was illustrated musically by Miss Elita Thompson, soloist of the First Universalist church.

Rev. Mr. Hayes described the church service from his own experience, and with Miss Thompson singing the requisite music, and explained thoroughly the meaning of each part of the service and the effect it has upon the lay person sitting in the church pews.

Upon the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Hayes' sermon, a ministers' conference of delegates and many suggestions as to the method of carrying on church activities were made by the persons present and discussed generally.

Luncheon was served at 12:15 o'clock and many valuable suggestions as to the method of carrying on church activities were made by the persons present and discussed generally.

A second round table conference followed the business meeting and continued to 2:15 o'clock, when Dr. George B. Huntley of Boston, president of the General Association of Sunday school teachers, gave an address on the subject, "New Church Schools for Old."

He dealt at length with the problem of Sunday school work and discussed several new methods which have rapidly gained favor in the conduct of Sunday school classes throughout the country.

At the conclusion of his address he was asked many questions by delegates concerning Sunday school work and cheerfully explained the various methods which he had tucked upon in his address in detail.

The final event of the program was an address by Dr. Samuel G. Ayres, who has only recently returned from Japan, where he had been head missionary in Tokyo for six years. In the subject of his talk was "Six Years in Japan" and he told of the many experiences of missionaries at work spreading knowledge of Christianity in the Orient and the difficulties which must be overcome in conducting missionary work, especially in Japan.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB HAS OPENING MEETING

The 36th season of the Educational club was opened yesterday afternoon in the club headquarters in Kilton hall with a most delightful and varied program of readings and vocal and instrumental selections under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth D. Leggat, president ex-officio.

The hall was prettily arranged with autumn leaves and fall flowers, including gladioli, marigolds, dahlias and mums.

Previous to the entertainment program a short business session was held with Mrs. Walter S. Jessop, president, in the chair. A report of the year's activities, including the summer outings held during the past months was made by Mrs. Walter Cox, recording secretary. Following the roll-call and the flower collection, the latter in charge of Mrs. E. W. Maxim, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, a member of the club, presented a beautiful American flag, made by Mrs. Campbell. In making the presentation, Mrs. Lovejoy said: "In the years before the war, I was greatly impressed by a lecture given by ex-Gov. Stanley of Indiana on 'Patriotism in the time of peace.' We must realize that patriotism means more today than it has ever meant. I find this a fitting time to present to you in behalf of Mrs. Sarah Campbell, this symbol of our country, knowing that it will inspire in you a greater spirit of loyalty and true patriotism in your work."

Following the presentation, the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by the audience with Mrs. A. H. Kludjian at the piano.

In behalf of Mrs. Leggat, Mrs. Lovejoy also presented the club two handsome red velvet scarfs embroidered in gold which will be used on the officers' tables.

Six applications for membership were received and turned over to the advisory committee to be noted upon.

At the conclusion of the business session Mrs. Earl Huse rendered several piano solos which afforded the players an ample opportunity to display her ability as an accomplished pianist.

Mrs. Frances Scott then delighted the members with several readings which were greatly appreciated.

Horatio B. Leggat gave a number of vocal numbers, including "Little Mother of Mine," and "I Passed by Your Window," which were as well received by the audience as they were rendered by the singer.

It was announced that because of the reception to be tendered Miss Lucile A. Pillsbury, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., on Tuesday next in Kilton hall, the meeting of the Educational club would be held in the Girls' club rooms in the rear of the hall.

Ten was served and a social hour enjoyed following the entertainment program with the following officers as hostesses: First vice president, Mrs. R. H. Whitley; second vice president, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy; recording secretary,

BRAKE-TESTING DEVICE HAS ARRIVED

The "dinner can" far-famed brake-testing device used by the state registrar of motor vehicles in his campaign to make the streets safe for automobilists and pedestrians, arrived in this city last evening and will be put into immediate use in checking up the braking equipment of local automobiles.

The instrument, officially known as the "decelerator," was tried out on the Lawrence end of the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard yesterday by Chief Inspector Davine of the motor equipment department, with inspectors Loupratt and Fitzgerald of Lowell and Balley and Moore of Lawrence interested assistants.

Last evening one of the "dinner cans" arrived in Lowell and will be used here by Inspector Fitzgerald. The following table used by the state inspector in checking up brakes, is self explanatory:

The "dinner can" works without any connection to the running mechanism of the car and a test can be made in very little time. The instrument was first made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards and has been perfected by Professor James, who was formerly connected with the bureau and who now manufactures the instruments.

The machine receives its name, "dinner can," from its shape. To the casual observer it certainly appears to be nothing more than a dinner pail. It works on the theory of inertia and consists of a pendulum swinging in a body of heavy oil and operating a series of gears, which in turn connect with a dial and show, regardless of the speed the automobile is making, the number of feet required by the automobile to stop if it was proceeding at a rate of 20 miles per hour when the brakes were applied. The instrument has been tested by technical authorities throughout the country and found to be very accurate.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Felt Like A New Woman
Springfield, Missouri—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my eyes ached and felt like they were about to break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in a most no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20
Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replied are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

DAWES CARRIES FIGHT TO LA FOLLETTE STATES

DAWES' SPECIAL EN ROUTE THROUGH IOWA, MASON CITY, Oct. 8.—The republican fight against the La Follette independent candidacy in Iowa, was led today by the republican party's chief campaign speaker and vice-presidential nominee, Charles C. Dawes. The direction of the fight was taken over by Mr. Dawes, late yesterday when he entered the state, made a rear-platform speech at Northwood and spoke to an audience that jammed the Mason City armory last night.

Leaving Mason City, the day's itinerary took the republican vice-presidential nominee through the section of the state in which the La Follette strength is most feared by republican leaders, and provided for five Iowa speeches.

After leaving the state late in the day, Mr. Dawes will speak at Norfolk, Nebraska, before swinging up into Wyoming for speeches at Douglas and Clear.

The subject selected for today's speeches by Mr. Dawes was the same as discussed in all his more recent addresses—the danger as he sees it to constitutional government from the La Follette movement.

Mr. Dawes in his initial Iowa address ignored the attacks by Iowa's junior senator, Smith W. Brookhart, who demanded that Mr. Dawes be removed from the republican ticket—a demand that among other things, led the republican state central committee to declare last week that the senator had repudiated the republican party.

A single and direct shot was fired at the senator by Mr. Dawes last night, in his Mason City speech, and it was loudly applauded. No reference, however, was made to Mr. Brookhart by name.

Eight-one London policemen were bitten by dogs while on duty during 1923.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP MELBOURNE, Oct. 8.—The latest estimate of the Australian wheat yield is 115,000,000 bushels. (The Australian wheat crop last year was 123,000,000 bushels.)

JOHN W. DAVIS SPEAKS IN WESTERN NEW YORK

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, began today the last lap of his drive in western New York state, leaving here for a noon-day speaking engagement in Rochester and the final address of the tour tonight in Buffalo. He described his visits to Schenectady, Albany, Utica and here as "particularly encouraging," and told members of his party he now was entirely confident the November verdict would be favorable to the democratic national and state tickets.

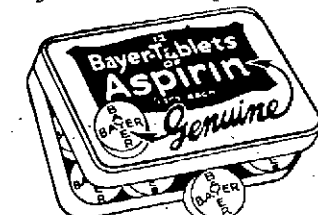

THREE KILLED, SCORE INJURED IN CLASH

people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface remedies can reach the disorder.

Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often do away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general toilet use—the ointment to check the first bit of skin eruption. At all druggists.

BORAH SAYS G. O. P. ON DEFENSIVE

IDAHO FALLS, Id., Oct. 8.—Senator W. E. Borah made his first political speech of the campaign in this city last night. He declared that the republicans were on the defensive. The men who were responsible for this embarrassing position are, he said, those who had defended Newberryism and Lorrimerism, those who had "piled taxes upon the people in order to create offices for slushy henchmen, the same men who have tolerated the departments of government and the miserable sprays of broken down political machines."

Senator Borah did not name those to whom he referred, but he was of the opinion that the man or woman who kept in touch with current affairs would have little trouble in making some fairly accurate guesses. His speech made some of the old standbys who were in his audience wince. It was a matter of comment that in selecting Idaho Falls to make his first political speech of the 1924 campaign he picked out what is probably the strongest republican city in the state.

The part of his speech which the senator said was intended to make clear his position in the campaign was reduced to manuscript form. In it the senator did not name the president, nor even indirectly refer to him. He did, however, refer to Senator La Follette as one whose friendship he enjoyed and one for whose sincerity of purpose and ability he had great admiration. He said his position as to the La Follette movement was the same as that he took in 1912, when his friend, Col. Roosevelt, sought to organize a new party.

ARGENTINE FLIER DELAYED

POLICE FIND LIQUOR AND REVOLVER

While searching for liquor in the premises occupied by George Michaels at Fletcher and Lagrange streets last night, liquor officers found, besides a quantity of liquor, a revolver. Michaels was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of unlawfully possessing a revolver, and was fined $100. The gun was forfeited.

Officers Aldrich, Killey, W. Liston and Leahy, found a small portion of liquid goods in defendant's store, but did not prefer illegal keeping charges against him when the more important discovery was made.

Ragoshima, the alien, seems doubtful, owing to the present delay, whether he will be able to make the trans-Pacific flight this fall.

"DIAMOND DYE" IT A BEAUTIFUL COLOR

Perfect home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades, or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. PRODUCER OF "VANITIES OF 1924" ARRESTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The license commissioner and the district attorney's office will be called upon to furnish expert testimony to determine where art begins and licentiousness ends when the hearing in the case of Earl Carroll, producer of "Vanities of 1924," is resumed Thursday. Magistrate James M. Harvey, after studying three large advertising posters which were the cause of Carroll's arrest on a charge of displaying indecent pictures last night, said he was unable to decide without expert testimony whether or not the pictures are indecent.

Carroll, through his attorney, entered a plea of not guilty.

The magistrate paroled him after exacting a promise that he return to court Thursday for further examination.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Recently Elected Grand Knight to Be Installed Tomorrow Evening

Charles J. Landers, recently elected grand knight of Lowell council, 12, Knights of Columbus, will be formally installed in office at appropriate exercises in Liberty hall, Memorial Auditorium, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. District Deputy J. Lowe McMahon and suite of Wakefield will be the installing officers and the principal speaker will be Hon. John E. Swift of Milford, able state secretary of the organization and one of the leading orators among the Catholic laity in the state of Massachusetts. There will be an entertainment, luncheon and cigars.

The new grand knights will assume office as successors to Frank A. Groves. Mr. Landers has been affiliated with local and state branches of the order for a number of years, having served as a district deputy for five years. He is well qualified by experience to uphold the office and has the unanimous backing of a large membership in his future undertaking.

The other officers to be installed are as follows: Deputy grand knight, George E. Murphy; chancellor, James J. Bruin; recorder, Patrick J. Sweeney; financial secretary, Philip Breen; warden, Frank J. Finnegan; treasurer,

Thomas J. Fitzgerald; outside guard, John J. Lane; inside guard, Eugene Fontaine; advocate, P. Harold Reddy; trustees for three years, Dr. James J. Gaffney.

Conspicuous in the list of officers named above is the financial secretary, Philip J. Breen, who has served continuously in that capacity almost 25 years. His long term of office is the reward of diligent devotion to his duties of conscientious application to the many details connected with his work, and of loyal co-operation with his superior officers and brother-members.

The Knights will observe Columbus Day by marching in a body to St. Peter's church, where mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain.

The annual autumn dancing party will be held in the Commodore ball room next Friday night. The proceeds of this event will be turned over to the building fund.

EAGLES HOLD WELL ATTENDED MEETING

A well-attended meeting of Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last evening at the Eagles home, 84 Gorham street, with President Thomas F. Quinn in the chair.

Considerable routine business was transacted, five propositions for membership were received and four candidates were initiated into the order. The revised by-laws, adopted at the last Grand Aerie convention, were read

100 EPISCOPAL BISHOPS AT CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Representatives of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church and members of the national council met in joint session today to outline the program the church will pursue for the next three years. The session today marks the first joint meeting of the two bodies since the national council was organized in 1919. One hundred bishops from all parts of the country were here for the meeting which was attended by special services in the cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The church's 1925 budget and foreign and domestic missionary problems were discussed by the national council in a preliminary meeting yesterday.

and discussed, and a communication from the grand worthy president was also read.

The report of the building committee in which it was recommended to hold opening ceremonies at the new home on Nov. 12 was adopted, and several other committee reports were read. A committee of 50 was named to devise ways and means to enlarge the building.

Following the meeting, Brother Daniel Sullivan of Boston gave an interesting talk on the Eagles' Non-Contributory Old Age Pension bill.

TO PROMOTE TOLERANCE

At Utica, N. Y., has been formed a society to be known as the Hamilton-Jefferson Association, the object of which is to promote tolerance in economics, politics and religion, or in other words to put in practice the patriotic principles of the constitution. Unfortunately, it appears that fanatical bigots and agitators appealing to race and religious prejudices have succeeded in sowing the seeds of hatred among people who should be friends and who have common interests in working for the welfare and happiness of their country and its people. It is found that these outbreaks come periodically, inspired by a spirit of evil under the guise of patriotism and religion, setting neighbor against neighbor, brother against brother and not infrequently child against parent. As a rule these outbreaks run their course as a form of mental disease and then disappear, leaving but an unsavory memory of effort, ostentatious for high aims, but in reality causing social discord, suspicion, jealousy and destructive enmity and opposition where there should be harmony and co-operation.

Two societies supposed to be rivals but in reality having much in common, particularly in patriotism, tolerance and loyalty to the constitution, have decided to form this organization which it is hoped will serve as an anti-toxin to the disease of sectionalism whether it be inculcated by the Ku Klux Klan or an organization by any other name. The Klan is the aggressor and the anti-klan is the result. When people are attacked and an attempt made to ostracize them or deprive them of their rights, they naturally organize for their protection.

With a view to ending this miserable business, the Hamilton-Jefferson association is formed. It will supply a long-felt want in standing against the fanatical agitators who run counter to the basic principles of our constitution and menace the liberties won by the revolutionary fathers and sustained and defended by heroic sacrifice through a series of destructive wars. A society composed of equal numbers of Masons and Knights of Columbus, can promote tolerance by exposing the lies by which the promoters of sectional organizations impose upon their dupes.

METALLIC AND PAPER MONEY

If a bank told you that you could walk into its vaults and have all the gold you could carry away in one trip, how much would you get? Off-hand estimates are certain to be exaggerated, even though many would kill themselves with the strain of trying to lift too much. One hundred pounds of gold is worth only about $30,000.

A gold robbery always appeals to the imagination of a fiction reader. And yet gold is so heavy that no man could steal a fortune unless he used horses or a motor truck.

There are not many people who could carry $30,000 in gold a city block without sitting down to rest panting. The old saying, "worth its weight in gold," therefore, does not mean as much as popularly believed.

Silver is even worse. Fifty dollars in silver coin is like lugging around a small stove. That is why the silver dollar is not popular.

Uncle Sam is trying to make the silver dollar popular again. His reason is that the upkeep of paper money representing his silver, costs about 3 per cent a year of its face value. Silver certificates wear out quickly and new ones have to be printed in their place, after repeated launderings. This is expensive.

To try to get people to carry silver dollars again is futile. The public simply will not do it. Furthermore, such an attempt is primitive and a reflection on public intelligence.

People long ago insisted on having the actual precious metal. Education and confidence in the national government's integrity have shattered ancient fears. We accept the silver certificate form of paper money quite as trustfully as we would take the real silver, possibly more so.

If the upkeep of paper money is too heavy a drain on taxes, why not use tokens?

By tokens we mean discs of metal redeemable by the government at a value of $1, same as the silver dollar. To avoid confusion with other small coins, the dollar tokens could be made of aluminum, provided it is not too easily counterfeited. There should be no mistaking the light weight.

A public that had confidence in beer checks and still surrenders its hats for a bit of pasteboard proffered by the checking girl surely would take kindly to a light-weight metal token representing the silver dollar.

MURDER MYSTERY

The state detectives have in hand the investigation of a murder mystery, the victim of which was found in a pond at Norwood last Saturday. The body was bound and weighted in precisely the same way as was the body of Clements, found in the Shawheen river. Various circumstances lead the detectives to believe that both murders were committed by the same parties or at least that the bodies of the two men were disposed of by the same person or persons at widely different points. A young man named Hattie Mowbray has confessed to being a party to the Clements murder, and various circumstances lead the detectives to suspect him of having committed the other murder also. It is expected, therefore, that the connection will be established between the two murders and it may be shown that they were committed by the same person.

The number of tragedies of this kind recently revealed indicates a growing disregard for the sacredness of human life and greater boldness in the commission of murder and other capital offenses. Banditry, highway robbery, burglary and bootlegging are now carried on fearlessly by criminal gangsters whose numbers are daily increasing as a result of the failure of the police of the big cities to capture such criminals and bring about their conviction and punishment.

COLLEGE EXTENSION COURSES

It must have been quite disappointing to the officials of the college extension department of the state board of education to find that on the opening night of the classes the number who went to the high school to register in various courses was ridiculously small as compared with what it should be. It would seem that the young people of this city do not appreciate the splendid opportunities offered them in these courses. It is true that a great many of our young people are attending the evening high school, taking up

SEEN AND HEARD

You can't uplift people by stepping on their necks.

You hear as many people laughing in small houses as you do in big ones.

The trouble with taking your own time is you never have any left over.

Mrs. Mary Lulu Lee of Janesville, Wis., was acclaimed the most popular girl in a Wisconsin contest. She won by 22,500 majority from a field of 155 contestants polling 1,900,000 votes. And Mrs. Mary Lulu Lee is 69 years old.

A Thought

Frankness Squelched

Although she had never been married at all, her views on marriage were very strict. So of course she had to call on the young divorcee and tell her so. Frankness was one of the virtues on which she prided herself, so the conversation had no progress far before she declared to the young bride, "Pardon my saying so but don't you think you might have waited more than a month after your divorce to marry your second husband?" "O, do you really think so?" replied the bride, "I'll make it a point to wait longer next time."

Very Clever Lawyer

The criminal lawyer believed in being absolutely frank with his clients, and accordingly, when a man came to him charged with stealing a pig, he said: "Now I will be perfectly open with you. If I take your case you must in the first place tell me honestly: Did you or did you not steal this pig?" "Well, sir, I did," the man admitted, "but I have a big family and no money, and I was in need of meat for them." "That's all right," replied the lawyer. "You bring me half of that pig and I'll take on your case." When the case came into the court, the lawyer addressed the jury thus: "This man did not get any more of the pig than I did. The verdict was 'Not guilty.'"

Safety First

Lord Reading—better known to fame as Sir Rufus Isaacs—recently told the story of his first brief. He had been retained to defend a man, a street trader, who had been summoned for selling bad eggs. Mr. Isaacs, when he was, expatiated at length on the quality of the fruit, and in this he was, as was only natural, backed up by his client. Presently the magistrate intervened. "Had either of them tasted the fruit?" he asked. They both confessed that they had not. Whereupon the magistrate suggested that either the defendant or his counsel should eat some in court. Mr. Isaacs turned to his client, "Go on," he whispered, "eat one or two." "What will happen if I don't?" he asked. "The case," replied the magistrate, "will be lost." "All right," answered the defendant resignedly, "then I'll taste it."

"In the Cool of the Evening"

In the cool of the evening,
When the low, sweet whistles
waken,
When the laborers turn their homeward
And the weary have their will,
When the censors of the roses
Over the forest aisles are shaken,
Is it but the wind that breatheth
Over the far green hill?

For they say 'tis but the sunset winds
That wander through the heather,
Rustle the leaves and murmur
And bend the dewy corn:
They say 'tis but the winds that bow
The reeds in prayer together,
And fill the shaken pools with fire
Along the shadowy barn.

In the beauty of the twilight,
In the garden that lie loveth,
They have told his lovely venture
With the darkness of a name:
Through his garden, through his
garden,
It is but the wind that breatheth
No more! But the miracle is the same.
The miracle is the same.

In the cool of the evening,
When the sky is an old story,
Silently, but remembered aye,
And loved with passion still Hush! The fringes of his garment
In the fading golden glory
Softly rustling as he cometh
Over the far green hill.
—ALFRED NOYES.

COOLIDGE TO GREET DELEGATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A reception of delegates to the national radio conference here was on the program of President Coolidge today. Other convention meetings here in the near future will be similarly greeted by the president and, with the exception of two other engagements, it appears that he will confine his speaking activities for the next two weeks at least to such occasions.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

James E. Markham, president of the Davis Club, delivered a brief but eloquent talk at the democratic rally in Memorial Auditorium Tuesday night, speaking particularly of the need of getting out the vote. He said in part:

"In attempting to carry out the purposes of our organization we were immediately confronted with the startling situation of the large number of unregistered citizens. This is a situation which should not exist. There is a moral obligation and civic duty upon every citizen, man or woman, over 21 years of age to register and to vote on election day.

"To vote and be a part of our government should be the right and the duty of every American citizen. They owe this duty to themselves, to their public officials, and to their country.

"It is a duty they owe to themselves, for the supreme court has decided that in determining the representatives and senatorial districts the apportionment is based not upon the population, not upon the number of citizens, but upon the number of registered voters. Hence, if you are not registered, you are not being represented.

"It is a duty they owe to their public officials, for by their vote they can commend and reward an official who has been faithful to his trust, and on the other hand they can condemn or elect an official who is or has been unworthy.

"It is a duty they owe to their country, for America will live so long and no longer than when it ceases to be a properly active government. In the words of the immortal Lincoln—'Of the people, by the people and for the people.'"

"Here in Lowell there are thousands of unregistered citizens—this potential strength should not be allowed to remain dormant. Therefore, it behooves us and each of us to look around at our relatives, friends and neighbors and hear ourselves and see whether or not these people are registered, and if not, to urge that they perform their duty.

"If this is done we can be reassured of democratic success for you will find these people in the ranks of democracy which is the party of the people, the party of the brave and the great principles of the democratic party and against republican dishonesty and corruption and a lack of leadership which has produced nothing but industrial chaos, widespread unemployment and a low level in all human activities.

"Again let me urge you to see that this work is done, and done well."

Here is a warning that should be heeded by all owners of autos and by all those who are employed in gas engines, where this poison is generated in large quantities:

Monoxide gas is odorless, of about the same gravity as air which causes it to spread in all directions, and kills without warning. Dr. A. O. Götter, toxicologist of a New York hospital, explained, commenting upon the deaths of No. 140 West 57th street, its presence in coal gas or the gas from an automobile exhaust cannot be detected by odor. This constitutes its greatest danger, he said.

A small quantity of carbon monoxide is sufficient to kill. Symptoms of its effects are dizziness, faintness, or occasionally followed by nausea. Often a victim lies down to rest and is dead before he realizes his danger.

"When one feels a fatigue or faintness in a closed room which he cannot explain," Dr. Götter advised, "he should go out of doors at once, breathe fresh air and take exercise."

The opening meeting of the fall-winter season of the Middlesex Women's club, which was held Monday afternoon, was as usual largely attended by the members. This program for the year was outlined by Mrs. Charles L. Hobson, president of the organization, offers many literary and musical entertainments. The attractions will be many, and it is planned to accomplish much this year. One of the many new departures in the club is the fashion show to be held during the year as well as the cooking exhibit. It was also announced at the meeting that in the future the library will be open from 2:15 until 3:55, during which time the members will have ample opportunity to secure reading matter. For those who are unable to visit the library before the meeting it will be reopened promptly after the entertainment to further accommodate the members.

At the regular meeting of the Centralville East End club last night, James Wood, recently appointed a member of the Lowell police department, was presented a purse of gold by his fellow members in recognition of his popularity. The presentation was made by President Ralph Holt in the presence of a large gathering. Mr. Wood is a former vice president of the club. He is a World war veteran, having served 14 months in the Aviation Corps. He was quite surprised when his friends presented him the gift but found sufficient words to thank them for their kindly remembrance.

LENGTHENS BROOM'S LIFE

Keeping a broom hung up while not in use instead of standing on the floor will do much to lengthen its life.

THE KIMBALL SCHOOL

66th School Year

Evening Courses

To make the most rapid and thorough progress in an evening course, it is essential that the pupil be in close personal touch with the teacher.

The success of our Evening Course is due entirely to our Personal Individualized Teaching for Each Pupil.

There are hundreds of young people in this city who have incomplete business training and consequently are unable to gain satisfaction. Our Evening School offers them an opportunity to increase their value both to themselves and to their employers.

Students May Enter Either Day or Evening Sessions Monday, Oct. 13th.

POTIER MURDER TRIAL

Former Department of Justice Agent to Tell of Alleged Confession

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—James J. Lee, a Connecticut garage man and former department of justice agent, was ready to testify this morning as to statements alleged to have been made in him in New York by former sergeant Buckle E. Roland. He Potier and of a purported confession to him in the Providence, R. I., jail by Potier, who is on trial in the federal court for the murder of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite on the Camp Lewis military reservation October 25, 1918. Major Cronkhite was shot to death while on a practice march with the 213th Engineers. Potier and Captain Robert Rosenbluth are held on charges of murder as a result of the mysterious death of Major Cronkhite. Rosenbluth will be tried later.

Potier was curious as to the difference between "killing" and "murdering" a man. David M. Jordan, of Providence, R. I., testified yesterday. Jordan, who formerly was a deputy United States marshal at Providence, said that he never had heard Potier admit murdering Major Cronkhite.

Other witnesses have testified that Potier made such an admission. Jordan said, however, that he had heard Potier ask:

"Can't you kill a man without murdering him?"

Ralph Navarro of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frederick S. Hookley of New York, special agents of the department of justice at the time Potier was first arrested in March, 1921, preceded Jordan on the stand. Both of them said that Potier in their presence and with Jordan present, declared in a New York city restaurant on March 25, 1921, that he had killed Major Cronkhite at the instigation of Robert Rosenbluth.

Jordan said he had no remembrance of "any of the stuff" Navarro and Hookley narrated.

Navarro testified that Potier while in the restaurant said that Major Cronkhite was a "pretty good fellow," but that Rosenbluth had a strange power over him.

Jordan said the session yesterday had to do with the removal of Potier from Providence to New York city in March, 1921.

FOR CHILDREN WHO ARE UNDERWEIGHT

Children who are below normal weight are often weak and inactive. They contract colds and sickness easily for they have no resisting power.

Give them Father John's Medicine and then notice the change in their condition. They will gain in health and strength and will start to put on flesh. Thousands of mothers rely on this old fashioned food tonic. Father John's Medicine is prepared by a scientific process which blends the purest cod liver oil with other valuable ingredients in such a way as to make it wholesome and easy to digest. For over 50 years Father John's Medicine has been the standard body building tonic for all the family.—Adv.

THE ZOO

AND here's a hippopotamus.
That comes from lands afar.
And mainly from in Africa
Where mucky marshes are
It lolls around and plays all day
As lazy as can be
And when it opens up its mouth
It's quite a sight to see.

Listen in

A hundred million people, yes, perhaps it's more or less, have fallen for the latest fad of all. We all were kind of doubtful but we've changed a bit, I guess, and one by one we finally have to fall.

The radio has got us and it holds us in its grip. We're pickin' things at random from the air. We all are mighty thankful when a friend hands out a tip as to something that we didn't know was there.

There are lots of little buttons that you push or pull or turn, but a lot of them are really never used. We think we've done the main thing when we get the tubes to burn and with other little angles were confused.

Every night we get a station that we haven't had before; then we switch before the number's half way through. And then there comes a rasping from another station's score, but we never know exactly who is who.

Yep, the radio has got us; we have fallen with a crash, and the craze that's hit is really one that's rare. We are satisfied and appy, even though we're getting trash, just as long as we get something from the air.

Cutting the Pattern
According to the Cloth

Every woman who makes her own clothes knows what this means.

She lays out her patterns with care, allowing each piece only what it needs. In other words, she BUDGETS her cloth before she cuts into it, in order to get all she can out of it.

In the same manner you may BUDGET your income. So much money you have and no more. Out of this amount must come the various pieces of expense.

As the clever woman lays out her patterns on the cloth, so can she, by using the

John Hancock Budget and Account Sheet

as a pattern, lay out the pieces of her income before she cuts into it.

Free copies of the Budget sheets will be supplied upon request. Use the coupon.

at the post-prandial exercises and introduced the speakers for the evening. He took occasion to thank the gathering for attending.

S. M. Nathan of Pittsburg, a member of the board of directors of the state association, was the first speaker. He chose as his subject, "Co-operation," and spoke at length on this virtue. Co-operation is needed, he said, to create a greater demand for merchandise.

Louis S. Smith of Beverly, state secretary, dwelt at length on the accomplishments of the state association, including its successful fight against unjust taxes. This fight, he said, will be continued until complete elimination of unjust taxes is completed. He commended the Harvard bureau of research for its great work in behalf of jewelers and all businesses in general, and he urged contributions to the fund for the maintenance of the national publicity bureau which spent $200,000 to propagate the slogan, "Gifts that last."

In closing, Mr. Smith beseeched all to join the state and national associations, to participate in the next state convention which will be held in Worcester in March of next year.

P. J. Stevers of Boston, president of the state association, spoke briefly on such matters as the general welfare of the organization, and said he was particularly gratified to see Lowell had such a large and enthusiastic local association.

He was followed by Past President Albert R. Kerr of Boston, who spoke in the interest of better business conditions, and the correction of evils such as fake auctions. He congratulated Frank Ricard of this city for his work in behalf of exposing these fake auctions.

Mr. Ricard was also called upon to speak and thanked the state officers for being present.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

The final union meeting of the local Knights of Pythias prior to the big parade in Boston, Oct. 13, has been issued. The parade forms at 12 o'clock noon and starts at 1 o'clock. Following the parade, the Shriner's band will entertain in Mechanics hall until 3 o'clock, when exercises will be held with George W. Penman, past supreme representative, the orator of the day. The banquet will be at 6:30 in the same hall and the final event of the day will be a Pythian dance in the same hall at 8 o'clock.

All knights and their friends who are going to Boston on the special cars will meet at the Memorial Auditorium at 9 o'clock and march to the station, boarding special cars at 10 o'clock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (By the Associated Press)—"Bucky" Harris, boy manager of the Senators, and John McGraw, veteran pilot of the Giants, meet today in the fifth game of their season round bout for the world's baseball championship.

The first four seasons developed into a battle of rights and lefts with the margin strongly in favor of the southpaw swingers. Yesterday, Harris evened up the fight, by taking, the fourth round by a score of 7 to 4, the wildest margin of the struggle. George Mogridge, a left-handed pitcher, and Goose Goslin, a port-sided batter, jabbed the Giants silly.

Today, Manager McGraw will revert to his southpaw tactics and use Art Nehf if the latter's injured hand permits. Otherwise, the New York hurler will use Boutley or Watson. Harris will utilize the hefty right-hand punch which won the pennant for his team, Walter Johnson, veteran of 13 years of diamond battling.

Meanwhile, the public is enjoying the baseball battle of the century. Yesterday, 10,242 people, the largest paid attendance which ever witnessed a game at the Polo Grounds, cheered the visiting Senators even more than the home town Giants. Today another record breaker is expected.

The purse for which the teams are battling amounts to $245,000. Each team will receive $5750 by winning or $3521 by losing. The winning Senator figure would be about $4047 and the losing amount $4319.

Togger Peckinpaugh, shortstop of the Senators, was not able to play yesterday because of a charley-horse and will not be used today unless the injury has improved beyond expectations. Bluffs took his place at shortstop and Miller replaced Bluffs at third. The absence of the veteran Peckinpaugh weakened the lineup.

MURPHY READY FOR LOWELL HIGH WILL HAVE FINNEGAN BOUT TO GO SOME MONDAY

Reports received today from Billy Murphy's training camp indicate that he is in fine condition for his bout here tomorrow night with Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston. Billy rested yesterday after his victory over Young Kenoyer at Nashua Monday night and today engaged in a light workout. He will take things easily and expects to be in top form when called into the ring to face the Boston southpaw.

In the Kenoyer bout Murphy worked cautiously in the early rounds and as a result he allowed the Derry champion to pile up a lead. But in the latter stages the Lowell flash tore in and soon changed the picture. He forged to the front with a dazzling attack that had Kenoyer bewildered. Murphy finished strong and the decision was a proper one.

Finnegan, who has been after Murphy for a year for a bout, is said to be "in the pink." He has been training in Boston for a couple of weeks and he has worked against southpaws in an endeavor to perfect an attack and defense for the Lowell boy. He feels he has succeeded and will enter the ring tomorrow night confident of stopping the veteran sweep of the "pride of the Acre."

Tommy Leonard of Lowell and Johnny McElrath of Lawrence will meet in the semi-final. There will be two six round preliminaries.

Out of seven games, losing only to the Acre Athletics.

The Indians are practicing diligently for their tilt with the Parkvales of Lawrence next Sunday.

The Kenwood Rovers are down on the books for game with the Lion A.C. of Ilwaco in the down-river city next Sunday.

The Oakleaves of Centralville, who were in the running for the sectional championship last year, have reorganized and are prepared to tackle the best outfits in the city, the O.M.L. Cadets, Kenwood Rovers, Indians and Butlers preferred. Glenwood, former Indian, is coaching the team.

The Butlers are practicing in anticipation of coming games. This team is out to wrest city championship honors over the Lafayettees last Sunday from the O. M. I. Cadets. Their view was a big feather in their cap.

The Gorham A. C. accepts the challenge of the Oakleaves for Sunday, Oct. 12. The Gorham is a team composed of Casey, Keeney, Brown, Phil, Barker, J. Wilson, Don Wilson, Jackson, Clancy, Holinsky, Taggans and Fawcett.

Lowell high faces a hard proposition at Alumni field next Monday when Manchester, N. H., high comes to town for its annual set-to with the crimson and gray. Lowell high is ready, however, and the fans who take in this game are due to witness the best battle that will be staged in this city this year.

This is saying a whole lot when it is taken into consideration that the local team plays some formidable elevens in the future. Manchester, since it has beaten Lowell for the past several years, offers an incentive for the local warriors to go out and take their measure. For this reason, the team will battle every inch of the way in an endeavor to keep their state clean. It will not be a case of holding the opposition to a low score, but a real case of go-and-get-tem.

The first and second team is lined up for scrimmage at Alumni field this afternoon. Several potential Manchester players were lined up. And Coach Hinton and Pieretti felt that Lowell will be able to stave off all methods of attack.

New portable bleachers have been installed at the park and the high school management is expecting to accommodate 5000 people at Monday's game. Being a holiday, this game offers the biggest sporting attraction of the day in the city.

EPINARD TRIES OUT MILE AND QUARTER TRACK

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 8.—Conditioning of candidates for the third international special race having progressed to the intensive stage, Trainer Eugene Leigh announced he would send his French champion, Epinard, over the full mile and a quarter distance at Latonia today.

Much interest centers in this trial, as some horsemen have been inclined to doubt the European candidate's ability to negotiate such a testing distance in a manner indicating that he would prove a match for the many sturdy "outers." He will be pitted against on Saturday.

Lowell Amateur Champion To Make Professional Debut on Friday Night

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—At Mello of Lowell, national amateur 47-pound champion, will desert the ranks of the amateur boxers Friday night when he will participate in one of the preliminaries to the Johnny Wilson-Frank Moody bout at Mechanics building, Boston, under the auspices of the Suffolk A.A.U. Under the management of Bobby Goldman of Boston, the popular Lowell boy will be opposed to some worthy opponent to be selected by Manager Tom Goodwin. Who that opponent will be will be known tomorrow, but neither Goldman nor Mello is worrying. The Boston athletic public has a sublime confidence in the Lowell southpaw's ability to tip over any rival that would be pitted against him at this stage of his professional ring career.

Mello, as a ring performer, is probably better known in Boston than in his native city, for of the 60 bouts in which he has engaged during his year and a half of amateur ring work, more than half of them were fought in Greater Boston. He has scored 45 knockouts during his brief career, but his greatest hub triumph was in the Boston arena last spring when he captured the national amateur welterweight title by defeating five opponents, including three champions—John Rini of Cleveland, the reigning king, the Metropolitan champion and the New England titleholder.

His defeat in his third bout at the Olympic championships at Paris was reported to have been a rank injustice, but Mello himself, unhesitatingly acknowledged that his Argentine opponent was a fine boxer, albeit he allowed that the contest was exceedingly close.

Al, who has always trained at the Lisbon club, of which he is a member, will condition himself for his first professional bout at Kelley & Hayes' gymnasium, and it is a certainty that a large delegation from the Spindle City, headed by representatives of the Lisbon club and St. Peter's Cadets, will witness his professional debut.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB MEETING

An interesting talk on the subject of the preservation of the state's fish and game and the putting down of lawless hunting and fishing, featured a regular meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game Club at its quarters in Odd Fellows' building, Middlesex street, last evening.

President James E. Burns called the meeting to order and a number of committee reports were made. The outgoing committee's report was received with great interest and showed that the affair was both a financial and social success.

Secretary James Clark, of the Massachusetts Fish and Game association, was introduced by the president.

Mr. Clark's talk was informal and he called upon club members to voice their sentiments towards proposals which he made. In opening his talk, he told of the drastic depletion of the state's fish and game supply and said that he believed, unless rapid action is taken, this state will be the first in the country to be left without any fish or game.

The lawless hunter, the man who goes with his gun regardless of open or closed seasons and who laws considerably more game than the law allows in season, was termed the cause of the rapid depletion of the state's game supply.

First he spoke of the plan advanced by many sportsmen that each club should have a private hunting ground. This plan, he declared, was not feasible for the ordinary club member on the ground that, while at first the expense would not be great, the early development of the state would have to call for rapidly increasing dues and within a few years the dues would be far more than the ordinary man would care to pay. The result would be, he said, that the reserves would be owned by two or three persons, as is the case in England today.

The only equitable remedy, he advanced, was co-ordinated efforts on the part of club members to put down the lawless hunter. To do this, he continued, the state organization should form a "Guardians Club." Each member of the club, he said, would wear a button plainly marked when he goes into the woods and 15,000 more members of fish and game clubs joined in this club, they could exert a great influence in checking the lawless element by reporting lawbreakers to state authorities.

The psychological effect of a large number of hunters bearing the button showing them to be supporters of law and order in the woods would also have a great result not only in stopping the lawless element, but in winning for the fish and game club sportsmen who love the sport and are anxious to help in any move towards preserving the game supply.

At the close of his talk, members of the club discussed the proposition formally with Mr. Clark and he was called upon to answer many questions concerning the feasibility of the plan.

JAKE DAUBERT IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—Friends of Jacob E. Daubert, first baseman and captain of the Cincinnati Reds, were alarmed last night when word came from the hospital that the veteran infielder had fallen to the floor, as was expected, from a recent operation he underwent for appendicitis, and that his condition was serious.

Dr. Hines, club physician, who operated upon Daubert, said the patient's condition was due to his being in poor physical condition for several months before he entered the hospital.

MARATHON RACE ON THE NORTH COMMON

The North common will be the scene of a 20-mile marathon race next Monday when star athletes will run 35 laps around the streets bordering the common. The race will start promptly at 2:30 p. m. with the following entries: Jim Crowe, Fred Courture, Edward Peters, Joseph Wells, Christy Roddy and Luigi Tricenti of Lawrence. The starter and judges will be announced later.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 20

The captain was just behind the little adventurer and in very short notice they were out of reach of the elephant's trunk. "Oce, I was scared for a minute," laughed Jack. Then the old elephant seemed to realize that he had been fooled and he seized the tree and started shaking it.

"Hang on!" shouted the captain. And Jack put both arms around the high he was perched on. Finally the animal grew tired and he settled down right at the foot of the tree. "Looks like he's going to wait for us," said the captain. "Well, he'll have a long wait," replied Jack.

About a half hour or so had passed when Jack and the captain heard a shot ring out. The elephant immediately got up and looked about. Then another shot blazed forth and the animal snarled back into the woods. "Well, I wonder where those shots came from?" queried Jack. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
A THUP ON THE BLACK NIGHT-MARE

"DID YOU SEE A GNOME CALLED 'TWEAKANOSKI' ASKED NANCY TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT."

Back from Mars to the Moon went Snuggles and the Twins on the white night-mare. Snuggles came first and Nancy next and then Nick.

"Well, did you find Tweakanoski and the lost sleepy sand?" asked the Dream Maker Man when they arrived.

"No, he wasn't on Mars," said the Twins. "We looked everywhere."

"Well, then," said the wise old Dream Maker Man, "well have to look some more. It's almost moon-up down on the earth and the sleepy sand simply must be found."

"I should say so," said the poor Sand Man who was getting discouraged and a little nervous.

"Cheer up, we'll find it!" said the Dream Maker Man heartily. "Twins, you may go with my second son, Snuggles, on his black night-mare, to look for the lost sleepy sand."

"You might have a fine time," said the Sand Man who was really at his wit's end to know what to do. "Tweakanoski must be somewhere."

"Perhaps he's gone down to the earth to put the babies to sleep himself," said Nick.

"Little hope of that," sighed the Sand Man. "I know him too well. The rascal! Time and again I've just gotten a kiddy to sleep when along he'd come and give his nose a tweak and wake it all up again. Then he'd jump out of the window and laugh and laugh on his way back to Gnome-land—as though it was funny!" cried Snuggles, jumping up on his black night-mare and sitting well forward to make room for the Twins.

As soon as they were seated, Nancy in the middle and Nick in last, the magic horse started along the Milky Way to the star called Venus.

Club-a-lub, club-a-lub, club-a-lub went the black mare's hoofs as she galloped through the sky.

At last the Twins and Snuggles came to Venus.

Tap, tap, tap went Snuggles on the great gate in the wall.

"Who's there?" asked a voice. "And what do you want?"

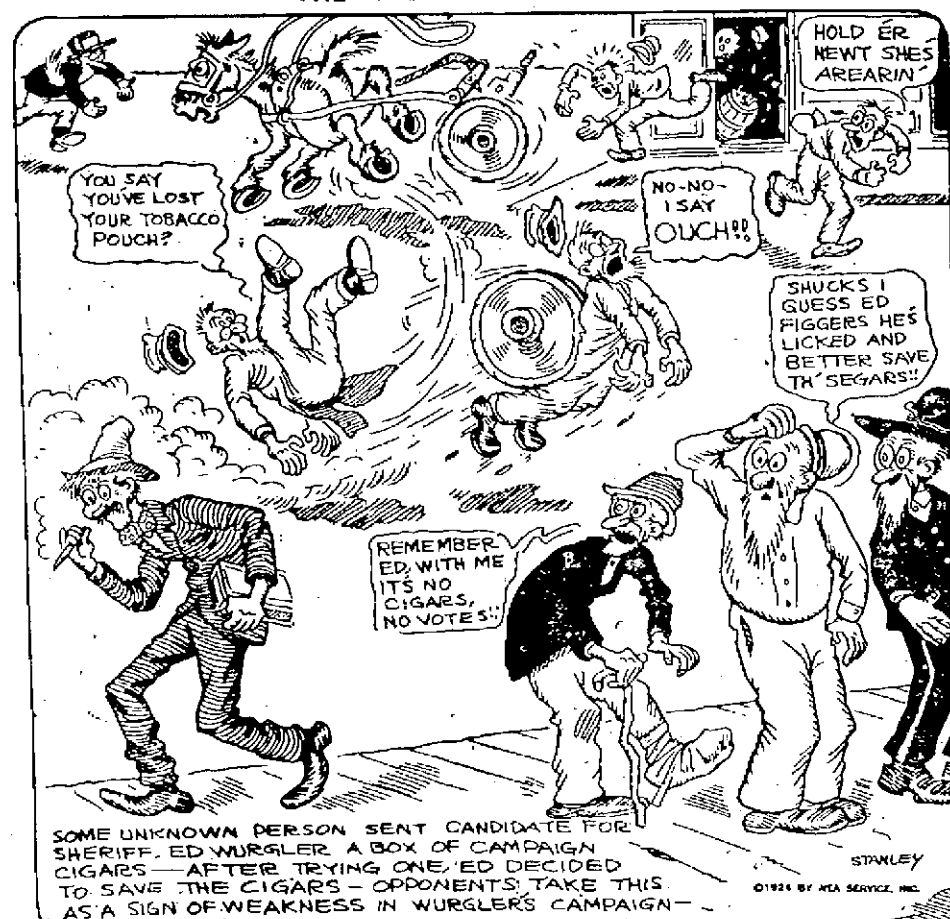

"We're messengers of the Sand Man and we want the bag of sleepy sand," said Snuggles.

"Say the multiplication table back-wards up to ninety," said the voice. And I'll open the gate if you get it right. We're very particular about the people we let in. If you're not good in arithmetic, we don't want you. It's a law of—

But he got no further.

"I'm Jiminy!" said Nick quickly.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

IN NEW YORK

BY STEPHEN HANNIGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—One of the best known hotel managers in New York was born on a farm in Wyoming. O. A. suburn of Cincinnati, was a traveling salesman with the United States as his territory, and entered the hotel business from his ranch home in Welsar, Ida., a town 40 miles from a railway, with a population of 3500 people.

He is Roy Carruthers of the historic Waldorf-Astoria.

Carruthers, who never had any experience in the hotel business, was chosen in 1916 to manage the Palace and Toldern hotels in San Francisco because of his nation-wide acquaintance. He is said personally to know more people than any other man in the land.

In 1918 he first entered business life in New York, managing the opening of the Pennsylvania, with 2200 rooms, the largest hotel in the world.

Three years later he went to the Waldorf, famous to royalty of other shores.

"Ninety per cent of all the people are good people," he says, "but they are more temperamental than a few years ago."

Visitors from the west bring with them on their trips to New York a portion of their home town, which they transplant here, according to Carruthers. Westerners are always natural and never succumb to the strain under which New Yorkers live.

Which New Yorkers live. Carruthers is a large man, with gray hair, in 45 years old, has a pleasing smile, resembling Handel—and a mild voice.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

You are hereby required on or before December 1st, 1924, to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moth on all your property in this city.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 381, Acts of 1908, as amended by Chapter 268, Acts of 1908, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land.

Full instructions as to the best method of work against the moths may be obtained from the local superintendent, John G. Gordon, City Hall, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractor should be inspected and approved by the local superintendent before payment for the same is made.

JOHN J. DONOVAN, Mayor of Lowell.

ON BOARD THE ROOSEVELT TRAIN, AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Oct. 8.—

Adhering to his schedule despite a slightly ailing throat, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, republican nominee for governor, set forth today to make 11 speeches between Amsterdam and Plattsburgh. He was cheered by the receptions he received yesterday at Mohawk and cities in the Hudson and Mohawk valleys, terminating in a meeting that overflowed the Amsterdam opera house and liberally applauded the candidate.

He planned to make short talks today at Ballston Spa, Saratoga Springs, Fort Edwards, Hudson Falls, Glens Falls, Ticonderoga, Crown Point, Port Henry, Westport, Williston and Plattsburgh. At Plattsburgh, where he is due at 7 o'clock tonight, he will leave his train for an evening meeting, spending the night in the city.

Colonel Roosevelt's talks yesterday, most of them brief, were devoted to both national and state topics and covered the same scope as his addresses on Monday.

PROPOSAL FOR $125,000 BRIDGE OVER BEAVER BROOK

City Council Refers Matter to Finance Committee—Charges That Contract for 1000-Gallon Triple Combination Pumping Engine is in "the Bag"

The city council last night voted to refer to the finance committee for immediate action and will vote next Tuesday night on the proposal to appropriate $125,000 for the construction of a bridge over Beaver Brook at Conduit avenue and provide the necessary approaches. Councilors General, Lambert and Chretien sponsored the plan and were endorsed in speeches by Councilors Chadwick, McPadden, and the floor by Councilors McPadden and Congrove. Councilor Sadler thought the amount of money asked quite large but added that he feels such a bridge as planned will cost nearer $200,000 before finally completed. The estimate of City Engineer Kearney calls for $15,000 for the bridge itself and $80,000 for the approaches, the present street level being between 14 and 16 feet below high water mark.

Charges that the contract award for a 1000-gallon triple combination pumping engine for the fire department, bids for which have been opened by the purchasing agent, is "in the bag" were made by Councilors Lambert and Congrove and provoked one of the many startling high lights of the session.

"I learn today," said Mr. Lambert, "that the purchasing agent is advertising for bids for a 1000-gallon per minute pumping engine for the fire department and that bids will be opened in three days. This is a much shorter time than usual, and gives every appearance that the contract is 'in the bag' for someone. I have advertised a 1000-gallon pump for the department for some time and I feel that this hurried advertising is purely meant to preclude the possibility of some firms bidding that might want to bid."

"The contract is right I must believe," said Mr. Congrove. "Like many another thing around here the council has nothing to say about it and you can rest assured it is 'in the bag.'"

Council President Gallagher and Assistant City Clerk William McCarthy find the charter section defining the powers and duties of the purchasing agent, and from there it was learned that while Sec. 23 of the Plan D charter provides two weeks shall elapse, it makes provision that 48 hours is all that is necessary in an emergency. The requisition, made by Chief Saunders nearly two months ago, was endorsed "emergency." It was approved five days ago as an emergency requisition by the mayor.

Purchasing Agent Edward J. Donnelly this morning made a dignified denial that the contract for the 1000 gallon pumping engine is "in the bag," calling attention to the fact that he is advertising for bids, and that he is advertising for bids allows a full two weeks period as is customary and saying the councilors who ranted most last night were either misinformed or had misread their newspapers.

On motion of Councilor Moriarty it was voted that the council ask the board of public service to take all necessary steps to immediately begin the employment of added men as soon as the $75,000 appropriated many weeks ago for sewer main extensions becomes available. Mr. Moriarty stressed the point that the measure was passed as a relief for unemployment.

Councilor Chretien strongly objected to the type of poles being placed by the Lowell Electric Light Corporation in parts of Merrimack street preparatory to having a white line there. On his motion a public hearing was ordered for Oct. 21 and it was voted to ask the utilities corporation to suspend work there until after the hearing.

On motion of Councilor McPadden it was voted to request the city solicitor for an opinion as to the power of the city council to enact a zoning ordinance. One which is to be proposed by the Planning board.

An order appropriating $3,000 to acquire land in Plain street for playground purposes was referred to the finance committee.

A communication was received from the state department of public works stating that the permits for 34 billboards erected in the city expire shortly and advising that protests against renewing the locations for another year must be lodged before Oct. 18. It was voted to refer the 34 separate petitions to the ward councilors and the Planning board and to ask an extension of time for filing protests to Nov. 1.

Councilor Chadwick stated he particularly wishes to protect the land along the new Princeton boulevard from unsightly advertising signs, and other members stated they had similar feelings for this and other localities. The petition of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. for permission to use its street as a garage for the motor buses on the Boston-Lowell line was referred to the chief of the fire department for recommendation.

There being protests to the petition of Pierre Paquette for a license to operate a garage and gasoline pump at 218 Appleton street and to the request of the Electric Light company for permission to install additional poles in Butman road, these requests were taken under advisement, individual councilors being assigned to conduct official investigations of the surrounding circumstances and make reports thereon. Councilor Chadwick could not muster enough votes to take from the picnic holes of the finance committee an unreported order to provide $18,000 for the John L. Durkin playground. He announced his intention of renewing his efforts at next Tuesday night's meeting if the committee does not report the order out for action.

V. J. Murphy was unanimously given permission to conduct a lunch cart at Fletcher street and Broadway.

The administration measure providing that $1,928.72 be taken from the Morey playground fund and used for meeting claims incurred in establishing other playgrounds was amended by Mr. Duly to provide the money be taken from the prior revenue account and passed in the altered form. Messrs. Lambert, Congrove and General John Councilor Daly in his move, Mr. Gallagher favoring the holding in abeyance of any action. After debate the vote to substitute the "prior revenue" for "Morey" playground" unanimously passed.

Drawing Jurors
Jurors for the November sessions of the superior criminal court were drawn as follows by Messrs. Fitzgould and Chadwick:
Harry O. Mulino, 321 Boylston street; Samuel Smith, 6 Burns street; Frank J. Danahy, 59 Agawamp street; James H. Donahue, 46 Coral street; John J. Devnan, 307 Thorndike street; William A. Santos, 333 Central street; James A. Taylor, 151 Elm street; Samuel H. Harvey, 4 Runnels place; Frederick H. Desmond, 155 Stackpole street.

MAN WANTED FOR SHOOTING ARRESTED

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 8.—John DeLice, wanted by Addison county authorities for shooting John Lessor, a fellow workman, at Ferrisburg Monday, was captured near Burlington late this morning and lodged in jail here. DeLice made no attempt to resist the officers and was carried to the jail in Burlington on Tuesday, adding that he had even been in the same store yesterday afternoon with Sheriff Todd who made the arrest today.

Lessor who has many buckshot wounds in his body is in a local hospital and will probably recover.

CALLS ON BANK DIRECTOR TO PAY $100,000

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Henry O. Cushman, liquidating agent of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company, filed a petition in the supreme court today asking that Patrick H. Angier be compelled to pay in full a balance of $100,000 under an agreement to compromise for $150,000 his indebtedness to the Cosmopolitan Trust Company.

The liquidating agent says that on receipt of this money due from Mr. Angier, on his liability as director against other substantial dividend will promptly be paid depositors of the Cosmopolitan.

MATRIMONIAL

Tracy—Fitzpatrick
Mr. Thomas P. Tracy and Miss Catherine L. Fitzpatrick were united in marriage Monday at St. Michael's rectory by Rev. Aloysius G. Madden. Mr. George Gookin and Miss Mary R. Fitzpatrick attended the bridal party. The bride wore a gown of brown tulle with hat to match and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. The bridesmaids wore tan dresses with hats to match and carried pink roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Beech street where a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy are now in New York and Washington and upon their return they will make their home in this city.

Lawrence Brewery Case Before Commissioner Walsh

John W. Morrill and Walter V. Goodrich offered testimony to the effect that the automobile driven by the defendant was stopped by them after leaving the Cold Spring plant and 24 bottles of beer were seized. On a test the beer showed an alcoholic content of 5.22 per cent, they testified.

Cross examined by Atty. James A. Donovan of Lawrence, the agents admitted that at no time previous to the time the Rathgeb automobile was stopped and seized did they have positive knowledge that the liquid therein was in variance with the prohibition laws. Atty. Donovan quoted supreme court decisions on similar cases, tending to show that federal officers, without warrants, have no right to stop and conduct a search without having positive knowledge beforehand that said car contains contraband.

Commissioner Walsh said he was strongly inclined to discharge the defendant at once, but desired a few days to consider the case.

The only witness in the Loeschner case was Agent James M. Kemp, who admitted to Atty. J. C. Toomey of Lawrence, counsel for the defendant, that he sometimes was known as "Morrow." The commission ordered the warrant quashed for the reason that no proof was offered to show the alcoholic content of the beer said to have been purchased by Kemp from Loeschner in April. After hearing the testimony, Commissioner Walsh discharged the defendant.

Frederick M. Frawley Elected President of Lowell Holy Cross Club

WORCESTER, Oct. 8.—Frederick M. Frawley, son of Police Lieut. Patrick Frawley and a member of the senior class at Holy Cross college, was elected president of the Lowell club at a meeting held here yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected, all residents of Lowell, were: Vice president, Walter L. Donahue, a junior; secretary, John K. McKenna, a junior; and treasurer, James J. Henry, another member of the junior class.

Plans for the annual formal dance, given each year at Lowell during the Christmas holidays, were discussed and it was voted to hold the affair in the Memorial Auditorium.

BOARD GIVES HEARING, IN LUNCH CART CASE

A hearing on the petition of James McGarran to conduct a lunch-cart business in Hurd street was held before the license commission at its regular meeting last night. The hearing was brought about by a counter-petition signed by 25 members of the First Universalist church, also located in Hurd street, requesting a revocation of the license which was granted to McGarran in September. He formerly conducted his business on the north side of the street, when the Lowell Co-operative bank purchased the property. Mr. McGarran then removed to the south side of the street, on land owned by Albert E. O'Brien. This transfer was originally granted by the commission.

The list of remonstrants from the First Universalist church is headed by Mark A. Adams. At the hearing, letters were presented from the City Institution for Savings, and the Appleton National bank, both requesting revocation. The Lowell Co-operative bank was represented by Attorney Frank W. Qua, and the First Universalist church by Atty. Eugene F. Hunt. Attorney Thomas Reynolds represented the license.

Charles C. Drew, treasurer, and Francis E. Angleton, president, of the Lowell Co-operative bank testified to conditions of the new property acquired by their bank, and the effect a lunch-cart would have on it. They stated that the cart, as now situated, is not being operated with proper equipment, and that the latest of St. Paul's dock McKinnon, a trustee of St. Paul's church, also spoke against the granting of the license.

For the license, Patrolmen Michael Sullivan and John J. Linnane testified that they have patrolled the street for a number of years and have had a complaint about the lunch-cart. Mr. McGarran and Mr. O'Brien also were heard. McGarran stated he has done business in Hurd street for 13 years.

Attorney Reynolds requested the commission to continue the hearing until next Tuesday, and it was so voted.

LA FOLLETTE STRONG WEST OF CHICAGO

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—George E. Brennan, democratic leader in Illinois, is in New York in an effort to make state to speak in Chicago on Oct. 15. In an interview, Mr. Brennan said: "In the election were held today, it would be thrown into the house." He declared Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, that he and easterners do not realize the La Follette strength west of Chicago.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT

The musical entertainment at the meeting of the Lowell Teachers' organization to be held tomorrow afternoon at the high school, will be given by Miss Ruth Harris, a talented contralto, singing the numbers which she will sing are "Coming Home," "The Gypsy Whimsy," "Take This Little Roundup," J. Pierre Connor; "I Passed by Your Window," Mary Brahe; and "Just Been Wondering," R. E. Canning.

PIRATES LOOT CHINESE SHIP

30 Boarded Vessel at Shanghai—Took Possession and Seized $300,000

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—(By the Associated Press) More than thirty passengers who boarded the Chinese steamer Ningshin here Oct. 2 for Foochow, revealed themselves pirates and took possession of the vessel near Wenchow, off Foochow. They compelled the captain, O. Torgerson, to sail to an isolated inlet near Hong Kong, where they looted the ship, seizing $300,000 in Chinese currency.

When the steamer was seized at Hsia bay, less than 30 miles from Hong Kong and a known rendezvous of pirates, they put off in lighters. The captain sailed for Amoy, where he arrived yesterday. He is proceeding to Foochow.

Among the foreign passengers were three holding round-trip tickets whose names were not listed in the Shanghai office of the company. The other four were Mrs. N. Overholt, C. H. Bartlett, R. Hightower and L. Brown.

Sept. 18. About a week ago, it was thought he had been captured in Auburn, Me., the police of that city, believing he was the man they arrested as Thomas Drinkwater for the theft of golf balls from an Auburn country club. It developed that Drinkwater was not the man, and Faustino was at large until last night.

The lodging house in Lawrence where the couple were arrested is situated in Essex street, in the heart of the busy business district. For several days, the Lawrence authorities had been keeping a close watch on the premises where the girl was seen entering the house on numerous occasions, suspicion revolved about her as the girl wanted here in connection with Faustino's disappearance.

Satisfied that the clue was a tangible one, Capt. Pettie, in company with two down-river policemen, he proceeded to the lodging house. The proprietor of the hotel was prevailed upon to knock at the door. This he did and when the girl was reported, the officers hurried in. Faustino was there, but was so overcome with surprise that he scarcely made a move.

Capt. Pettie immediately notified police headquarters here of the catch, and Chauncey James Stanley moved to Lawrence with Sgt. Peter McMahon and Inspector John Walsh. The prisoner was handcuffed to the inspector and arrived in Lowell about 10:30 o'clock. Capt. Pettie came down the road in a motor car, and the police station subjected the suspect to a severe grilling.

Faustino stubbornly refused to admit any implication in the crime, but the police believed they had sufficient evidence to hold him, and he was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill, the same charge as that preferred against Souza, the first arrested party.

Mr. Peabody, the victim of the assault, in recuperating rapidly at his home in Stowee street and it is felt that he will be able to appear in court on Saturday to testify against his alleged assailants.

END OF LONG LONG TRAIL

Three Members of Mounted Police Travel 1000 Miles of Untamed Canada

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Oct. 8.—The end of a long, long trail which three members of the Royal Northwest Mounted police have been following since early in June, and which has led them through more than a thousand miles of the untamed northland of Canada where canoes and pack dogs were the only means of transportation, was almost in sight yesterday when the three men here aboard the steamship Princess Alice for Vancouver with five Indian prisoners.

The Indians, said to be virtually savages, are charged with the murder of a 17-year-old Indian boy whom other members of his tribe suspected of practicing witchcraft. According to the story told, the boy was hanged, head down, to drive out the evil spirit, and when this failed he was hit down and stoned to death. A young girl of the tribe, likewise suspected of witchery, is said to have been suspended for three days and nights by one foot and one hand, as a result of which she is crippled.

The prisoners subsist chiefly on meat regarding bread with suspicion.

ACTION OF TORT CASE IS GIVEN TO JURY TODAY

The action of tort being tried out in superior civil court here as result of an automobile fatality in Middlesex street last February which caused the death of O. Adolf Forsberg, went to the jury this afternoon. Eva H. M. Forsberg, administratrix, is the plaintiff, and Earl O. Lyson of Middlesex village, the defendant. The ad damnum is $10,000.

The plaintiff alleges the defendant was operating his car in a negligent manner. Yesterday afternoon while the Lyson jury was out on a view, a jury was empaneled to hear a Boston Elevated case involving suit by a Somerville woman, who seeks to recover for alleged injuries received when the car on which she was a passenger stopped suddenly and threw her to the floor. This case is next on the trial list.

DEAR MOTHER
"I know George and Alice both need Cod Liver Oil—and need it badly as all thin, suary, and weak people do. It gives me the most horrible shivers just to think of them taking the horrible stuff."
"Instead of the nasty tasting, vile smelling oil itself, why don't you go to date and give them McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets? It's the new way to take Cod Liver Oil—they are as easy to take as candy—won't upset their stomachs and surely do help sick, listless people to get well again."
"Have pity on the poor kids, mother, and take my advice—you can get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets from Green's Drug Store, A. W. Dows & Co., and Fred Howard's, or any real drug store—and 10 tablets cost only 60 cents. Be sure and get McCoy's. The sick kiddies to grow strong and robust."
Love to all, hastily—Lansette.
